

EVANSVILLE GET REDUCTION OF ELECTRIC RATES

Emergency Order Based on Findings in City's Water Case.

First emergency rate reduction, based on the federal district court findings in the Indianapolis Water Company case, the spread of public service commission records today.

An order written by Commissioners Howell Ellis and Ralph Young a 10 per cent emergency reduction was granted Evansville users of electric power from the Southern Indiana Gas and Electric Company.

Neither street railway fares of this company nor gas rates were reduced.

The electric rate reduction will become effective Nov. 1, for a six-month period, to April 30, 1933, under provision of the order which was approved by all commissioners at their conference Friday afternoon.

A valuation of $10,564,342 was found for the electric property in Evansville and the 10 per cent reduction will yield a 6 per cent return, it was said. The Indianapolis decision was cited showing that 6 per cent is sufficient at the present time.

Audit and appraisal of company properties will proceed for final hearing next April.

The order cited threats of federal court appeal made by company attorneys and set out that the commission will not be deterred from reducing rates by such threats.

SELL PIGS! YOU CAN'T EVEN GIVE 'EM AWAY

Hollander's Experience Takes Prize for Depression.

TULARE, Cal., Oct. 15.—Times are hard in California, but not, opines Neil De Wilde of Tulare, as hard as they are in Holland.

De Wilde received a letter from his brother-in-law in the Netherlands.

"The brother-in-law, it appeared, took three pigs to market, intending to trade them for groceries. He tried vainly all day, but could not get an offer."

He decided, he wrote, not to take the pigs back home and continue to feed them, but to slip them into the pen of another farmer and abandon them.

He returned to his own pen, he related, and found eight pigs in it and the owner of the adjoining stall missing.

1825 BOOK FOUND IN NEW ORLEANS SWAMP

Prospector Stumbles on Chimney, Reveals Buried Vault.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—While browsing around the swamps sixty miles below New Orleans, D. S. Rose, prospector, found a book 107 years old and other relics of a family that once lived in the isolated prairie district.

Rose, inventor of an electrical apparatus credited with having located minerals and metals, said he and a companion were going through the swamps when they stumbled upon the remains of an old brick chimney.

They investigated and found a vault about ten feet deep, built into the chimney. From it they retrieved an old uniform, some bolts of a once fine cloth and the old book, the latter a copy of Gales & Seaton's Register, printed in Washington, D. C., in 1825.

GOLD MINES PRODUCING

Other West African Shells May Be Reopened, Reports Say.

AOORA, Gold Coast, West Africa, Oct. 15.—Signs that the famed "Gold Coast" may at last live up to the reputation implied in its name — something it never has done — are given in certain behind-the-scenes activities during the last year.

In addition to the three mines actually producing gold today, others are being reinspected and reopened, and working capital is forthcoming for their development. Results are understood to have been encouraging.

FLEES BY DUMBWAITER

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 15.—Alecide Macous, serving a sentence for "house breaking, escaped from the Rockingham county jail through a dumbwaiter in the jail kitchen.

Hollywood Does Wonders for Gail

As Margaret Fitzpatrick

Here's what Hollywood can do for a girl. At the left you see Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick of Birmingham, Ala., who had ambitions to become a lawyer.

At the center and right you see Miss Gail Patrick of Hollywood. Miss Fitzpatrick and Miss Patrick are the same girl. The great change in Margaret Fitzpatrick's appearance and future came about because she entered a Birmingham movie contest "just for the fun of it."

But she won the contest—and a screen test in Hollywood.

As Gail Patrick

There were more screen tests and suddenly Miss Fitzpatrick was offered, and accepted, a seven-year contract. Her ambition to be a lawyer has been sidetracked for seven years, she says.

Hollywood's beauty experts went to work. Eyebrow pluckers, hair-dressers, teachers of posture did their stuff. Even her name was operated on—so it might some day fit in lights.

The results is Gail Patrick, who, as you'll notice at the right, now has the accepted movie posture, whose smile now isn't quite so wide, whose clothes are the last word.

And Hollywood proclaims her "a new find."

