

TALKING IT OVER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

NEW YORK, July 18.—Isn't it about time something was done about those Giants? It isn't necessary to do anything to them. The seven other clubs in the National League have already taken care of that. Next to the Lindberg investigation the Giants have been the biggest bust of the year.

They came back from California heralded as the 1932 champions. They had everything, including an overplus of ego, and a young pitcher who was a second Matty. Those were the very words. They were the best balanced ball club that ever represented a major league city.

They were—but why so on? That was in March. This is July and those same Giants are in seventh place. What's the matter? The team that the team could be so impressive in theory and second in fact.

True, the Jackson, the crack in field, is out of the line-up. But that's only part of the story. The Giants are any too powerful. What he was in the past.

Who was behind the retirement of John McGraw? Did he fall or was he pushed? Admittedly the performance of the team was something to be proud of, but the patience, but it was like McGraw to shift responsibilities in mid-season. One of his main qualities is that he sticks to the ship.

Now, who is to blame? That the players had lost faith in the early manager, that they weren't bearing down on him. Well, that's the theory. The team was under the youthful and popular Bill Terry. If the Giants were disappointing under McGraw, they were bound to be under Terry. Obviously, then, the allusion goes deeper than the management.

It's axiomatic that you can not win a pennant without good ball players. Maybe that's where the trouble lies. Are the Giants overrated? I don't know of any better way to answer that than to refer you to the standing of the clubs. Would a general shake-up help? Do the docs prescribe aspirin for surgery cases?

All right, Mr. Williams, what would you do? You're great orator. The first thing would do if I were Mr. Charles Stoneham, the new owner. I would make an immediate decision as to my 1933 manager. Next, I would tell him to tear up his contract. Then, I would start and start reassembling it for next season. That's only a minute, can't the Indians back into a winning stride this season—made to believe.

Terry deserves to be given a chance. The Indians, Mr. Stoneham, should agree that he will be the manager again next season. Mr. Stoneham should immediately confirm that he is a signed document.

It would give Terry the confidence he needs to initiate whatever plans he may have in mind. He can't be blamed for the players that Terry is the boss. I see nothing to be gained by vacillating, and a great deal can be lost.

This is just plain common sense, and naturally I expect it will be ignored.

A. L. RACE NO CAKE WALK, YANKEE MANAGER SAYS'

Marse Joe Disturbed Despite Healthy Lead

McCarthy Believes His Club Will Win, but Respects Flourishing Cleveland Indians, Senators and Others; Nats Make It Nine in Row.

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 18.—The American League race has developed into a "mad pursuit" with any one of four teams likely to pass the leading Yanks if they slip, according to Joe McCarthy, manager.

"We can not stop winning for a minute if we're going to take the pennant," McCarthy explained. "It wouldn't be so bad if we had only one team after us. You could figure that one team might lose a few games, too. But when you've got four chasing you, and all playing good ball, it's different. You can be sure that Cleveland, Philadelphia, Washington and Detroit will shoot past if you slacken up."

Marse Joe said Cleveland appeared the Yanks' most formidable opponent at present, although Washington was making a great spurt and Philadelphia was hitting well and getting plenty of runs.

"Sure, I believe we'll win the pennant," he concluded. "We've got the best team in the league. But if anything happens to us, it'll be just too bad."

Hall Takes Speed Race

By Times Special

CLEVELAND, July 18.—Dashing into the lead on the tenth lap, Ira Hall, Terre Haute racing star, stripped the field here Sunday to win the fifty-mile race at the North Randall speedway. The Hoosier pilot averaged 73.69 miles an hour in his newly-acquired Miller Special.

Al Gordon, the west coast speedster, drove his Lion Tamer Special into second place at 72.37 miles an hour average. Al Thiesen in a Vance Special took third money.

"Wild Bill" Cummings, Indianapolis star, who grabbed the early lead, and Howdy Wilcox, the young Indianapolis driver, both were forced out of Sunday's race early with mechanical trouble. There were no mishaps during the race.

Gene Haustein won the five-mile prelim and Gus Schrader won the two-mile prelim. This is just plain common sense, and naturally I expect it will be ignored.

Gen. Haustein won the five-mile prelim and Gus Schrader won the two-mile prelim.

Nothing happened to the Yanks Sunday, and they won two games from the White Sox, 4 to 3, in twelve innings, and 3 to 2. Charlie Ruffing's single with the bases loaded in the eighth sent the home run in the nightcap, and Babe Ruth's single in the opener drove in Earl Combs with the winning tally in the twelfth. Lou Gehrig smacked out his twenty-first homer in the opener. The victories kept the Yanks keen out in front by eight and one-half games.

Twelve Out of Fourteen

Cleveland matched the Yank's pace by taking both ends of a twin bill from the last-place Red Sox, 5 to 4 and 8 to 6, the latter in eleven innings. The Indians now have won twelve out of the last fourteen games on the road. The Senators made it four straight over the Browns, 9 to 2, thereby registering their ninth consecutive victory. Jimmy Foxx drove out home runs No. 37 and 38 to aid the Athletics' 4-to-3 victory over the Tigers.

In the National League the runner-up Cubs gained a full game on the leading Pirates by taking two contests from the Giants, 3 to 1 and 8 to 2, while the Pirates were idle. Ciney Punished

The Braves kept on the Cubs tail by downing the tall-end Cincy Reds twice, 5 to 3 and 3 to 1, while Brooklyn and the Cardinals split a twin bill, the Cards taking the opener, 9 to 2, and Brooklyn the nightcap, 8 to 5. They were the only games scheduled in the National.

Horace Ford of the Braves, former Red, drove in three runs in the opening at Cincinnati and two in the nightcap.

Winn Captures Featured Race in Close Finish

By Times Special

READING, Pa., July 18.—Billy Winn of Kansas City won the feature twenty-mile auto race here Sunday at the Reading fairground track, squeezing out Bryan Saulaus of Los Angeles in a thrilling finish.

Free Frame of Los Angeles, winner of the Indianapolis "500," and Jimmy Patterson, Kansas City, won preliminary five-mile races. Saulaus set a new track record for the mile in 28.35 seconds.

Lloyd Vieux, Los Angeles, won a six and one-half mile race, which had been scheduled for twenty miles. It was cut short when George (Doc) Mackenzie of Philadelphia skidded on a turn trying to dodge another skidding car, and crashed through the wire fence. Mackenzie was badly cut and bruised.

The two engines develop a nominal 4,000-horse power, although they are capable of more. It is estimated that the boat may attain 120 miles an hour.

Every grain in the woodwork of this $200,000 craft has been subjected to microscopic examination.

The cross members are of Honduras mahogany, and the frame of Canadian rock elm.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.

In addition to breaking the world record, Don also beat the British record of 11.71 when he sent the powerful Miss England III bulleting over the choppy waters of Loch Lomond at the amazing speed of 119.81 miles an hour on his second attempt.

He wrested the world mark from the United States on his first attempt this morning, beating Gar Wood's record of 11.71 with a speed of 117.43. Don dared unfavourable weather to zoom over the official course again at the still greater speed.

On one of the two official miles, Don roared over the official mile course at 120.50 miles an hour. This made him the first man ever to travel two miles a minute in water.