HAM ROLLS ARE ALWAYS WELCOME

If you are searching for something new to serve when guests stop in after the theater, or for a quiet game of bridge, ham rolls are always welcome.

Meat relishes, substantial food, the whipped cream concoctions that may appeal to women are so much thin air to them.

Crumbs, shortening, chopped peppers and mushrooms, salt and pepper are combined with a thin cream sauce, and spread over the slices of ham. Fry in hot fat until it is just turning brown.

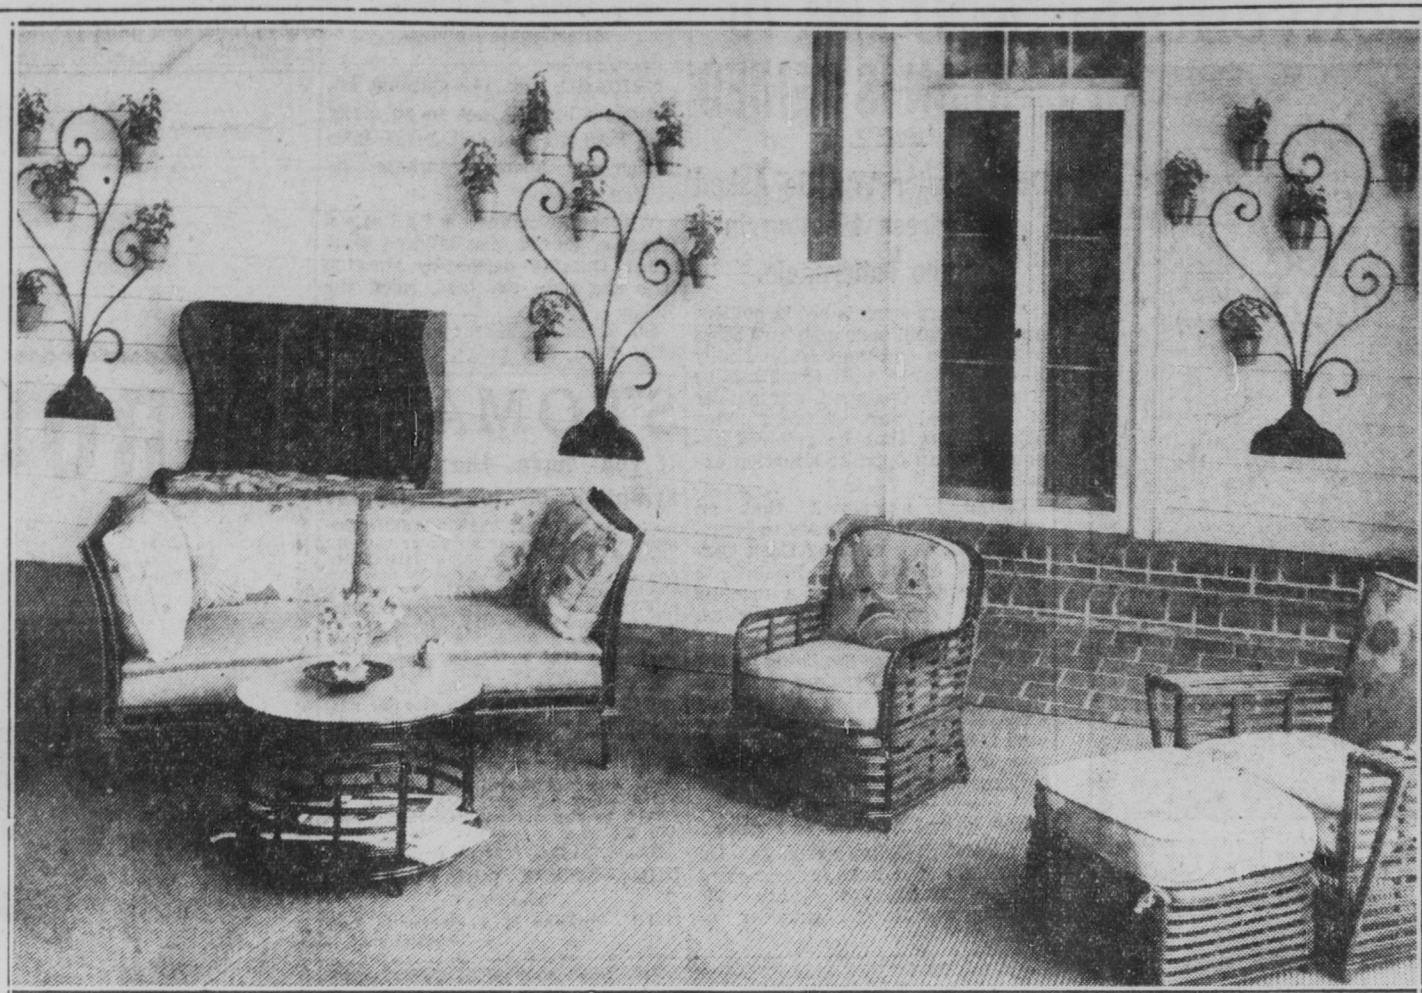

Cover with white sauce and bake until heated through. Serve with coffee and hot rolls on a cool autumn evening. This recipe will make people ring your doorbell often.

Corn Plus Cheese
If you are tired of serving vegetables in the usual methods, mix some cooked corn with a thick cheese sauce. Stuff tomatoes from which the pulp has been removed. Sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top and bake until done. In the same manner, tomatoes act as cases for any salad.

Daily Recipe
CANDIED SWEET POTATOES

Slice five or six parboiled sweet potatoes and put into an oiled baking dish. Cover with 1 cup of karo syrup, add a dash of cinnamon and four or five cloves. Cover and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for about 1½ hours, until tender. Dot with butter before serving. Add water if syrup gets too thick.

If the porch and the terrace fixings are getting drab as summer wears away, a single new piece may perk things up. Such an accessory is this settee, with its modified empire lines, a piece of furniture which may be respectably moved indoors for bedroom use in the fall. Other accessories which are happy indoors or out are little tables of chromium and glass. The wall brackets in this scene are of blue metal to match the furniture, with pink tile pots filled with fuchsia. The tea table holds a deep-set wicker tray.

A small club was played from dummy. South played the six, and Miss Buie, the declarer in the West won the trick with the nine.

She now led the ace and king of hearts, noting carefully that North's ten dropped on the second heart trick.

She then ruffed a small heart with dummy's ten of clubs, and North's jack fell. A small spade was returned from dummy, and trumped by the declarer.