TWO MORE TAX APPEALS FILED

Protest Levy Rate Set by County Board.

County Auditor Charles A. Grossart today was to certify to the state tax board two more appeals from levies of the county tax adjustment board.

He announced this is the last day for filing appeals with his office.

The two appeals, filed Friday afternoon, are from the Indiana Taxpayers' Association, headed by Harry Miesse, secretary, and from Lawrence township residents.

County, school city and civil city levies were protested in the appeal of the taxpayers' association.

The adjustment group fixed these rates: School city, 92 cents; civil city, $1.25, and county, 41 cents.

Advisory board levies were appealed by Lawrence taxpayers, asserting all the township's levies are "too high."

The Lawrence rate is $2.14, including state. Grossart already has certified two other appeals to the state board, one by the Hoosier Taxpayers' Association, another by Beech Grove citizens.

Death Takes One-Time School Mate of Riley

Mrs. Caroline Dora McCarty Came Here 80 Years Ago in Covered Wagon.

Funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Dora McCarty, 85, one-time school-mate and friend of James Whitcomb Riley, were to be held at 2 today at the home, 2626 North New Jersey street.

Eighty years ago, Mrs. McCarty came to Indianapolis in a covered wagon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Huey Phillips, and her sister, Mary Jane, 9.

When a girl of 14, the Phillips moved to Greenfield where Mrs. McCarty attended school with James Whitcomb Riley. She was married in Rush county to Dr. N. P. Morse, who died two years later.

Their daughter was the late Mrs. Nona Lockhart, Indianapolis. Mrs. McCarty taught school in and near Greenfield for seven years and then was married to Mose McCarty, Gosport stockman and farmer.

They moved to Indianapolis forty years ago, Mr. McCarty dying two years after they moved here.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarty were the parents of four children, the late Mrs. Nina Dollens, wife of Dr. Claude Dollens, Bedford; Dr. P. W. McCarty and Miss Dolly McCarty, Indianapolis, and A. T. McCarty, Portland (Ore.) newspaper man.

Nickel Buys Ticket in Football Pool Racket

Unused Baseball Ducats Are Used: Chance to Win Small.

The boys around town now have a new one to separate the football fan from his money and dispose of unused baseball pool tickets.

For 5 cents, the fan has the privilege of buying a ticket that gives him a small—very small—chance to win the capital prize of $12. But to win that prize each of the three teams he holds must carry the highest scores. That may happen now and then.

The "book" on the new racket carries the names of sixteen teams in the midwest and east.

Starting with number 101 the list jumps to 116. At the most, the book is open to sixteen games. However, on Saturdays some teams may oppose others on the "book."

Teams listed are Chicago, Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Army, Princeton, Pittsburgh, Wisconsin, Navy, Harvard, Minnesota, Michigan and Yale.

The tickets had a heavy sale on downtown streets, buildings and poolrooms this week.

Outside of the three team numbers on the ticket, no other part of the baseball pool ducat means anything to the purchaser. The seller tells his customer what teams the three numbers represent.

Experts in the baseball pool racket claim the chances of winning anything as a football scheme are so slight that practically every nickel will be clear profit to the promoter.

MAIN STREET IS MINE

Workmen Find Pay Dirt in Colorado Town Excavation.

SALIDA, Colo., Oct. 15.—Workmen who were excavating for paving on the main street of Salida made a gold strike.

Herbert Turner, working with the crew, noted a peculiar streak in the dirt where the grader had passed.

He secured a pan and a hose and panned a distinct showing of gold. Placer miners experienced in securing "pay dust" estimated the dirt would pan about $30 to the ton.

City officials were not sure whether the dirt was hauled in for surfacing, or whether it was the original ground.

FESTIVAL HELD IN NEW BETHEL

Business, Church Groups Greet Visitors.

An all-day harvest festival was held on the main street of New Bethel today, with the feature an automobile race between "cars of ancient vintage."

City and county visitors to the fair were greeted by business and church groups, headed by F. R. Blanchette and S. I. Sutherland.

