

CHICAGO CUBS EXPECT CUBS TO HALT YANKS ON HOME LOT

52,000 to See First Tussle on Saturday

All of Windy City Pulling for Bruins to Stage Comeback at Wrigley Field After Double Loss in World Series to Yankees.

BY RAY BLACK
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—If 50,000-odd fans concentrating on one wish can win a world series baseball game, it will be a different story at Wrigley field Saturday for the twice-defeated Cubs.

This volatile, baseball-contagious city thought, argued and bet and fought with their fists today about one topic: "Can the Cubs win Saturday?"

From Waukegan on the North Shore to Blue Island far south and from the lake to Villa Park, the argument raged. Society matrons and debutantes begged to differ over their tea cups; bricklayers hooted and growled over their dinner pails; school boys and hoodlums poked each other's noses; brokers forgot their tickers and stenographers their chewing gum.

"Can the Cubs win?"

Not that any one in Chicago, except perhaps gamblers who bet professionally, really wants them to lose. This is as loyal a baseball city as it is an enthusiastic one.

Even the White Sox fans from the south side, ordinarily ready to fight at the drop of a Cub's complacent, have declared a truce and will flock to Wrigley field as staunch supporters of the north side club. As soon as the last out was made in New York late Thursday, Chicagoans started planning a homecoming for Charlie Grimm and the players.

And out at Wrigley field the third of falling hammers, the skill of the men toiling against time was audible proof that the extra bleachers they are building will be needed to hold the estimated crowd of 52,000 for the Cubs' first series game at home.

State Eleven Wallops Oaks

By Times Special
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 30.—Led by Spence, fast-stepping half back, Indiana State grid warriors swept to a 63 to 0 triumph over Oakland City college eleven here Thursday night. Spence's long sprints around end netted three touchdowns and paved the way for other Sycamore tallies. Ketchum scored twice. Wey three times and Sheets and Witke once each.

In addition to a powerful offense, Coach Art Strum's eleven displayed a stubborn defense which held the Oaks to three first downs.

Herman Leads Off With Another Hit

Billy Herman started the second game of the world series just as he started the first—one with a ringing base hit. The fighting second baseman of the Cubs is shown dashing into second safe after having parked one of Lefty Gomez' distinctive slants in a far corner of the outfield for a double. Herman scored the first run in each of the games in New York.

mit that for some reason this condition, rare as it is, is even rarer in the metropolis. There seems to be a law that only outsiders can make the variety.

For years the biggest name in baseball has been Ruth. He sprang from the crowded streets in Baltimore. He hit balls farther than they had ever been hit before. He made records that seem destined to live forever. He rose to heights in the money-changing temples that no other player had ever approached.

And all the time there was another young man playing alongside him, a superb athlete and tremendous hitter, who asked nothing more than to be accepted as

Nine Conference Elevens to See First Action Saturday
By United Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Big Ten conference football teams tapered off with light workouts today for the season's opening games Saturday.

Northwestern is ready to face Missouri without the services of Ernest (Pug) Rentner, star half back, who is handicapped by a charley horse.

The Michigan squad had several cripples and was not expected to be at full strength for the clash with Michigan State. Wistert and Damm, both experienced tacklers, may not be able to play.

Illinois prepared for a double-header against Coe and Miami universities. Yanuskius, Berry, Andrews and Walser made up a tentative back field.

Ohio State studied fundamentals in preparation for the opener against Ohio Wesleyan. Defense was stressed by University of Iowa players who will meet Bradley Tech Saturday.

At least two sophomores are expected to be in the back field Coach Bernie Bierman sends on the field when Minnesota meets South Dakota Saturday.

Captain Gregory Kabat was shifted to center and Goldenberg took the quarter back post as Wisconsin awaited Marquette university. Purdue will meet Kansas, Aggies, and Indiana faces Ohio U. Chicago is idle.

MORSE IN NET FINALS
The winner of the Burns-Wright match, halted Thursday by darkness with Burns leading by one set, will play Morse in the finals of the Shortridge tennis tournament today. Morse defeated Lathrop, 6-1, 6-1.

TECH HARRIERS WIN
Placing five runners among the first eight to finish, Tech easily won the five-cornered cross country meet at Warren Central Thursday. John Thoeny of Tech led the pack to the wire. Warren Central, Emanuel, Ben Davis and Southport finished in that order.

Gomez Outpitches Warneke in Battle of Great Young Flingers

Fumble and Bad Hop Deprive Lefty of Shutout; Ruth Praises Cub Youngster as One of Year's Best Hurlers Despite Loss.

BY BABE RUTH
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—We had to swing against one great young pitcher in New York Thursday, but we had the good fortune to have another great one working on our side, and now we can see nothing ahead but success in this world series with the Cubs.

Lon Warneke, about whom we American League players read so much during the summer, proved to us that he was all they said he was. The fact that he beat him does not take away the fact that he is quite a pitcher.

Vernon Gomez, of course, is better known. Lefty was a star through 1931, and he rang up twenty-four victories this year, seven of them against the Athletics. He turned in one of his best performances of the year in taking the second game decision over the Cubs, and he probably could have beaten any pitcher starting against him Thursday. A fumble and a bad hop alone prevented him from registering a shutout.

