

BLOOD FLOWS IN PERU CITY HELD BY REDS

Murder, Lynching, Looting
Arson Rampant Before
Rebels Are Routed.

By United Press
LIMA, Peru, July 12.—Reports of murder, lynching, looting and arson during occupation of the city of Trujillo, Peru, by Communist rebels, were brought here today by eye-witnesses to the federal troops' recapture of the city.

Witnesses said that civil guards were stripped and lynched in public squares, and that young daughters of Pedro Lariva, prefect of Trujillo, were murdered in their home.

Kidnap Leading Citizens

The streets of Trujillo were filled with dead and wounded, the eye-witnesses said.

The rebels found ambush on roofs of private houses, and in parapets, church towers and office buildings.

The rebels let the federal troops enter the city unmolested, then opened fire from their concealed positions, and started conflagrations by prearranged signals.

Officers and several men of the first artillery, stationed at Trujillo, were carried off when the rebels fled from the city. Several prominent residents of Trujillo were missing after the rebel evacuation and their fate was unknown.

Pursued by Planes

Colonel Ruiz Bravo, commander-in-chief of the northern army, and his aid, Lieutenant Manuel Escalante, had a narrow escape when rebels fired on them from house tops.

Colonel Bravo ordered two army planes to bomb the rebels on the house tops, and the snipers and their nests were blown away.

Federal troops completed the occupation of Trujillo early Monday, and airplanes pursued the rebels outside the city.

Brazil Fights Revolt

By United Press
RIO DE JANEIRO, July 12.—The Brazilian government dispatched forces by land and sea today to quell a military revolt in the rich and powerful state of Sao Paulo, while support of the government was assured from two states claimed by the rebels, Rio Grande do Sul and Minas Geraes.

Provisional President Getulio Vargas said in a manifesto he would never capitulate to the rebels' demands, but would give them the opportunity to abandon the "foolish struggle."

Sao Paulo lies between Rio Grande on the south and Minas Geraes on the north.

It was reported that the two state governments were prepared to send troops against the rebels.

Meanwhile, the cruiser Rio Grande do Sul sailed from here under forced draft for Santos, famous "coffee port," with 800 soldiers aboard.

The government offered the rebels all facilities for settling their dispute by arbitration.

The rebels continued in control of the Sao Paulo garrison and distributed arms and ammunition to civilians supporting them.

Hoover Wants Eight Reconstruction Finance Directors.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Hoover has asked congress to enlarge the directorate of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and place it on a strictly nonpartisan basis.

Mr. Hoover proposed that there be eight directors instead of seven and that the places be divided equally between Republicans and Democrats. This would require appointment of one more Democrat.

There were reports that Owen D. Young, prominent New York financier, might be named to the post. Some believed Young might become corporation president to succeed Charles G. Dawes.

The flames were smothered and her clothing torn from her body. Her condition is not serious.

Name Counts

Without spending a cent or making a speech, Will Rogers (above), 33-year-old school teacher of Moore, Okla., led a field of twenty-five candidates for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large in Oklahoma's first primary.

Flabbergasted politicians laid his victory to the fact that his name, on the ballots, was the same as that of Oklahoma's famous cowboy philosopher, and that many persons thought they were voting for the latter.

Now Rogers will oppose the runner-up, Mrs. Mable Bassett, in a runoff primary.

HENRY FORD OF EUROPE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Thomas Bata, Shoe Magnate, Was One of Richest Men on Continent.

By United Press
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 12.—Thomas Bata, Czechoslovakian shoe magnate, known as Europe's Henry Ford, and one of the richest men in Europe, was killed today in an airplane accident at Otrokowitz, Moravia.

Bata had started a hurried business trip to Switzerland when his pilot became lost in fog outside the Otrokowitz airport.

The motor failed as the pilot, Broucek, tried to land, and the machine crashed from an altitude of 1,000 feet.

Bata died from an internal hemorrhage as he was being taken to hospital. The pilot was killed instantly.

Bata rose to fame and fortune after the World war from proprietor of a small shoe shop to one of the outstanding industrialists of Europe.

He owned shoe factories throughout Europe and was preparing to extend his activities to other parts of the world, including England and India.

He used the mass production methods made famous by Henry Ford, and raised the daily output of his shoe factories to 100,000 pairs.

Bata was recognized as the leader of the Americanization of European industry. He owned approximately 2,000 retail shoe stores in Czechoslovakia, and several hundred others in various countries of Europe.

Bata planned to increase his holdings in the United States, where he had a few stores. Twelve of these are in the Chicago area.

TROOPS, AIRMEN BATTLE RIOTERS

Belgian Army Forces Are Rushed to Quell Strikers.

By United Press
BRUSSELS, July 12.—The government rushed additional troops to Charleroi today to aid cavalry, air forces and gendarmes in quelling labor riots. Arrests at Charleroi Monday night totaled 150.

By United Press
LONDON, July 12.—First eye-witness accounts of rioting at Charleroi, Belgium, between strikers and troops, telegraphed today to the Daily Herald, described casualties as "innumerable" as cavalry and armored cars cleared rioters from the streets.

Army bombers flew overhead, spotting concentrations of strikers and advising troops of their position by wireless.

The arrival of troops precipitated violent demonstrations, the Herald reported.

'WITHERS' OP'RY' IS STILL A CLASSIC

Hokum Comedy Dating Back to the Old Days Remains a Most Pleasant Fact on a Modern Vaudeville Bill.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

THERE are few acts in vaudeville now days which truthfully may be termed institutional. Such an act is Charles Withers and his "Withers' Op'ry," which is a rowdy burlesque on variety years and years ago.

I first saw Withers and his "op'ry house" at least twelve years ago at Keith's in this city where it was featured on an eight-act bill being presented twice daily.

Withers can fall into a pall of sloopy comedy results than anybody in the stage "inventions" than any guy on the stage. He has more stage "inventions" than any guy on the stage. He has more stage "inventions" than any guy on the stage.

The best proof is that this act has lived for many years on the vaudeville stage and he is doing as much four times a day as he did twice a day on the old Keith time.

Rogman and Triger go in for eccentric acrobatics. James Burroughs is a tenor and he sings "The Wedding of the Painted Dolls" in a pleasing manner. Donald Burke, his pianist, has a character study piano number of an aged pianist playing a great composition.

Kane and Hazelton stoop to burlesque in conversation and dress too often during the act. Six Avalons have a wire and acrobatic act of fine circus ability. Raymond and Ann have nothing that is new in ventriloquist work.

June Brown, a little girl of this city, who acted in "Symphony of Six Millions" as well as with Chic Sale, Jackie Cooper and Joan Crawford, is an added attraction on the bill.

Now at the Lyric.

AGED DEMOCRAT WHISTLER DEAD

Conventions Strain Fatal for Easterner.

By United Press

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 12.—William C. Page, 76, whose whistle-toting at the recent Democratic convention in Chicago mystified radio listeners until they learned he was signaling to the folks back home, died today in his Mumford home near here.

His friends said the strain of the all-night session in Chicago, coupled with a minor taxicab accident there, contributed to his death. He had been ill since his return.

Page, known locally as "The Sage of Wheatland," had attended every Democratic convention since 1876. In the last two meetings, with radio carrying the proceedings to the folks back home, he hit on the idea of whistling whenever a ballot was taken, or a candidate was greeted, in order to let his friends know he was "in there fighting."