A pulling contest was expected to have ten or more teams. Bicycle and other races for boys and girls are carded.

Miss Janis Berlin directed a large food exhibit, and pie eaters were to get their fun late this afternoon in a contest.

A hundred entries were expected in a hog calling contest which was to be supervised by Harry Roberts.

Meals were served by women of the town and music was provided by two bands. Decision in a popularity contest was to close the day's events at 9:30.

AWAIT MYSTERY DEATH VERDICT

Solution of Mrs. Huhn Case Expected Monday.

Verdict is expected to be given Monday by Deputy Coroner John Wittenbach on the mystery death of Mrs. Hertie Elizabeth Huhn, 36, who was found dead Wednesday on the bathroom floor at her home, 910 Leland avenue.

Although detectives investigating the case declare the woman was not slain, Dr. Wittenbach said that several unexplained facts, revealed by an autopsy on the body, must be traced before a verdict is given.

The woman, who was reunited several months ago with her 15-year-old son, who came from Germany after eight years of waiting, either had fallen or been choked while alone in the house.

The body was found by the son, Helmut Schulz, now a pupil at Manual training high school.

Mrs. Huhn, married a second time since leaving Germany, apparently was in good health, according to the husband, John Huhn.

600 Methodist Churches to Send Delegates Here

State Council to Meet Monday; Bishop Blake to Review Area Work.

Delegates from approximately 600 Methodist churches are expected to attend the Indiana state council of the Methodist Episcopal church on Monday at the Meridian Street M. E. church.

Two sessions, including a women's mass meeting, will be held on Tuesday afternoon and night at Roberts Park M. E. church.

Mrs. F. I. Johnson, first vice-president of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, will be the chief speaker at the session.

Arrangements for the women's meeting are being made by Mrs. Felix M. McWhirter, Mrs. Brandt C. Downey, and Mrs. William C. Hartinger.

Bishop Edgar Blake, Detroit, formerly resident bishop of Indianapolis, will give a review of area work at the opening session.

Doff Names

Hollywood Stars Adept at Quick Changes When Fame Arrives.

BY DAN THOMAS Times Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—I never could remember names. But even if I had a better memory for monikers, it would be difficult to recognize scores of famous stage and screen folk by their real names.

Just to give you an idea—do you know the names of the stars who are in the picture "Doff Names"?

Chotsey Noonan, Sally O'Neill, Myrna Williams became Myrna Loy; Joe Stern added a Von and a Berg and became Joseph von Sternberg.

The director, Nancy Le Huff thought Nancy Carroll would sound better, and when it comes to long-distance records, get this one:

Lolita Delores Asunsolo de Martinez. That, fellow fans, is Dolores Del Rio.

This word championship is almost tied by De Alonzo Louis Antonio Demoso, who is Gilbert Roland.

Well, if you like the game, we'll give you a few more: Fannie Brice started as Fannie Boroch; June Colyer was Dorothy Heermance. Gilda Gray was once known as Marianna Micholska. Paula Oesterman doesn't sound half so Spanish as Raquel Torres, does it?

Jack Gilbert was John Pringle. Ina Claire was born with the good Irish name of Ina Fagan. Richard Dix came out of the middle west as Ernest Brimmer. Ramon Novarro changed from Ramon Salmiego.

The Magic Number—266

Two hundred sixty-six electoral votes—one more than half the total—are necessary to elect a President this November. About everybody in the country is busy with pencil and paper, and a list of all the forty-eight states, figuring out how either Hoover or Roosevelt can secure that number.

The Democrats start with the solid south, add the west or most of it, throw in one or two from the mid-west, and presto!—Roosevelt is elected! The Republicans claim solid New England and middle Atlantic territory, add most of the middle west, take one or two states west of the Mississippi, and presto!—Hoover is elected! It's anybody's guess.

Our Washington Bureau has ready for you a bulletin showing the actual vote—popular and electoral—of each and every state in the Union for the last nine elections—from 1896 to 1928. Here's a basis on which to do your figuring. What do the records show about the states that are "close"? Get this bulletin and you have the fast of past elections on which to base your guesses.