It was our good fortune to have such pitching on our side on a day when Warneke was working. The Chicago box man showed us a better curve ball than Bush did, but he was a bit unsteady in the early innings, apparently from trying too hard. After the third inning, we did not get very far with his fast ball or his snappy curve. Yes, sir, Mr. Warneke is one of the best pitchers I have looked at this year.

The fact that we have won the two games with something to spare, while not coming through with anything like a real batting rally, makes us all the more certain that the championship will be ours. We surely should win when we start to get hits in clusters. So far, we have not made more than two hits in any inning, but we have had the good fortune to get them while bases on balls were being passed out.

Cub Attack Is Weak
The first three runs scored in the second game were the direct result of passes while Warneke was getting himself steadied down. Once he stopped walking us the innings became brief and the runs almost nothing.

These Cubs surely showed us plenty of snappy work around the infield, but they don't strike me as having so strong an attack as I had looked for. Perhaps that is explained in the fact that they have been swinging against two of the best pitchers in the American League—Ruffing and Gomez. When either one of these pitchers is going well the hitting of the other team is bound to suffer.

They tell me that the Cubs are tough to beat on their home field, so we are looking for harder battles in Chicago. The Yankees have been tough to beat at home all year and there is no overlooking the fact that we had some advantage, slight or otherwise, in playing the first two games at home.

We are invading Chicago with the idea of making another clean sweep if possible, but it isn't going to be easy. The Cubs are beacons on their home field where the fans are quite wildly excited about them.

Picks Piggras to Win
I expect to see George Piggras do our pitching in the third game of the series and if George shows anything like the form he displayed in the late weeks of the season, we should make it three in a row on Saturday.

It looks as if they can't stop Lou Gehrig in this series, and when Lou is hitting at his normal clip, we don't lose many games. I think we have two of the best men I ever saw at the top of a batting order. They have to pitch to Combs and they have to pitch to Sewell. It was because of Combs' uncanny ability to judge a pitched ball that he drew the first inning pass Thursday after Warneke had two strikes on him almost as soon as he stepped to the plate.

Combs' walk made Warneke too careful with Sewell and Joe walked. Two passes were cashed in later on his by Gehrig and Dickey as runs and we never trailed after that.

Veteran Ohio State Eleven Strong Big Ten Title Threat

This is the last of a series of articles on Big Ten football prospects.
By United Press
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Ohio State is decidedly a contender for the Big Ten football championship this year.

The Buckeyes have the material for a championship team, and most favorable schedule of any of the contenders. There seems to be just two stumbling blocks in Ohio State's path to its first title since 1920.

One is the lack of a full team of players. Ohio State's roster is short of players in several positions. The other is the lack of a full team of players. Ohio State's roster is short of players in several positions.

Ohio State's other conference foes are Indiana, Wisconsin and Illinois, and the Buckeyes count those games already won. A big factor in Ohio State's favor for the two big games is that Michigan meets Northwestern on the Saturday before playing the Buckeyes, and Northwestern plays Minnesota the week before meeting the Scarlet and Gray. Those two battles certainly won't help either the Wolverines or Wildcats for the Ohio State game.

Last year Ohio State won four conference games and lost two, being beaten by Northwestern and Minnesota. Only three men of importance were lost from the 1931 team. They were Stuart Holcomb, half back, and Bill Bell and Bob Heubrich, regular tackles. There are fifteen letter men back, eight of them line men, and seven backs.

Sam Willman, beginning his fourth year as head coach, will continue to use a medical man, the W. W. Austin. Carl Cramer, all-conference quarter back, and perhaps the greatest sophomore player in the Big Ten last year, Captain Lew Hutchinson and Bill Carroll, half backs, and Mike Vucelja, full back, will form the first team back field.

Cramer is a brilliant general and a triple-threat man who will be a constant menace to the opposition. Hutchinson is a great blocker, Carroll an elusive runner, and Vucelja a powerful plunger. The line is made up of all veterans except the tackle, William Frenkel, and Max Padiou, sophomore ends. Fred Conrad, tackle, Pete Delich, and Frank Lutz, sophomore guards, and Bert Nassman, letter man, are also back.

Ohio State's schedule follows: Oct. 1, Ohio vs. Oregon; Oct. 8, Indiana; Oct. 15, Michigan; Oct. 22, at Pittsburgh; Oct. 29, Wisconsin; Nov. 5, at Northwestern; Nov. 12, Pennsylvania; Nov. 19, at Illinois.

Writers Pick Boilermakers to Cop Title
By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Correspondent
CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Purdue, Big Ten champions in 1929 and co-champions in 1931, is favored to win the western conference football title this season, the annual United Press poll of mid-western gridiron experts revealed today.

With one of the closest races in years in prospect, Purdue is picked to nose out Michigan for the championship with three other teams, Ohio State, Minnesota and Northwestern, dangerous contenders.

A composite of the predictions forecasts the following finish:
1—Purdue
2—Michigan
3—Ohio State
4—Minnesota
5—Northwestern
6—Wisconsin
7—Indiana
8—Chicago
9—Iowa
10—Nebraska

Purdue's favorable schedule and the wealth of veteran material at Coach Noble Kizer's disposal were outstanding factors in making the Boilermakers favorites.
