Daily Recipe
ROAST STUFFED PORK SHOULDER

Have the butcher skin a trimmed, fresh picnic shoulder of medium to large size and remove the bones. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Lay the boned shoulder fat side down, and carefully cut a few gashes in the parts where the meat is thickest, so that it will hold more stuffing.

Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Fill in a well-seasoned bread crumb stuffing, begin to sew the edges of the shoulder together to form a pocket, and gradually work in the rest of the stuffing, not packing it, but putting in lightly as much as the shoulder will hold.

Rub the outside of the stuffed shoulder with salt, pepper and flour. Place the roast on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear the meat for thirty minutes, or until lightly browned, in a hot oven (480 degrees F.).

Then reduce the oven temperature rapidly to very moderate heat (300 to 325 degrees) and continue roasting at this temperature until the meat is tender. It will require about 3½ hours to cook a 4-pound shoulder with these oven temperatures.

Beach pajamas as offered by Jean Patou are sober and very tailored looking. Left is a straw and havana brown combination in fine wool jersey and right shows a red and white effect in toile de soie. Both have little bolero jackets with sleeves in the darker color to protect the wearer from the sun's rays.

MANNERS AND MORALS By JANE JORDAN

THE choice of a partner is the most important step in a happy marriage. If you're in doubt about the person you've chosen, write to Jane Jordan for advice.

Dear Jane Jordan—I think I have found the girl I want at last. She is 19 years old, is very attractive, and her husband in two years. There are no children. I am alone in making dates with her.

Wondering what to do. When a woman has not lived with her husband for two years, she takes on the status of a divorcee. It is only to be expected that she would see other men during that time, particularly if her estranged husband raises no objections.

However, it is infinitely better for her to get a legal divorce, to avoid complications, and still the unpleasant rumors that always attach to a divorcee.

Pajamas Comfortable for Beach

BY JEAN PATOU, Written for NEA Service

PARIS, July 14.—The need for comfort at the seaside always has expressed itself in a very individual manner in the course of past seasons, and more especially so since the time when a totally new departure was made in the beach mode which came in the guise of pajamas.

It is almost inevitable that with a garment like the pajamas, fantasies bordering on the eccentric should be engendered.

This falsely might imply that it is in itself an eccentricity, whereas, accustomed to it as we now are, it can be as sober and in good taste as a beach dress.

The whole gamut of fantasy, as a matter of fact, attached to pajamas extended even to beach dresses. Some models, extravagantly décolleté, are much more akin to a dressy pajama than to that of a dress.

A SIDE from the complete lack of elegance of dresses fashioned on this theme, another point in their disfavor is their total lack of practical qualities.

Every one knows that with these exaggerated sun-backs, as they are called, where one is forced to resort to a complicated system of T or other strap devices, a woman acquires an irregular tan which is annoying and unsightly when she is called upon to wear evening clothes.

I think that these exaggerated décolletés should be confined to pajamas, and then only to the extent of insuring greater ease of movement and on condition that the pajamas be completed by some sort of garment to avoid just such unsightly sunburn.

TO retain its simplicity, the pajama must be just wide enough for comfort and, so far as the practical side is concerned, it must be fashioned of a relatively light fabric, either wool or linen, but in any case perfectly shadowproof.

Wool has the advantage over cotton of not creasing, and thereby always retaining a well-groomed air.

The trousers can be pulled on over a swimming suit or completed by a sleeveless blouse, plus a sleeveless vest, but both protect the arms when necessary.

Another alternative is the one-piece pajama, also completed by a jacket or bolero.

These two Patou bathing suits show the correct wear for the beach. Left, is a suit composed of navy trunks and a sweater top striped red on white. The back offers a new décolleté in navy blue and white one-piece. Both are in wool jersey.
