

WAR DEAD ARE PAID HONOR AT GARFIELD PARK

Asa J. Smith Is Speaker at Service Star Legion Memorial.

"To those whose memory we today honor we pay tribute as having contributed the greatest of sacrifices for the common welfare of our common country and of humanity."

With this verbal wreath for the warrior dead and with a plea for more law enforcement and support for the government of the United States, Asa J. Smith, attorney, gave the chief address at the memorial services today in the Grove of Remembrance at Garfield park.

Flags were placed on 387 memory trees by school children at the conclusion of the services which were held under auspices of the Hamilton-Berry chapter of the Service Star Legion.

Bugler Calls Assembly

The rites opened at 2 p. m. with assembly call of a bugler.

The Manual Training high school band furnished the music, with the Rev. Ira C. Dawes, pastor of the Friends church, giving the invocation.

Children of school No. 18 sang "Trees" and schools No. 34 and 35 sang patriotic airs.

In his address Smith said: "Neither hatred of war nor love of peace should motivate our actions, but the determination to maintain and preserve organized society upon a basis which will insure justice and liberty."

More Strong Arm

"We need more, not less, of the strong arm of authority, a strengthened police system and judiciary to oppose and eliminate criminals and their tendencies to destroy our institutions."

A bugler's "taps" concluded the services.

YEAR PROBATION IS ORDERED FOR TOY GUN BANDIT

Vera Wood Must Not Drink, Smoke, Swear or Ride in Auto, Judge's Edict.

Miss Vera Wood, 17, former Shortridge high school pupil, today started a one-year probation period by order of Juvenile Judge John F. Geckler, who found her guilty of holding up eleven persons with a toy pistol.

After several weeks in the hospital, Miss Wood was brought into juvenile court Thursday afternoon and ordered to obey four probation rules.

She must not drink, smoke, swear or ride in an automobile with any one except members of her family during probation.

The courtroom practically was empty when she appeared. Only her mother, court attaches and reporters heard Geckler's ruling in the case.

Miss Wood's neat and trim appearance contrasted strongly with her first arraignment in court. She smiled happily when the court declared her only punishment would be probation.
