Wardrobe for Business Girl Should Be Selected With Care and Taste

THE business of keeping cool and collected in office life depends to a great extent on the clothes you wear, according to heads of the Katharine Gibbs school, which is devoted to turning out secretaries—perfect in appearance and letter perfect in performance.

A smart appearance pays in a decidedly higher wage for experienced as well as inexperienced business women and is a well recognized factor in getting a job.

To make dressing on a salary thoroughly practical, this school shops for suitable clothes at prices that are budgeted carefully within the beginner's salary.

A business wardrobe this summer might include, according to the Gibbs Budgeteers, the three outfits shown in these pictures.

First, the navy blue and white printed dimity (left) with the bow. The purse is white and is patent leather, so that when it gets dirty it may be washed.

The gloves are fabric so that they may be quickly washed and dried by morning. The hat is a navy blue rough straw which can be worn with a silk outfit as well.

Every one has a silk office dress, and most business women are especially fond of polka dots.

A dress, center, has shoulder epaulettes and tiny organdie cuffs with a hand rolled edge. The bow at the neck is of organdie too—quickly laundered and replaced with minimum trouble.

Silk Ensemble Good

Then for the special best workaday costume that may be worn on those nights when the tired business woman dines with the tired business man there is this silk ensemble (right) comprising a coat with cape sleeves and a dress of black and white printed silk. The crepe coat, unlined, may be worn over other dresses, too.

When short-sleeved dresses are worn, long sleeves must be added to the costume.

There are some fashions which the business woman must take and many that she must leave alone. For instance, the all-white costume. Fashionable as it is, the office worker will find that it is more trouble than it is worth.

Laundry work must be done almost every night, if it is to appear spotless and fresh. Soiled and mussed white dresses are, of course, reason enough for putting even an efficient stenographer on the firing line.

Summer Dress Hints

Perishable trimmings like feathers and white flowers on hats hardly withstand being caught in more than one summer shower.

Remember in purchasing shoes that light leathers and light fabrics are not advocated for economical dressing. Hosiery should be bought in three-pair lots. There's a non-wrinklable linen that is recommended for office wear in dark colors.

Chiffons for office wear are decidedly unapproved. Tailored sheers are, however, suggested for hot weather.

Among the don'ts for business women is found the fashion of red finger nails. Jewelry if it is elaborate is also forbidden.

Cosmetics may be used wisely, but not too much, which shows the change in the secretary of today and the secretary of before the war.

Lawrence Girl Is Wedded in Church Service

Miss Pauline Plummer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Plummer of Lawrence, was married Sunday afternoon to George W. McDaniels, son of Martin L. McDaniels, in the chapel of the Grace M. E. church. The Rev. B. Brooks Shaker read the ceremony.

The bride wore a pink chiffon and lace dress with blue velvet girdle. Her accessories were of blue and she carried a shower bouquet of Joanna Hill roses and delphinium.

Miss Plummer was graduated from Butler university and is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mr. McDaniels attended Butler university and Washington university in St. Louis.

—WHAT'S IN FASHION—

Bathing Suits Far Cry From 90s

Directed by AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, June 13.—The flapping-skirted bathers of the nineties would reach out limp hands for their smelling salts if they were confronted with the beachfuls of 1932 swimmers we'll be seeing this summer. "Bathers" and "swimmers" expresses it. For if you're going to crawl and dive in the modern manner, you want a 1932 suit that's meant for business.

Snug, short, low-to-nothingness in the back, with not an inch to flap or bulge. Anita Page, lovely screen star, wears a suit that's not only backless, but also cut out port-hole fashion under the arms.

All the suits are so brief that you'd wonder how the designers could do anything with what's left of them. They've done plenty.

Back Buttons Up

Like crossing "suspenders" straps over entirely bare backs. Or making a back that can be worn low or buttoned up high when you're had enough sunbathe.

The one-piece, tiny-skirted suit is launching on a busy summer. Newer is the mailot (pronounced my-o), the one-piece suit which has no skirt unless it puts on a separate one over its shorts, as does the suit sketched.

Fashion's two - in - one complex shows up here, too. For lots of these little extra skirts are circular and may be slung cape-like over your shoulders.

Capes aren't the only dress detail that bathing suits have appropriated, either.

Makes Waists Look Slimmer

We've noticed suits with fine diagonal tuckings and seamings, making the waists look even slimmer. And some of them have twisted belts and girdles.

Another way suits have taken a tip from dresses is in the materials. You'll see the usual jersey ones, often ribbed . . . but lots of them are smartly hand knit, or in meshy wools in new wavy-line effects or boucle weaves.

Ribbed or meshy effects make particularly good-looking white suits. (And white suits, by the way, are made double or lined this year.)

Blues, so plentiful on the street, are migrating to the beach also. And reds signal attention wherever you look . . . especially the lovely new raspberry shade. Green and tangerine have their supporters, too. Used solidly, or in the "white-and" combinations that so many women like.

When these active, trim suits drip out of the waves to park or promenade on the sand, skirts or slacks are pulled over them. Or maybe a cozy terry robe.

Feet slip into get sandals or those amusing wooden sabots. Floppy-brimmed hats spread a protective tent over sun-tanned faces. And you can't make up your mind whether these 1932 mermaids look slicker bathing or basking!

Strikingly, Radically New Phantom* Kotex

SANITARY NAPKIN (U. S. Pat. No. 1,857,854)

Most Important Improvement in sanitary protection since the invention of Kotex itself in 1920.

AT LAST! A radically new design in sanitary protection. You are scarcely aware that you have it on. Made, of course, by Kotex—originators of the modern sanitary napkin.

It is called PHANTOM* KOTEX. Why? Because the ends are so flattened and tapered that it leaves no outlines even under the closest-fitting of gowns. Not the slightest bulk suggested even under the filmiest of summer silks. And—for those who require extra protection—Super-Phantom Kotex is ideal.

There's extra protective surface but the ends are so skilfully flattened as to be completely inconspicuous.

Kotex features retained

The special Kotex features you have always appreciated are retained, of course. It is soft after hours of use; wonderfully absorbent; treated to deodorize; can be worn, with equal protection, on either side; disposable, easily.

More than 24 million pads were used in hospitals alone last year.

Insist upon getting genuine Kotex, when you buy it already wrapped. Each tapered end of the new pad is stamped "Kotex" now—so you can't get inferior substitutes.

Kotex prices are today the lowest in Kotex history. This new improvement comes to you at no increase in price. All dealers have the new PHANTOM KOTEX.

HOW SMALL I TELL MY DAUGHTER?

Many a mother wonders. Now you simply hand your daughter the little booklet entitled, "Marjorie May's Twelfth Birthday." For free copy, address Mary Pauline Callender, Room 2140, 180 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

NOTE: Kotex—now at your dealer's—marked "Form-Fitting" is the new Phantom Kotex

The new Kotex is called PHANTOM* KOTEX because—*you scarcely realize you are wearing it!

No revealing outlines—The new PHANTOM* KOTEX is so flattened and tapered that its ends are completely inconspicuous.

Greater security—The smooth, snug fit gives greater wearing ease than you've ever before experienced.

Lastingly soft—disposable—The same softness and absorbency for which Kotex is famous. Disposable always.

New Kotex Belt, narrow, adjustable, only 35¢—Wear it with the new PHANTOM KOTEX. The combination makes for complete ease, for completely inconspicuous protection.
