

NEW MAYOR IS SWINGING AX IN NEW YORK

Drastic Salary Slashing and Finance Program May Put Jimmy in Background.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Democratic hopes for swinging New York state to Roosevelt in November soared today with assurance of help from pivotal Tammany hall allies and signs that Mayor Joseph V. McKee's drastic $2,000,000 salary slash and financial program might force Tammany to forget James J. Walker.

The developments which cheered Democratic presidential campaigners were these: John H. McCooey, Brooklyn boss holding the balance of power in any move to renominate James J. Walker for mayor, gave assurance he would campaign for Franklin D. Roosevelt regardless of what Walker did.

Mayor McKee, Roosevelt man all the way, slashed his own salary from $40,000 to $25,000.

Big Salaries Slashed

He gave notice that all other department heads after Oct. 1 would receive no more than $12,000 (hitting many Walker appointees).

He broke a Tammany printing monopoly doing $2,000,000 business annually.

He gave notice that $2,000,000 annually would be cut from the city's salary budget, while protecting workers in the $2,000 class.

The trend of events ever since Walker announced his resignation under fire "to seek vindication from the people," has been toward the probability that "vindication" would not come in the November election, although Tammany hall has indicated it backed the former mayor to the limit.

Jobless Probe Planned

Mayor McKee also announced plans for a police survey of the jobless, and said he intended to find out what New York bought and paid for with its $3,000,000-a-month relief expenditures.

There have been charges that Tammany hall "political jobs" were financed with relief money.

Shortly after McKee's session at city hall he hurried downtown with Controller Charles W. Berry and within half an hour had arranged a $10,000,000 city loan at 5 1/2 per cent. The last large city loans required weeks of negotiations by Walker and cost 5 1/2 per cent.

PROTEST TREASURER'S FEES IN TAX APPEAL

Allowances to Sexton Assailed by Marion County Association.

Allowances of Timothy P. Sexton, county treasurer, for collection of delinquent taxes from non-resident property owners today became the target of an appeal filed in circuit court by the Marion County Association for Tax Reduction.

The appeal asserts that Sexton is pocketing 25 per cent of such collections, in violation of the state budget law.

Despite a 1927 law empowering the treasurer to keep one-fourth of non-resident tax payments, the appeal contends the law did not contemplate collection without filing court suits in other states.

The suit seeks redress from a claim of $3,732.93 already allowed Sexton by county commissioners.

Tarkington to Be 'Regular' on Radio Program

But Tarkington, so goes the report, will have a stable place on the programs.

Interest in bookish things has been growing in the broadcast world. Tom Stix, head of the late Literary Guild, has become the outstanding interviewer of authors.

Starting some months ago as a casual program stunt, the Stix interviews became so popular that his time has been moved up to the evening hours, and he appears weekly over the entire red network.

U. S. WINS IN UTILITY FIGHT

Court Order Upholds Right to Quiz Firm.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The federal trade commission, armed with a court order directing Electric Bond and Share to answer questions about the cost of rendering service to its operating companies, will decide within the next week or so what further steps to take in its long controversy with the utility company.

Electric Bond and Share officials were the first called in the commission's investigation of utility holding company finances.

They refused to answer questions, and to produce their books.

After two years litigation, Judge D. J. Knox of the New York federal court has sustained the commission in all contentions except their demand that the books of the company be produced.

His decision said that "an order will be entered directing the individual respondents to answer all questions relating to the matters in contention."

As soon as the order is entered, the commission will be free to subpoena officials of the company once more, and renew its effort to learn whether fees charged subsidiaries were exorbitant compared with the cost of service rendered.

PROBE FORGING PLOT

Ex-Banker Held as Suspect in Tax Warrant Quiz.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Police believed today they had thwarted a possible $5,000,000 forgery plot through arrest of three men, one an ex-banker president, on charges of counterfeiting Cook county tax warrants.

The men were seized when, police charge, they tried to sell $5,000 in forged warrants to a South Bend (Ind.) finance company. None of the warrants actually were put into circulation, police believed.

Those held were: John R. Steele, former South Bend, Ind., banker, and John Baldwin and Thomas Nelson, former inmates of Atlanta penitentiary.

Five colleges of Butler university will open activities Monday and Tuesday with new departments, rules and faculty.

Enrollment is expected to hold up in the liberal arts college, college of education, college of religion, conservatory of music and art school, the units of the university.

Students in the liberal arts college may now earn while they learn, according to Miss Sarah E. Cotton, registrar, as the tuition may be paid in installments, enabling many to attend college who could not pay the whole amount at once.

A new department of religious education has been added to the college of religion by President W. S. Athearn. Professor Walter E. Bachman will head the department with Miss Allena Grafton as assistant.

Professor Albert E. Bailey, new head of the university extension division, also will be in the department of fine arts of the college of religion. Morris H. Pullin has been appointed professor of Semitics. The eight Indianapolis ministers will give special lectures during the year.

Buildings of the Jordan Conservatory of Music will resound with the efforts of 1,500 students after Monday, according to Max Krone, newly appointed head of that division of Butler university.
