

SUPER-CABINET PLAN REJECTED

Raskob Proposal Is Given
Brief Consideration.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee has laid before leaders of both parties a proposal for an emergency coalition cabinet to function with extraordinary powers during the congressional adjournment.

The United Press was informed by senators to whom the plan was broached that it had been given brief consideration and rejected. Raskob is said to have proposed that the super-cabinet consists of the present cabinet, representatives of the house and senate and a number of prominent Democrats.

Republicans would have had a majority. Owen D. Young was named by Raskob as one Democrat who should be included in the extraordinary setup.

Such men as Alfred E. Smith, James M. Cox, Newton D. Baker, Bernard Baruch and John W. Davis also would have represented the nonoffice holding democracy around the cabinet table. President Hoover recently repudiated the super-cabinet idea.
