

DEPOSITORS ON COMMITTEE TO HELP RECEIVER

Seek to Place Trustees System Firm Back on Feet Swiftly.

By agreement with depositors, a committee was appointed in a superior court one Thursday to execute plans for reorganization of the Trustees System Company of Indianapolis that its receivership may be terminated speedily.

Twelve holders of gold note certificates were named to work with the receivers and Judge John W. Kern.

This committee was authorized by majority of 400 depositors who attended the meeting.

"We hope to turn management of the company's affairs back to its officers and directors as soon as possible," Jackie W. Joseph, secretary of the company, declared.

It was agreed "to waive on the depositors' behalf any and all claims for repayment of gold notes prior to their maturity date."

Members of the committee are: Louis Berlin, street circulation manager; The Indianapolis Star; E. C. Heckman, pressman at the Star; H. T. Tompkins, manager of the Indianapolis Star Company; Jack Morton, Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company employee; Dr. Joseph E. Kern, Indianapolis City Law Commission merchant; Grover Williams, attorney; Charles Stigle, paper boy; Fred S. Collins, manager of Good Brothers, Inc.; Dr. Elmer J. Fox, optometrist; John David, upholsterer; and Arthur J. Baron, potato chip manufacturer.

Suit for appointment of a federal receiver for the Indianapolis Company to conserve assets was filed in federal court Thursday by John W. Holder, Bloomington, Ill., holder of seven gold notes.

SOLD IT!

The D. & D. Transfer Co., located at 416 West South St., had a tractor and trailer that they wanted to sell . . . so they advertised with a Want Ad in The Times. This was the ad:

TRACTOR and trailer, also Ford, 1931 truck, bargain. $48. W. Pearl St.

And here's what happened. The ad ran only 4 days . . . cost only 90 cents . . . and brought ACTION! Four parties wanted the tractor and trailer . . . but only one was able to get it . . . the others are still looking . . . in The Times, of course.

DAD'S DAY WILL BE FEATURE AT PURDUE NOV. 19

Football Game With Indiana Is Special Attraction for Visitors.

By Times Special

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 11.—Dad's day, the one day in the year devoted to the fathers of Purdue university students, will be observed this year on Nov. 19, with the Purdu-Indiana football game as the center of attraction.

According to Giesen, his company would ship the foamy beverage to Indiana from the Berghoff Products Company of Ft. Wayne until production could be started up here.

"We would be the Indianapolis distributor for Berghoff," he said.

"After we get things going at our place here, we could give the people real Indianapolis beer."

"We are prepared to put beer on the market any time the laws allow us to," he declared.

With the program are a number of other features which will offer an especially attractive menu to the visiting dads, here for a reunion with son or daughter.

Members of the Dad's day committee and of the executive council of the Dad's assembly will join in a dinner at 6:30, Nov. 18, at the Purdue Memorial Union building, when affairs of the assembly will be gone over in detail and various items of business transacted.

Visiting fathers will register Saturday morning and a special convocation is scheduled in Eliza Fowler hall at 9:30 that morning, with Fred Kelly, widely known writer and lecturer of Peninsula, O., whose son is a Purdue student, as principal speaker.

A review of the University R. O. T. C. is scheduled for 11 o'clock and a special dad's luncheon will be held in the Memorial Union building immediately following. President E. C. Elliott will speak at the luncheon.

The Purdue-Indiana game will be the afternoon attraction, with the evening program to include a playshop presentation, "Androcles and Lion," by George Bernard Shaw at 3 o'clock in Eliza Fowler hall, to be followed by a special union dance especially for the dads.

Special impetus has been given to the plans for the 1932 dad's day and a record number of visitors is expected, as this feature of the university program has proved increasingly popular. Professor Robert Phillips of the history and economics department, is serving as chairman of the committee in charge of the dad's day events.
