

EXECUTED BY GANGSTERS AS WIFE LOOKS ON

Machine Gun Fire From 'Nest' Across From Home Mows Down Man.

By United Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—A dozen discolored machine gun shells and a vague description today gave police their only clews in the gang execution of Roland McKenna, 28, by gunfire from sniper's ambush.

A salvo of machine gunfire from a gun nest across from his home killed McKenna Monday night as he waved a home-coming greeting to his wife and mother, who were waiting dinner for him.

The death was believed by police to be in revenge for McKenna's activities in connection with the kidnapping of wealthy gamblers for ransom.

He was known as a minor gangster, connected with Danny McGrohan's south side beer forces.

Recently, police said they received a mysterious message that if they did not arrest McKenna for his abduction activities, he would be slain.

Detectives considered it likely McKenna was concerned in the kidnapping for $50,000 ransom of John Lynch, racing news service official, last year.

The machine gunners apparently had kept vigil at the nest in a second-floor apartment across the street from McKenna's home for months.

The flat was rented early in September by a man of whom only a vague description was available. Nearly every night since that time three or four men had gathered in the apartment, neighbors said.

After the slaying, which occurred as Mrs. McKenna and her mother were looking from the window of the home, four men ran from the building and escaped in an automobile.

In the flat, police found machine gun and shotgun shells. A cot was the only furniture of the apartment.

CUMMINS CHARGE IS DISMISSED BY COURT

Shooting Held Accidental by County Authorities; Hearing Off.

Hearing of Mrs. Ethel Cummings, 44, of 4166 Washington boulevard, arrested following the death of her husband, L. G. Cummings, 45, of a bullet wound, had been set for Monday before Municipal Judge William H. Sheaffer, but inquiry revealed that a charge of vagrancy against her had been dismissed Oct. 25.

Authorities held that the shooting, which occurred Oct. 22 at the Cummings home, was accidental. The couple, it is asserted, struggled for possession of a revolver with which Mrs. Cummings said she intended to end her life, and the weapon was discharged.

A bullet entered the husband's abdomen, bringing death the next day.

ROME, Nov. 1.—The concession of cheap tickets to newly married couples of all nations by the Italian state railroads and the pope's concession in receiving them has caused a regular invasion of honeymooners in the Vatican of late.

If all the world is supposed to love a lover, it would appear that the pope does not seek to make any exception for himself in this respect, for the honeymooners who come for an audience are treated with special consideration and the formality of the audience is reduced to the minimum.

GIRL, 14, WEDS; JAIL HUSBAND

Irate Father Demands Court Annul Marriage.

Argument of a divorced father and mother over what is best for their 14-year-old daughter, which brought them into juvenile court many times, Monday interfered with the girl's marriage, landing her young husband in jail.

Mrs. Marie Robertson, 14, a bride of three weeks, clung to her mother, Mrs. Flossie Woolbright, 717 East Ohio street, while her father, John Woolbright, 1246 Udell street, demanded that Judge John F. Geckler annul the marriage.

Her husband, Ramon Robertson, 17, of 1442 Herschell avenue, where the couple had started housekeeping, was sent to jail pending trial on the father's complaint Friday.

Neither parent had approved the marriage, license which was obtained Oct. 10, when Robertson swore his bride was 18, according to testimony.
