

Republican Women Will Meet Friday

Mrs. Frank J. Lahr, president of the state board of directors of the Indiana Council of Republican Women, will open the morning session of the state convention at 9:30 on June 10 at the Columbia Club.

Registration of members and guests will start at 9.

Following organization of the convention, Mrs. Charles M. Dawson, chairman of the Marion county council, will give greetings, and Mrs. Robert A. Dennis, chairman of hostesses, will respond.

The reading and formal adoption of the constitution of the Indiana Council of Republican Women will precede a short business session.

At 11, the president's message will be delivered, with Mrs. T. J. Louden, second vice-president, presiding. Reports will be given by the educational program committee and the council magazine committee. Speakers on the morning program will include:

Mrs. Frank Donner, director of Republican Clubs; Mrs. Frank D. Hatfield, speakers bureau and publicity; and Mrs. Frances S. Reynolds, assistant to state field work.

Others to speak are:

Miss Dorothy Cunningham, national committee woman of Indiana; Harry G. Leslie, governor of Indiana; Ivan C. Morgan, state Republican chairman; Mrs. J. P. Holland, state Republican vice-chairman; and Mrs. W. Boucher, national speakers bureau and first vice-president of the Indiana council.

The luncheon will be held at 12:30 in the ballroom of the club. Mrs. Lahr will preside and Mrs. Felix T. McWhirter will give the invocation.

Features of the afternoon program which will be called to order at 1:30 will include musical numbers by the women's chorus, speeches by the candidates for state offices, who were nominated during the two preceding days in the state Republican convention, a solo by Mrs. Fred S. Purnell of Attica and an address by Senator James E. Watson.

A state council board meeting will be called for a brief session at the close of the convention to plan for the second state council convention to be held in Indianapolis Oct. 4 and 5.

Other members of the board are:

Mrs. Elizabeth Boucher, Valparaiso; Mrs. Theodore J. Louden, Bloomington; Mrs. Robert A. Dennis, Indianapolis; Mrs. John H. Hunsaker, Greencastle; Mrs. Lawrence F. Orr, Indianapolis; Mrs. Bertha A. Zimmerman, Terre Haute; Mrs. William F. Hodges, Gary; Mrs. Noel Neal, Noblesville; Mrs. Elizabeth Paul, Cambridge City; Mrs. Leo Ella Cox, Gary; Mrs. Mabel Parrett, Redman; Mrs. Thomas J. Brooks, Bedford; Mrs. Florence A. Roache, Richmond; Mrs. Frank D. Hatfield, Indianapolis.

A pre-convention women and men's committee composed of Mesdames D. Hatfield, H. B. Pike, John F. Enckel, Dan Brown Jr., Mae Marcum Jacobs, L. P. Hishler, Thomas C. Whalen, John McCarty, Fred S. Robinson and Bert Fuller, have raised funds to defray expenses of the convention.

The following committees have been appointed for the meeting:

What's in Fashion? Evening Dress Can Be Washed

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, June 4.—Think of having an evening dress you can drop into the family wash knowing it will come out as fresh, as smart, as perfect as when brand new. Sounds different, doesn't it, from the usual delicate, perishable evening frock?

Well—that's exactly what you can do with some of this summer's smartest little evening numbers. Because they're made of sensible cotton.

So three cheers for cotton evening dresses. For the piques—yes, the same good old sturdy piques that go into your sports dresses, or the newer dropstitch pique. They're tailored into smooth-fitting, figure-molding, sophisticated dresses.

Ruffy Dresses Popular

Three cheers, too, for those quaint ruffy dresses of crisp organdie (plain, printed or embroidered), tucked dimity, eyelet bastiste and tuckered cotton net.

If you've seen Nora Gregor, diminutive screen blonde, you know how adorable crisp organdie can be on a slim, youthful figure like hers.

Her organdie has a perky peplum over a skirt that's closely fitted through the hips and sweeps out below the knees in a floor touching flounce. The edges are embroidered in big eyelets.

With it goes a wee bolero of organdie, fastened close to the throat, and with enormous puff sleeves. We wouldn't recommend tubbing a dress like this, because it would be too hard to iron the big puff sleeves. But many organdies can be tubbed if you're careful.

Stay Crisp Longer

Modern ones have a finish that stay crisp longer, and with a bit of starch put in them and ironed wet, their ruffles will stand out as bravely after their bath as before.

