

MILLIONS WILL VIEW ECLIPSE OF SUN AUG. 31

Scientists Make Elaborate Plans for Nature's Great Spectacle.

BY WATSON DAVIS

Managing Editor, Science Service

When the moon moves round in front of the sun Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 31, for a minute and a half, millions of permanent inhabitants, thousands of visiting spectators, and several hundred scientists in a narrow region in Canada and a few England will enjoy one of nature's grandest spectacles.

A total eclipse of the sun always has, since the dawn of history, attracted attention. Until the extreme precision of the movement of the heavenly bodies was discovered and understood, the blotting out of the sun in full day struck fear into men's hearts. It was received as a portent of evil.

Now eclipses can be predicted years in advance and the snapping of cameras has replaced the beating of tom-toms in the ritual of eclipse observation.

Figured to Last Fraction

To within a small fraction of a second and a small part of a mile, astronomers know just when and where the eclipse of Aug. 31 will occur. With confidence, intricate instruments are erected to capture for science the few seconds during which the pearly halo of the sun can be seen.

Weeks of time and thousands of dollars are expended in eclipse preparations. Thirty-one years will pass before another total solar eclipse will fall upon continental United States. Astronomers who wish to observe eclipses in the interval must travel to inconvenient, distant places.

Half a hundred photographic telescopes will be trained on the sun and superimposed moon. Airplanes will fly to elude the danger of clouds that 50-50 may spoil the show. Radio transmission may be changed over a large area in such a manner as to give new knowledge of the upper atmosphere.

Strategically located in the eclipse path will be instruments to break into colors the rare light of the sun's outer atmosphere.

Visible Everywhere in U. S.

From every square foot of the United States there will be seen the moon partially with the sun's light. Every one should pause in his daily work to view through heavily sooted glass or exposed photographic film the nicking of the sun by the moon.

An eclipse is a demonstration of the orderliness of nature. Seeing an eclipse, watching the moon or sun rise and set, seeing the parade of stars with the seasons, catching the flash of a meteor, astronomers and layman alike will wonder at and about the power of the universe that keeps it functioning.

Arms Found in Bonus Camp, Congressman Says

Facts About Guns, Dynamite Will Be Proved, Claim of Royal Johnson.

By United Press

LA CROSSE, Wis., Aug. 16.—Guns, ammunition and dynamite were found in a bonus army camp in Washington before the marchers were evicted from the capital, Representative Royal C. Johnson (Rep., S. D.), asserted in an address to the American Legion here.

Johnson, chairman of the house committee on veterans' affairs, declared the finding of the explosives "will be proved at the proper time."

He said he had seen government records bearing on the bonus army "from beginning to end."

The congressman vigorously approved President Hoover's action in summoning troops to drive the bonus army from Washington after two World war veterans had been shot fatally in clashes with police.

Speed 'Martyr'

After spending four days in jail rather than pay a $25 fine for speeding, Mrs. Clem W. Seely, above, prominent Milwaukee clubwoman, was released under bond pending appeal to a higher court. She chose jail to the fine to focus public attention on what she termed the "railroading" of traffic cases in Milwaukee.

Previously, Aug. 18 was set as the date for Voight to appear on a vacancy charge resulting from the shooting. On this charge he is at liberty under $2,500 bond.

KILLER FACING BOOZE TRIAL

Slayer of Girl to Appear in Court Sept. 2.

Herman Voight, R. R. 2, Box 410F, shotgun slayer of Miss Margaret Lela Byers, 17-year-old West Newton high school girl, will be tried Sept. 2 on a blind tiger charge before Municipal Judge William H. Shaeffer. Date was set when Voight was arraigned Monday. Basis of the blind tiger charge is a report by officers that they found 300 quarts of beer and a gallon of whisky in Voight's home.

The girl was slain a week ago when Voight fired in belief that he was obtaining revenge on two men who held up Mrs. Voight and Mrs. Frances Thompson, Speedway City, shortly before the shooting.

GRANDMOTHER'S ADVICE WORTH FOLLOWING

Service-Men's League, "a Communist organization."

Three Are Indicted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The grand jury which investigated last month's bonus army disorders at the request of President Hoover reported today, with the indictment of three former service men for assault with a dangerous weapon.

There was no mention of radicals, Red or Communists in the indictment.

Johnson, chairman of the house committee on veterans' affairs, declared the finding of the explosives "will be proved at the proper time."
