

VAN NUYS AND M'NUTT PLEDGE BETTER DEAL

Democratic Candidates on Air in Rousing Start of Campaign.

Indiana Democrats today marched toward the November election under the banners of progressive and liberal government, presented to them in the campaign opener Tuesday night by Frederick Van Nuys and Paul V. McNutt, senatorial and gubernatorial nominees.

Addressing thousands of radio listeners over a three-station hookup, Van Nuys declared:

"If given opportunity, I will make this promise to the people of Indiana—that my vote and voice will be directed at all times against the strangle hold of the 'old guard' upon the rights and privileges and opportunities of the masses of American citizenship."

McNutt's address outlined the processes whereby Indiana government would be made to serve all the people.

Others Make Short Talks

The Democratic candidates were introduced by R. Earl Peters, state chairman, and short talks were made by Mrs. A. P. Flynn, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Samuel Ralston, national committeewoman. A message was read from Thomas D. Taggart, national committeeman.

Pointing to the record of the present administration, Van Nuys charged it with being the tool of special interests and privilege.

"Practically all evils of our social, economic and political systems today may be traced to the departure of our government from its original purpose and design; namely, the vehicle and only the vehicle, for the preservation of the lives, the liberties, an the happiness of the American people," Van Nuys asserted.

Pledge Farm Aid

Reviewing the platform pledges, the senatorial nominee pledged his vote and support and assured the farm owners that my party will keep the faith with them in this, their hour of need."

He also declared for the shorter week, but without reduction of income.

"This must be a permanent policy and not a temporary expedient," he averred.

Pledging a new deal for Indiana, McNutt declared:

"The dominant issue of the state campaign is tax relief. The present burden of taxes is intolerable and unfair. Relief is imperative. It can not come from temporary expedients or from easy-going pretense that conditions are better than they actually are."

"It must come from the courageous application of two sound principles: First, strictest economy consistent with proper transaction of public business. This means reduction of the tax load in every division of government. Second, an equitable distribution of the tax burden."

Praises Tax Measure

Praising the tax limitation measure of $1.50 maximum, McNutt declared that some method must be worked out to place taxation in accordance with the ability to pay.

"Second only in importance to the question of taxation is the problem of public utilities," he declared.

"The statute books contain laws passed for the purpose of regulating the utilities."

"The Indiana public service commission was established to administer those laws, to protect the people from unjust rates, and to award fair returns to invested capital."

Laws Held Unsatisfactory

"Neither the laws nor their administration are satisfactory. We propose to revise the laws for the protection of the consuming public, to remove all municipally owned utilities from jurisdiction of the commission to provide more definite and equitable methods of enabling municipalities to acquire utility plants, either by purchase of existing privately owned utilities or construction of new plants."

"We also propose to bring all utility holding companies under full supervision of the commission and to make a complete change in the personnel of the commission so it may become a public agency which has as its chief purpose the common welfare of the people," McNutt pledged.

Other state ticket candidates made short talks.

SAVED 44 FROM DEATH; NOW 'FORGOTTEN MAN'

English Beach Hero Busts Another "Character" Hero

By NEA Service

LONDON, Sept. 28.—It's strange how people forget!

Buddy Stomah has been master of a fishing smack, and for twenty-three years was a member of the Hastings lifeboat crew.

In his lifetime of coast guard work he saved forty-four people from drowning. His biggest feat of valor consisted of directing the saving of eight persons from a wreck. For that heroism he and his crew received about 3 cents apiece.

He is 58 and carries his years lightly. He is a well known character along the beaches, pulling off an act which consisted of paddling a bath tub back and forth in the breakers.

Alice Newell, Pioneer in City Life, Taken by Death

83-Year-Old Resident Is Victim of Injuries From Fall.

Another figure of early Indianapolis passed into history today with death of Miss Alice Newell, 83, of 1401 North Pennsylvania street, pioneer resident, who succumbed at the Methodist hospital to injuries received in a fall at her home a week ago.

A member of the Monday Conversation Club and a regular attendant at services at the First Presbyterian church during the last years of her life, Miss Newell was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyne N. Newell, who came to this city from Columbus, O., in 1848, when Mr. Newell became instructor in music and literature at the then new state school for the blind. He held the post for more than twenty years.

Born on Severin Site

Miss Newell was born May 31, 1849, on the site now occupied by the Severin, and had lived near the downtown district all her life.

She was interested in local affairs and was conversant with friends in the city's early history.

Her nearest surviving relative is a nephew, Sterling Newell of Cleveland, an attorney. Miss Newell resided alone in the Pennsylvania street apartment.

Here, although shy and somewhat retiring in nature, she was visited often by a wide circle of acquaintances. She liked to compare artists of today with those she had known in her youth. She was an excellent pianist.

Visited Costume Display

Shortly before her death, Miss Newell made a special trip to the downtown area to see a display of old costumes in a department store.

