

SWIFT SENATE DEFEAT LOOMS FOR BONUS BILL

Finance Committee Returns
Unfavorable Vote on Patman Measure.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 16.—A senatorial vote on the $2,400,000,000 Patman bonus bill was prevented today when Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem., Okla.) objected to a unanimous consent agreement for an immediate ballot.

Previously the finance committee had reported the bill unfavorably, and Chairman Reed Smoot pressed for a vote.

The house passed the measure Wednesday, 209 to 176, and today hundreds of members of the "bonus expeditionary forces" went to the senate gallery to watch the fate of the measure.

Thomas asked for postponement of the vote until Friday, so he would have opportunity to study the bill.

The finance committee's unfavorable vote was 14 to 2, committee members said.

Amendment Is Planned

The bill as passed by the house provides for issuance of $2,400,000,000 of unsecured currency to pay off in full the World War compensation certificates which, under present law, mature in 1945. A similar amount of bonds would be issued.

When and if the purchasing power of the dollar declined to the 1926 level, the bonds would be sold. The proceeds would be used to retire the new currency.

Either in the senate committee or on the floor, an amendment will be offered requiring veterans seeking the bonus payment to show their need for it. It is believed this would reduce the proposed total payments materially.

Campers Soaked Through

Officials and police hoped definite and final action on the bonus would demonstrate to the tattered army of veterans the futility of their mission and would start a general exodus.

The weather was on the side of the police. A heavy thunderstorm, following three days of an intermittent drizzle, poured through the grass and old canvas roofs of crude shelters built by thousands of veterans in a national park. The camp grounds became a quagmire. The campers were soaked through.

Police were disappointed, however, that only 100 men took advantage Wednesday of the offer of free transportation home. Bonus army leaders claimed 950 men recruits, mostly from Brooklyn, N. Y., and Pennsylvania points.

Police Chief Pelham D. Glascow had denied any intention of using force to expel the visitors. A retired general, he has frequently come to the support of the veterans when their welfare was endangered. He looks after their now dwin-

Hoosiers Rally to Repeal Cause

All set to whoop things up for the wet cause at the Republican convention are these leaders of the Indiana delegation, rallying for the demonstration Wednesday night. Left to right, are: Courier Har-

RESIDES ALONE WITH HIS WIFE

But Husband Must Leave
If Mate Says So.

CROOKS USE FIRM'S DRILL TO OPEN SAFE

Break in and Find Implements to Cut Way Into Strong Box.

Yeggs who gained entrance to the Indianapolis Building and Supply Company, 34 South Capitol avenue, early today found implements to use in their attempt to rob the company's safe.

The company's electric drill was used in an effort to gain entrance into the safe, W. K. Smith, manager, reported to police.

Smith said he did not know if anything of value had been taken, as the safe could not be opened by him due to the battering it received from the yeggs.

Police believe entrance to the building was gained by climbing down a fire escape of the Salvation Army hotel and breaking into the structure.

ALL HOOK'S DRUG STORES

—Advertisement.

THE ITCH (SCABIES)

It's a constant torment will continue for 10 to 12 months.

EXSORA kills the parasite (itch-mite) almost instantly. Three days ends it. Get complete EXSORA treatment at once.

ALL HOOK'S DRUG STORES

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her hus-

band's meals or suddenly turn him out of the house.

Meanwhile, Kinnan is bound by court order not to say anything to worry or do anything to molest his wife.

He eats food paid for by court order, designed to keep the family together pending divorce action.

The rent also is paid by Kinnan. He, too, must pay $20 weekly support for his wife and three children.

On basis of cruel treatment, charging her husband is quarrelsome and abusive, Mrs. Kinnan seeks divorce and $5,000 alimony.

Kinnan's attorney, James D. Ernston, told the court the scheme to keep the family under one roof would not succeed.

"I doubt it, too," Judge Kern replied, "but they shall try."

She can refuse to cook her husband's