

STATE PRINTING CONTRACT QUIZ TO START SOON

Committee Is Appointed to Conduct Probe; Fifield to Be Called.

Special committee of the house of representatives appointed today to probe the "gravelly peculiar" circumstances surrounding awarding of the $82,400 contract to print automobile drivers' license certificates, will begin to function immediately, it was announced.

Because of the presence in the city of Otto G. Fifield of Crown Point, secretary of state in 1929 when the contract was awarded to Ohlhafer & Burkhardt, Aurora (Ill.) firm, he will be the first witness called.

Eight on Committee

The probe committee of eight is composed of five Democrats and three Republicans.

The former are: Representatives Herbert P. Kenney of New Albany, chairman; Albert Walsman, Indianapolis; Fred Galloway, Indianapolis, sponsor of the probe; and author of the resolution creating the committee; Gerritt Bates, Indianapolis, and William E. Wilson of Greenfield.

The Republicans are: Thad S. Adams of Danville, William S. Coleman of Carthage and Oliver W. McGaughey of Veedsburg.

Fifield conferred with Attorney-General James M. Ogden regarding the information the latter had given Galloway.

Pointed Out Power

"I told Fifield that I merely had informed Galloway that the house and its committee had the power to summon witnesses and take testimony. I did not pass upon the merits of the investigation, which was what particularly interested the former secretary of state," Ogden said.

The contract has been probed by Illinois and Indiana federal authorities, seeking income tax information.

The printing was done by the Haywood Printing Company, Lafayette. The firm received $10,000 of the contract price, it is charged.

Beauty Sleeping Since Feb. 15 in Strange Malady

Patricia Maguire

OAK PARK, Ill., July 14.—Brief daily exposure to the healing ultra-violet rays of the sun has been added to the serum treatment, through which physicians seek to end the sleeping sickness that has gripped pretty Patricia Maguire, 27, since last Feb. 15.

For about five minutes each day the girl is removed to a sleeping porch at the home where she lives with her mother and sister and the latter's husband.

But Dr. Eugene Traut still hopes that the cure for the strange malady lies in the girl's own blood stream. He has administered serum derived from her blood after sucking the illness.

It was the first time the bacillus had been isolated in a living person, and the girl's amazing vitality made the medical feat possible.

The plea, "Pat, open your eyes for your mother," brought a flutter of Miss Maguire's eyelids, but her comatose trance was unbroken.

She made other slight motions during the 148 days of her illness, but so far has shown no signs of recovery.