Her affectionate comments on women who had worn the costumes and her accurate memory of social events of many decades ago made the occasional memorable, it was said.

Funeral services will be held at 3 Thursday afternoon in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church, with Dr. George A. Frantz conducting the rites. Burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

CHINESE TROOPS TAKE MANCHULI

Residents of City Flee Into Soviet Territory.

By United Press

HARBIN, Sept. 28.—The city of Manchuli, situated on the Manchukuo-Russian border, was a scene of wild disorder today as residents sought refuge after 600 troops of General Su Ping-Wen overpowered the Manchukuo frontier guard numbering 200 men, reports received here said.

The guardmen were taken prisoners.

The invaders demolished the military barracks, pulled down the Manchukuo flag and made captives the Japanese, Manchukuo and Russian customs officials.

Many Japanese residents of Manchuli fled across the border into Russia and were granted permission to remain in Russian territory by the Soviet consul.

Japanese Consul Yamazaki and 400 remaining Japanese residents in Manchuli were reported safe. They planned to seek refuge in Soviet territory if threatened by the troops of General Su.

Under management of H. Schwartz, in business here and in Minneapolis for years, the establishment has been stocked with a wide variety of merchandise, which, Schwartz declares, will be sold at record low prices, because of the great saving in overhead.

The Self Serve store is located in the building occupied for years by William A. Laurie, one of the pioneer business men of the city, on Pennsylvania street, between Market and Washington streets.

The building has been remodeled and every convenience embodied in the best department stores has been used in equipping it.

FIREMAN HELD NOT DRUNK ON DEATH DRIVE

Cleared of Intoxication Charge in Trial Before Safety Board.

Despite testimony of two policemen that John Fahey, city fireman, was drunk when the car he was driving struck and killed a park employee, Aug. 31, he was cleared of the drunkenness charge by the safety board today.

Police Chief Mike Morrissey won a victory in his fight against policemen when the board suspended for sixty days Mrs. Margaret Osborne, policewoman, convicted of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer in connection with her investigation of a minor traffic accident.

The board's finding in Fahey's case was made after Coroner William E. Arbuckle testified that he made a personal investigation at the accident scene, and smelled no liquor on Fahey's breath.

At a preliminary hearing Tuesday, patrolmen Robert Murnan and Thomas Kergeris testified that Fahey was drunk, although they smelled no liquor on his breath, they said.

Fahey has been bound over to the Marion county grand jury on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty to all charges.

Testifying today, Coroner Arbuckle told the board that the only information he had of Fahey's alleged drunkenness was statements by the two policemen at the accident scene that Fahey was intoxicated.

Asked why the drunk charge had been placed against the city firemen, Arbuckle declared he had ordered only a manslaughter charge against Fahey, who was held to the grand jury under $1,500 bond by Municipal Judge Clifton R. Cameron.

Fahey's auto struck and fatally injured William Mankovitz, the city employee, while the latter was working in the 500 block on Fletcher avenue.

KIDNAPERS FREE RICH WISCONSIN SALOON KEEPER

Payment of $25,000 Ransom Is Denied by Wealthy Kenosha Man.

By United Press

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 28.—Jess Minkowski, kidnapped Kenosha saloon keeper, was released unharmed today, he telephoned police.

Although reported held for $25,000 ransom, Minkowski said he paid no money for his release.

He refused to say where he was freed and would give no details of his capture.

Suspect Is Arrested

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A quick-witted telephone girl today enabled police to arrest a suspect in the kidnapping of Jess Minkowski, 40.

wealthy Kenosha (Wis.) soft drink parlor owner.

The man arrested was Ray Nolan, 32, Chicago, who identified himself as an automobile salesman.

He was arrested at a telephone station in the Chicago Aurora & Elgin station at Glen Ellyn, a Chicago suburb.

Police seized him after a hurried trip to the station in response to a call from Anna Morris, a telephone operator, who informed them a person at the station was trying to place a call to Minkowski's home. Nolan denied calling the Kenosha number.

Telephone operators had been warned to watch for a call to the Kenosha number after a mysterious telephone call to the Minkowski home earlier in the evening had given the first intimation the soft drink man had been kidnapped.

The call was traced to Wheaton, not far from Glen Ellyn.

"We've got Jess," the caller said.

"It's his brother Joe to get $25,000 ready by tonight."

Minkowski apparently had been in the hands of his kidnappers since Monday night, when he left his place of business intending to return shortly.

MAPS PLAN TO GIVE HOMES TO EVICTED NEEDY

Arthur V. Brown Would Exempt Vacant Property From Tax, for Shelter.

Plan to provide homes for evicted families by exempting vacant properties from taxation next year was presented to county commissioners today by Arthur V. Brown, community fund director.

Warrants for the taxes, divided into twelve installments, would be issued by the township trustee to the property owner, allowing charity organizations to use his property as homes for evicted persons.

Properties assessed at $1,500 or less would be accepted for use of evicted families.

Commissioners advised Brown they would study the proposition.
