

CONGRESS NEAR SESSION'S END; RELIEF BILL UP

Action Late Today Slated: Home Loan Measure May Be Shelved.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Congressional leaders believed today that adjournment of congress for the summer would be possible by Friday night, at the latest.

The $2,122,000,000 relief bill did not make as rapid progress as had been anticipated. Conferees were unable to agree during the morning, but it seemed probable that the measure would be put in final form and acted upon by the senate later in the day.

Possibility still existed that the home loan bank bill might be shelved.

The Norbeck farm relief bill also faced an uncertain fate. Speaker Garner said he had been informed that President Hoover would veto the bill if it were sent to him, so it may be killed in the house.

Relief Tied to Home Loans

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The fate of relief legislation today is bound up with that of a bill providing for more loan banks and currency expansion.

Republicans are determined that the home loan bill shall be adopted before adjournment, and when it appeared for a time that the house would not act on it, the senate delayed appointment of relief conferees.

Later agreements were reached sending both bills to conference today, and quick action is promised on both of them. They may go to the White House today.

The only other measure standing in the way of adjournment is the Norbeck farm relief bill to give bounties to growers of wheat, cotton and hogs, passed by the senate Wednesday. Western and southern house members are trying to get a promise that this measure will be acted on before adjournment.

Relief conferees meeting this morning have three principal points of controversy to clear up between the new bills passed in the senate and the house.

The most important of these provides that hereafter all loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall be reported monthly to congress.

The provision was inserted in the house bill when Speaker John N. Garner broke a tie vote by favoring it. Later Senator Robert M. La Follette (Rep., Wis.) pointed out in the senate that many members of that body thought it also was in the bill they passed, and urged senate conferees to approve it.

Several senate conferees are known to favor the provision. It was laid before the senate by Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem., N. Y.), but was stricken out by the senate banking and currency committee.

Republicans threw all the strength they could muster into an attempt to defeat the publicity provision in the house. They charged that banks will lose the confidence of their depositors if it becomes known they have applied for funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The third difference between senate and house bills lies in the senate provision for reducing the number of directors of the corporation in order to relieve Federal Reserve Chairman Eugene Meyer from further service.

In the controversy over final approval of the home loan bank bill, the principal point at issue is the senate amendment providing for mild inflation of the currency.

MUSCLE IN ON BETTING

Racketeers Attempting to Organize Turf Clerks Into Union.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Gangsters are trying to muscle into the betting at Chicago race tracks by organizing clerks, who sell pari mutuels tickets, into a union.

J. A. Newberry, brother of Ted Newberry, north side gangster, has sought the aid of members of the state legislature in organizing the union.

In a letter sent out under his signature he said the object of the union is to improve working conditions.

BILL FOR HOUSE EFFICIENCY QUIZ IS CALLED TRAP

Introduction Is Marked by Bitter Debate; Termed 'Out of Line.'

Branded in debate on the floor of the house of representatives as a "trap" for legislators in the 1933 regular session, a house resolution calling for appointment of a legislative efficiency commission was received today for passage.

The commission, under the amended resolution, would consist of six members of both houses, of opposing political faith, to investigate government operation with the view of paring costs and eliminating useless branches.

Its reception on the floor was marked by a stormy argument between Representatives John D. Boid (Dem.), Evansville, and Herbert H. Evans (Rep.), Newcastle.

Says Goal Obscured

Evans charged the resolution injected politics into the special session and obscures the assembly's goal to provide tax relief.

It was branded by Representative E. Curtis White (Dem.), Indianapolis, as a "tragic deed." He declared it was out of line with the objective of the special session.

Bill for repeal of the 1929 chain store law is among nine measures introduced in the Indiana house of representatives today.

The measure, introduced by Representatives Herbert H. Evans (Rep.), Newcastle, and Rollin S. Place (Dem.), Denver, provides for outright repeal of the law requiring taxing of firms operating more than one store.

Seeks Race License

Licensing of horseracing and betting, requiring payment of $500 fee for each race is provided in a bill introduced by Representative William E. Wilson (Dem.), Plainfield.

Bill providing penalty for failure to pay May and November tax installments has been reported for passage in the house by the ways and means committee.

Delinquent May installments will be penalized 8 per cent, and if the delinquency is repeated in November, a 7 per cent penalty will be added to the amount of the duplicate and the previous tax.

Kreuger Debts $225,000,000

NEW YORK, July 14.—Ivar Kreuger, suicide match king, left personal debts of about $225,000,000, according to the report of receivers of his Kreuger & Toll Co., to the New York Stock Exchange. The report indicated that unsecured creditors will receive little or nothing.

U.S. Girl Again Demands Child of Hayakawa

TOKIO, July 13.—Ruth Noble, Hollywood actress, has arrived in Tokio, to renew her fight for custody of her son, now in the custody of the child's father, Sessue Hayakawa, Japanese actor.

Hayakawa and his Japanese wife came to Japan with the child several months ago from Hollywood, where he had appeared in motion pictures.

Miss Noble offered with Hayakawa to resent her demand for custody of the child, and financial settlement for support of herself and the child.

The American actress said she expected to return to Hollywood shortly.

LIFT BAN ON CORN

Borer Quarantine Will Be Raised on Friday.

Quarantine against the European corn borer will be lifted in Indiana Friday.

Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, notified Frank N. Wallace, state entomologist, Wednesday of the lifting of the quarantine. Federal funds have been withdrawn in the fight against the borer.

Green corn now may be transported anywhere in the state without government interference.

NATIONAL GUARD TROOPS SEARCH FOR LOST BABY

20-Months-Old Boy Feared Victim of Degenerate; Gone Five Days.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 14.—A haggard, young father searched with national guardsmen today for his son, Leslie Delano, 20 months old, missing five days and feared kidnapped.

The child disappeared while playing at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano, Columbia Heights, a suburb.

Guardsmen in airplanes scanned the swamplands on the outskirts of the suburb with field glasses, but police gave up the theory that the baby might have wandered away. Their questioning of witnesses revealed theories that the child had been abducted by a degenerate or had been taken away dead by a hit-and-run driver.

Delano walked head down between the two officers of the militia. Mrs. Delano was reported in bed.

The usual flood of queries came from police officers of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin, and told of strangers seen with children answering the description of Leslie.

Questioning of 13-year-old Leo Manthey, a neighbor, continued as police sought further details of his story that he saw the child more than a block from his home and heard Mrs. Delano calling him.

Leo's story indicated the baby was in the neighborhood one hour after its mother last had seen it in its sand box at the side of the house.

No ransom notes have been received.

Today's hunt was the fifth organized search. Previously, Boy Scouts and police had conducted building-by-building searches of the suburb.

PLAGUE KILLS HOPPERS

By United Press
LINCOLN, Neb., July 14.—Nature has come to the aid of mid-western farmers in eradication of grasshopper hordes, scientists asserted today.

A disease, somewhat similar to human "athlete's foot" has been spread among the insects and they are dying off by the millions, according to M. H. Swenk, entomologist at the Nebraska Agricultural college.
