Poor Relief to Cost Township Million and Half

CENTER township will expend nearly a million and half dollars for poor relief this year, Charles Holtman, township advisory board member, estimated today.

Cost of providing coal and food for unemployed families has doubled within the last year, he declared.

This huge outlay, Holtman estimates, will be necessary to pay bills already incurred this year and cover expected expenditures for fall and early winter months.

Up to July 1, the township had appropriated more for relief than the entire last year.

Holtman estimates the 1932 poor aid bill at $1,322,187.

Expenditures by Miss Hannah Noone, trustee, during 1931 totaled $702,204. With an estimated expenditure of $85,000 for July, on which definite figures are not available, cost from Jan. 1, 1932, to Aug. 1, will total $818,187.

Miss Noone informed County Auditor Charles Grossart that she will need a $504,000 poor relief budget from Aug. 1 to Dec. 31.

On basis of these figures, the county council must fix the township tax rate for poor relief. This rate, 12.5 cents last year, may rise to 25 cents on each $100 taxable property in 1933.

Under laws regulating financing of poor relief, all bills must be paid by taxation the year after obligations are made.

"Decline in calls for poor relief has not been as rapid this summer as expected. It appears that the calls will increase with the coming winter," Holtman declared.

A glimpse of the picture that is worrying county budget-making officials is given in figures furnished by Holtman.

In April, 1931, Center township spent $56,088 for poor relief, compared with $141,358 for 1932; in May, $48,908, compared with $82,126 this year, and in June $44,538, compared with $73,259 this year.
