By United Press
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, carried President Hoover's campaign for re-election into the mid-west today.

"We are not conceding the Democrats a thing," Mills said, and added the only prediction he had to make was that "Mr. Hoover will be plenty strong on election day."

He was greeted on his arrival here from Detroit by midwestern Republican leaders.

Mills was scheduled to deliver a campaign address over a nationwide hookup tonight.

Mexico's Church Laws 'Wicked,' Says Pope

By United Press

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 30.—Pope Pius XI renewed his protest against "deplorable, outrageous, wicked laws oppressing the liberty of the church" in Mexico in an encyclical to the Mexican episcopate issued today.

"We protest before the world, particularly before governments and all nations, so that the persecution in Mexico may be considered, besides an offense against God, the church and the conscientious Catholic population to constitute the incentive to social upheaval which is the aim of Atheists," the encyclical said.

"To approve or co-operate with this iniquitous law is illicit and sacrilegious," the pope charged.

Bishops, the clergy, and the faithful were urged to protest energetically against the laws restricting the number of priests in Mexico because of the serious violation of divine rights.

Difficulties between church and state in Mexico reached a climax when General Plutarco Elias Calles, pronounced anti-clerical, was elected president in 1924. Calles received from congress powers to recognize marriage as a civil contract and to prohibit religious teaching in the public schools. Various states have enacted laws further limiting the activities of the church.

The basis of the present relations, reached in 1929, forbids the hierarchy to designate priests to register in compliance with Mexican laws; limits religious instruction to the churches, and allows Mexican prelates the right to apply for modification of the Constitution just as any Mexican citizen may apply. The number of priests in the federal district, in which Mexico City is located, was reduced to one per 100,000 population, leaving some fifty priests to do the work previously delegated to 250. State governments made drastic reductions in the number of priests recognized officially.