You can thank Chanel and Schiaparelli for starting the fashion for pique evening dresses. Their white piques were features of the early season Paris presentations.

Now many other couturiers are following their example. And the younger set of wearers has taken to this fashion with shouts of joy. Not only because of their practicality, but because cottons are essentially youthful. Also because cotton for evening is a new and rather daring idea. And that's what the young folks like.

The sketch shows the kind of pique evening dress these smart young folks prefer. See how simply—almost severely—it's tailored.

Simple, Almost Severe

Flowers over the shoulders are Chanel's idea and these ragged-looking ones made of the same pique as the dress are the popular kind.

Some pique dresses are made with square necklines and some with V's. Some are cut away down to the waistline in back. Some are trimmed with rows of buttons that make the dress look even more tailored.

Tucked Dimity Dress

It took a new American designer to think of using tucked dimity for evening. Of course you've heard of Elizabeth Hawes, who took her things to Paris and showed the French women what's what in America.

She's designed a tucked dimity evening dress that fits tight through the hips and flares out below. It's worn with a little cape sleeved jacket of the dimity.

Ruffled shoulders and cape shoulders—they're particularly smart in the organdie, nets and dimities. And usually dresses of these cottons are fuller skirted than the piques.

White or pale pastels are the

CHAPLAIN

Alpha Tau chapter, Phi Pi Psi sorority, will sponsor the organization's annual state founders' day dinner-dance tonight at the Highland Golf and Country Club. Miss Phyllis McClain is chaplain of the sorority.

Marriage of Miss Charlotte Zeller, daughter of Mrs. Charles Zeller, Brazil, to Waldorf Smith Taylor, Rayville, La., took place Thursday afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal church. The couple was attended by Miss Lucille Zeller, sister of the bride, as maid of honor; Mrs. Jack Lenari, Brazil; Misses Mary Friz, Terre Haute; Nell Cook, Indianapolis, and Helen Woolf, Brazil, bridesmaids. Ushers were James C. Scanlon, Indianapolis; Ted Schrepperman, Jack Casey and Emanuel Miller, Brazil. William Zeller of Indianapolis was best man.

MISS HARKEMA IS HEAD OF SORORITY

Miss Anna Harkema was installed as president of the Epsilon chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority at the installation banquet Thursday night at the Washington. Others taking office were:

Miss Grace Jendr, vice-president; Miss Lucille Alexander, recording secretary; Mrs. Lillian Sandstrom, corresponding secretary; Miss Clara Kirkhof, treasurer; and Miss Louise Kuhn, editorial director.

MISS MARIE MOCK IS PARTY GUEST

Fifty guests attended the party given Thursday night by Mrs. Mose Kennington at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Mock, 1228 North Dearborn street, in honor of her sister, Miss Marie Mock, whose marriage to Timothy Lenahan will take place June 8 at St. Philip Neri church.

Favorite evening cotton colors. But there's a fashion, too, for orange and orange red. And you'll find these colors particularly exciting in the cottons.

Grograin and cre ribbons in pastel colors generally make the girdles on these swank new cotton evening dresses.

Girl Reserve Notes

Girl Scout headquarters, 512 Board of Trade building, will be open from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 5 in the afternoon, beginning Monday.

Mothers of troop No. 6, Mrs. Medlicott, captain, held their court of awards at the last meeting at the old Girl Scout camp May 25. A compass and magnifying glass was awarded to Sarah Lindley for selling the most cookies. A treasure hunt, refreshments, games and songs and good-night circle marked the end of the hike.

"Desert Island" directed and planned by Nora Schiltges and Constance Lewis, was a new game for troop No. 23, to test their ability to meet emergencies, and also provided enjoyable recreation. Martha Halton's patrol won the "Pirate Gold."

Troop No. 28 held its last meeting of the year on the banks of Fall creek where members had a picnic supper and stunts by each patrol.

Troop No. 36, Mrs. Ruth Stiles, captain, will go on a hike Wednesday. This will be the last meeting of the year.

Members of troop No. 39, Mrs. Irene Hill, captain, will hold a swimming party at Longacre for their last meeting of the year.

Troop No. 12 held its last meeting of the year May 27. Two girls will be sent to Camp Dellwood on troop scholarships.

Troop No. 7, Mrs. Shearer, captain, at its meeting Thursday, May 26, had a picnic supper, after which members enjoyed their court awards, songs and games.
