

NO BALM FOR HOOVER FOUND IN NORTHWEST

Last-Minute 'Horseshoe' Is About All That Could Save Him Electoral Vote.

By Scripps-Hoover Newspaper Alliance
CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 28.—There is no balm for the Hoover administration and the Republican party in the great northwest.

The states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and Idaho, with a total of nineteen electoral votes, generally are conceded now to Governor Roosevelt.

To this list the Democrats add the five electoral votes of Oregon, the eight of Washington, and possibly California's twenty-two.

Unless rising prices or a last-minute "Hoover horseshoe," as they say out here, comes to the aid of the Republicans, the far west is expected to land in the Democratic column Nov. 8.

These states have suffered from the depression with peculiar force, they have not liked the Hoover policies, and they always have given a large vote to a candidate bearing the progressive label, whether he was Democrat or Republican.

Insurgency has grown here. None of the prominent Republicans, including Senators Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, William Borah of Idaho and Hiram Johnson of California, has lifted a hand for President Hoover. Some of them are hostile to him.

Who'll Introduce Patrick?

When War Secretary Patrick Hurley visited South Dakota en route to the American Legion convention there was a debate between Norbeck and the Governor as to who should introduce him.

"It is your duty to introduce a member of the President's cabinet," said the Governor to the senator.

"Not on your life," said Norbeck, or words to that effect, as he discussed political etiquette—and expediency.

"The Governor of the great commonwealth of South Dakota should do the introducing."

But the Governor would not—or did not—and "Pete" finally did the honors. But he said nary a word about Hurley's "chief."

Nye Disregards Hoover

In North Dakota, which is more independent even than South Dakota, Senator Nye is saying nothing about the President, whom he has opposed on most major policies.

Nye has promised progressive colleagues that he will not aid the G. O. P. Like Norbeck, Nye is certain to win, and largely because of his anti-Hoover record.

If any of these states goes Republican, it most is likely to be Wyoming, but, even there, the Republicans have little hope of saving its four electoral votes.

Republicans in Idaho are devoting most of their efforts to re-electing Senator John Thomas, who is opposed by Mayor Pope of Boise, and to sending Representatives Addison T. Smith and Burton French back to the house.

Oregon and Washington have shown dependent and Democratic sentiment for many years, but especially in 1930 and in this year's primaries.

California Is Puzzle

On subjects as prohibition, public utilities and foreign affairs, the people are in disagreement with the administration, and Governor Roosevelt had tremendous crowds in his swing through these states and Montana.

The Republicans' chief hope is to re-elect Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon and Wesley L. Jones, arch-dry, of Washington.

Reports that California might go Democratic were discounted until recently, but there are many factors believed to be aiding the Democrats.

Democratic registration and their vote in the primary have raised hopes of a change.

Senator Hiram Johnson's indorsement of Roosevelt, and his attack on Hoover, are expected to be taken as signals to his followers to cut the head of the ticket.

HOOVER MOVES TO EASE FARM DEBT BURDEN

Acts to Help Borrowers Who Can't Pay Seed and Feed Loans.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—President Herbert Hoover today took an active lead in plans for bringing financial relief to farmers and home owners.

After announcing a plan to ease the debt burden on farmers, who have received crop production loans, Mr. Hoover conferred with Gardner Cowles of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation concerning a conference called to meet at Chicago Thursday on the mortgage situation.

The seed and feed loan plan will permit the department to accept only 25 per cent of the amount due on such loans, no further payment being required until congress acts to define terms for payment of the remaining 75 per cent.

The White House statement emphasized that the low prices for wheat now prevailing made it "practically impossible" for farmers to repay the crop production loans "without incurring grave risk of need during the winter."

Park Executives Visit Chicago Forest Preserve

Playground of 4,000,000 Is Shown Delegates to Regional Parley.

By Times Special
CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Joe Brezina, 250-pound district supervisor of the Cook county (Illinois) forest preserve, loves and cares for his beech trees as if they were his children.

Today Joe was giving delegates to the eighth annual convention and field meeting of the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes regional conference of park executives a convincing demonstration of his love.

He was telling how an Italian with his family drove into the preserve one day and refused to park in the allotted space. The Italian drove his car over the roots of one of the beeches Joe loves.

A heated argument ensued, and finally Joe crunched his 250 pounds down on the Italian's toes by stepping on them. "Watzza idea?" the Italian demanded angrily. Said Joe: "You see that tree? Well, you run your car on its toes and it hurts. But the tree can't speak. Same thing as I do to you, only you can cry out. Get the point?" The Italian did, and now they are fast friends.

Today, Joe was retelling the story to delegates with graphic illustrations involving the corns of his listeners.

Under the guidance of Charles G. Sauers, Chicago, preserve superintendent and former assistant of the Indiana conservation department, the delegates visited the Cook county preserves and learned how this 33,000 acres of woodland has been converted into a perpetual playground for some 4,000,000 Chicagoans.

This wooded area completely surrounds the windy city on the land side and forms a counter-attraction to Lake Michigan.
