

DAVIS TO SEEK EARLY TRIAL IN LOTTERY CASE

Pennsylvania Senator Like-ly Will Discuss Charge at Moose Parley.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Senator James J. Davis (Rep., Pa.) indicted with six others for alleged violation of lottery laws, may be tried early in September.

He has asked for an early trial, and the docket of the court in the southern district of New York, where he was indicted, is in such shape that his request probably will be granted.

Senator Davis will attend the convention of the Loyal Order of Moose in Cleveland next week. The order is expected to spend the case fully in a speech.

Third Senator Indicted

The Pennsylvania is the third senator to be indicted since the turn of the century.

The supreme court in 1906 sustained the conviction of former Senator Burton of Kansas, who was charged with accepting $500 a month from a St. Louis client which the postoffice department charged with using the mails to defraud.

In 1924, the department of justice sought to convict Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana on the allegation that he had represented a client before the interior department. Wheeler had conducted the senate probe which resulted in Attorney General Daugherty's resignation, and the indictment was then regarded as "spite work." Wheeler was acquitted by the trial court, and by the senate which conducted a special investigation.

Officials Keep Silence

Department of Justice officials continue their silence concerning Davis' indictment.

It was learned, however, that before Davis and the other defendants were indicted, United States Attorney George Z. Medalle and Assistant Attorney Louis M. Treadwell discussed the case with officials here, and it was decided that the prominence of Davis and some of the others would not gain them special treatment.

Friends of the defendants sought to intervene in their behalf to prevent the humiliation of an indictment.

Young, suspended when investigation of his office began, was restored as principal when no evidence against him was received, the board announced.

Former Butler university athletes are expected to bolster the city hall lineup. H. Walden (Wally) Middleworth, city recreation director; Robert Nipper, Butler freshman coach, and Clifford Courtney, probably will be included in the city nine.

It's just anybody's race. Bunched like lettuce in a hot-house, six leaders in the Brown Derby melee to name the city's most distinguished citizen for coronation Sept. 8 at the Indiana state fair were within fifty votes of one another as the first standings were printed today.

Two dark horses, as black as dark as a shroud, stepped into the campaign. One was "Cootie" McGinnis, who says, "I'll send all you boys to my cleaning shop," and the other was E. W. Mushrush.

Mushrush, with 133 ballots, climbed to third place behind the two leaders E. Kirk McKinney and Police Chief Mike Morrissey.

Earl Cox, attorney and candidate for the circuit judgeship at the November election, held a narrow lead for fourth place over his political adversary, Judge Harry Chamberlain, with the redoubtable "Cootie" tied with the judge in ballots.

Three young men arrested early today are said to have admitted breaking into the Blue Bowl delicatessen, 1115 College avenue. Nothing was stolen.

Those held are Charles Saltee, 20, and Kenneth Keller, 20, both of Kokomo, and Glen Rodkey, Marion. Previously an attempt to break into the A. & P. grocery at 1101 College avenue, had failed.

One dozen shirts worth $42 was part of $84 in loot obtained by a burglar in the home of Edward J. Hammer, 4046 North Capitol avenue, Friday night. Other clothing, a clock, revolver, and camera formed the remainder of the loot.

VAN NUYS SAYS
NO ISSUE WILL BE SIDESTEPPED

Favors Bonus Payment, He Tells Party Workers in Greencastle Parley.

GREENCASLE, Aug. 20.—"If the federal government can appropriate billions to help the railroad corporations, the banks, and the moneyed interests of the nation—

"If the federal government can set up the largest finance corporation in the history of government to come to the aid of stricken business—

"Then the federal government can appropriate $2,000,000 to pay the hungry, poverty-stricken, unemployed veteran the bonus, which is not a gift, but merely a small item in the great debt which this nation owes its defenders."

Frederick VanNuy, Democratic senatorial nominee, told a delegation of party workers from central and southern Indiana his views on the bonus and other controversial questions at a conference here Friday.

No Pussfooting, He Says

"Go home and assure your people fellow citizens that neither Paul V. McNutt, your Governor nominee, nor I, will seek to sidestep, pussfoot or double-cross in this or in any future campaign made in this state," Van Nuy said.

He described how before entering the courthouse he was questioned concerning his attitude on the bonus by a veteran.

"The veteran said, 'perhaps Mr. Van Nuy, you would rather not commit yourself on this question,'" Van Nuy said.

"I am willing to commit myself on any and all questions. This is one campaign in Indiana where the people have right to know what a candidate favors and what he opposes."

All Entitled to Aid

"If I had been a member of the last congress I would have voted for the bonus, just as I would have voted to establish the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to aid business. If one group is entitled to aid, so is the other."

"If the people of Indiana elect me to replace Senator James E. Watson and the bonus comes up for consideration in the next congress, I will vote for it."

"To my mind if the nation can lend Charles Dawes' bank $90,000,000, it shouldn't have any reason to quibble over the bonus."

R. Earl Peters, state chairman, presided over the Greencastle meeting and at a night conference at Bedford. Today's conferences will be held at Greensburg and Muncie.

TAXPAYERS ANGERED BY COUNTY GRAVEL DEAL

Cumberland Residents May Demand Probe By State Board.

Taxpayers in vicinity of Cumberland may ask the state board of accounts to investigate purchases of inferior gravel by Marion county commissioners at prices alleged to be exorbitant, it was said today.

Charles W. Mann, highway superintendent, refuses to approve a claim of $708.12 filed by the contractor, W. T. McDonald.

The gravel was taken from the pit of John Kitley, former county commissioner, and former neighbor of Thomas Ellis, a Democratic county commissioner, a member of the board which awarded the gravel contract.

George Sluder, Republican commissioner, said he would not approve the claim if it did not bear indorsement of Mann.

JOHN D. JR. IS AT BEDSIDE OF DYING SISTER

Father Is Unable to Visit Mrs. McCormick Due to Advanced Age.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—John D. Rockefeller Jr., accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller and their son, John D. Rockefeller III, arrived in Chicago at 9 a. m. today and hurried to the bedside of his sister, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, critically ill at the Drake hotel.

The Rockefellers were met at the station by Muriel McCormick-Hubbard, eldest daughter of Mrs. McCormick.

She rushed up to her uncle, kissed him, exclaiming: "Oh, John." Rockefeller and his wife drove to the hotel in a taxicab.

Father Not to Come

"I have come to Chicago because of the serious illness of my sister, Mrs. McCormick," Rockefeller said. "Since I visited her earlier in the summer, I have suffered an attack of shingles and my physicians have ordered me not to travel. Hence, I was unable to come sooner."

Asked whether John D. Rockefeller Sr. planned to visit his daughter, Rockefeller said:

"It would be unwise for my father to attempt the trip to Chicago, not because of his health, but because of his advanced age. You must remember he is 93. He travels only between Florida and his home at Pocantico Hills."

Only Few Hours to Live

Mrs. McCormick's physicians said she was suffering from an incurable disease which gradually was spreading through her body, leaving her only a few more days, or perhaps hours, to live. They administered oxygen and sedatives.

The once richest woman in the world, however, repeated each time she regained consciousness, "I am going to live; I know I am going to live."

All members of her family now are at her bedside.