Two rounds of trumps were taken, and then Miss Buie reasoned that if North held the queen, jack, ten and three of hearts, the heart queen would have been the original opening, so her next play was her small heart, which South was obliged to win with the queen.

South now had to return a diamond or a spade, either of which would give Miss Buie her contract of six clubs.

You will notice that the declarer did not take a gamble on what might prove a losing finesse, but executed a neat position play to make the small slam.

Fur Coats Take Swagger Lines

Directed By AMOS PARRISH

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Sports furs... that makes the college girl primp up her ears. That gets a rise out of the woman who drives a lot in the winter time... or the woman who wants a fur for business. Or just any woman who feels that she's sitting on top of the world when she's wearing something swaggy.

For swaggy is the only word that says it about the new sports fur coats. Three-quarter length, most of them, leaving your stride unhampered. Never interfering with clutch or brakes on your speedster. Falling in easy lines from a deep yoke, just faintly fitted at the waist. And belted in back or all the way round.

And about the collars. Johnnies-on-the-spot again. Flaring more than the old one... and called the butterfly Johnny.

Shawls Are Good
Shawls are good in self or contrasting colors. Then the small turn-back collar is topping lots of coats. And scarfs, simply tied.

You can see one of the new scarf collars on the coat sketched. Short enough so it doesn't flap in your eyes. And you'll notice it matches the coat.

The coat is shown in muskrat, but the style is particularly good in kid also.

Kid, in gray or brown or the new blue fox shades, and silver or brown muskrat are two of the smartest of these sports furs. You'll also see the spotted kinds such as leopard or ocelot. And smooth ones like lapin and nutria.

Pony Smart Also

"But I have a pony from last year," you're apt to say. Fine! Pony's smart this year too. And you can doctor it up in all sorts of ways so it'll make the neighbors think it's new!

Of course, that applies to other furs also... dressy as well as sports. We have a grand bulletin chock full of ideas for making a 1931 fur coat look like 1932. Write for it now while you remember.
