South Is Indebted to Coach Dan McGugin

Lon Warneke Proves He's Goods as Hurler

Reynolds Pops Up With New Mat Yarn

MORE than any other coach in the south, Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt at Nashville, has been responsible for the phenomenal growth of college football below the Mason and Dixon line. He served as guard on the Michigan eleven in 1903 and went to Vandy in 1904.

McGugin recently was named president of the American Football Coaches' Association and is compared in Dixie with A. A. Stagg in the north. The entire south started building teams in 1905 with the object of beating Vanderbilt, which scored 552 points in 1904.

Five years went by before McGugin's team was upset, Sewanee winning, 16 to 5. Dan's methods are like Jack Sutherland's in a way, friendly rather than force, and like Rockne's that bawling out is most effective when buried in a wisecrack.

For years before Notre Dame came into football prominence, McGugin was placing guards in the interference. It was his idea to use light, fast men as guards.

Dan introduced the huddle system in the south and was one of the earliest users of the forward pass. Moreover, he discovered the possibilities of the direct pass from center to backs instead of via the quarter back and was the first in the south to use it.

Now McGugin is coaching a second generation of Vandy men, among them Bob Patterson and Oscar Noel, sons of men who played under the veteran Dan years ago.

Vets Doff Caps to Young Cub

THE more the baseball experts delve into official National League averages, the more they realize young Lon Warneke was quite a pitcher for the Chicago Cubs in 1932. The big lad from Arkansas had his good right arm in nearly every worthwhile achievement and practically shoved the veteran moundsmen of the senior circuit out of the limelight.

Warneke was with the Bruins in 1931, but was an untied rookie and 1932 really was his freshest year in the big show. He led the league in best winning percentage by annexing twenty-two games against only six defeats. His earned run efficiency also was high over all, the average being 2.37 per nine innings.

It was the first time since 1926 that a hurler gained the double honors in the pitching department. Ray Kremer won the double distinction in '26 with twenty wins and six losses and earned run record of 2.61. Warneke's twenty-two wins also landed him supremacy in games won. Lefty Clark of Brooklyn being next with twenty. Lon's actual percentage was .786.

The youthful Chicago thrower tied for shutout honors by hanging up four, the same as registered by Steve Swetonic of the Pirates and Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals. Warneke pitched twenty-five complete games, pitched 277 innings and took part in thirty-five games. He walked sixty-four, struck out 106, made five wild pitches and hit two batsmen.

Lon is 24, weighs 180 and stands 6 feet 1 1/2 inches. His fielding record was good for a youngster. He misused only once in sixty-seven chances, having eleven putouts and fifty-five assists. He was in seven double plays.

Indianapolis fans will be surprised to know their own Ferdie Schupp, who used to outpace them up to the plate at old Washington park, holds the major league record for allowing the least earned runs in a single season. In 1916, with the New York Giants, Schupp pitched 140 innings and permitted only 0.91 earned runs. The next best mark is 1.01 made by Dutch Leonard with the Boston Red Sox in 1914.

Other remarkable low earned records were made by Walter Johnson, 1.09, in 1913; 1.26 in 1918, and 1.49 in 1919; by Joe Wood, Red Sox, 1.49 in 1915, and 1.22 by Grover Alexander in 1915. Alex pitched 376 innings for the Phillies in 1915. He won thirty-one games and lost ten in 1915 and in 1916 won thirty-three and lost twelve.

Jack Now Knows About Bulgarians

JACK REYNOLDS, champ welterweight grappler, comes up with one that demonstrates the mat game is in a class by itself for supplying the "unusual." Jack says he won a bout recently in the southwest without taking a fall, and it wasn't a point decision bout. If wrestling was baseball the grunt and groan would doubtless find a way to make a home run without getting a hit.

Reynolds was matched with Nenoff, the Bulgarian, for a clash in Dallas and was looking forward to soft action. He never had heard of "Nenoff" and old Jack has been around a long while. It was only a short time after the bout started that Jack realized his opponent possessed a lot of power and some experience.

The match developed into a rough affair and Reynolds finally was thrown out of the ring. When Jack tried to climb back Nenoff kicked him on the jaw and sent him sprawling into the seats again. The referee disqualified the Bulgarian for that fall and a rest was ordered.

The adversaries soon were at it again and once more Nenoff resorted to kicking and kept his "puppies" bouncing off of Reynolds until he was disqualified for the second time and the referee awarded the match to Jack.

WITH many golf clubs offering the lowest rates in history in campaigns for members, the Brookline (Mass.) Country Club, oldest and perhaps most exclusive golf club in America, reports a waiting list of 776, almost as big as its membership of 875. Where's that depression?

Opponents will find the captain of this year's Rhode Island State basketball team all over the floor. The quintet has four captains—Eddie Cox, Reginald Horsemann, Jack Donovan and Arthur Kilroy, all seniors. Oh, captains, oh, my captains.

OFFICIALS of Madison Square Garden, New York, are trying a new boxing announcement system, in which a "lapel" microphone is used. The "mike" is placed on the lapel of the announcer's coat. It has a short wire running to a plug, which carries the announcer's voice into the amplifying set. Some announcers would know what to do with their arms and will be speechless without gestures!

Hoosier Collegiate Netters Face Heavy Card This Week

Indiana college game teams open the first week of the new year with twelve games in the state, eight of them against outside opponents.

Indiana and Purdue start their Big Ten competition Saturday, the Boilermakers playing Minnesota at Terre Haute, and the Hoosiers at Ohio State. Indiana plays Miami at Oxford, O., Tuesday, in its last pre-conference game.

Butler makes its first road trip of the season this week, playing two Missouri Valley Conference games. The Bulldogs play Drake at Des Moines tonight and Grinnell at Grinnell, Tuesday.

Centenary college of Shreveport, La., enters the state this week for four games, meeting Ball State at Muncie tonight; Earlham at Richmond, Wednesday; Evansville at Evansville, Thursday, and Indiana State Teachers at Terre Haute, Friday.

Wittenberg (O.) college meets Wabash at Crawfordsville Tuesday night and plays again at De Pauw, Wednesday.

Other state invaders are St. Thomas, playing at Valparaiso Thursday, and Marquette playing at Notre Dame, Saturday.

Four intra-state games bring together Ball State at Franklin, Thursday; and on Saturday, De Pauw at Evansville, Franklin at Manchester, and Concordia at Ft. Wayne at Huntington.

In the one game in the state New Year's eve, Oakland City noses out Franklin, 28 to 27 at Oakland City.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 2.—Ernie Triplett, veteran Los Angeles pilot, captured the thirty-one and one-fourth-mile feature speedy event at Ascot Legion speedways here Sunday in 23 minutes 13 seconds.

Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis was a close second. Bill Cummings of Indianapolis won a mile and quarter Italian helmet dash and finished fifth in the feature event.

EX-TULANE STARS WIN

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 2.—Bill Banker and Jerry Dalrymple, recent Tulane all-America stars, led former Green Wave heroes to a 6 to 0 victory over former Loyola stars in a charity game here Sunday. Banker's pass to Jack Holland, all-South end, brought the only touchdown of the game in the second quarter.

Unbeaten Collegiate Gridiron Rivals in Top Shape for Rose Bowl Struggle Today; Pitt Out to Avenge 1930 Drubbing.

BY GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2.—Two of the nation's greatest gridiron machines, representing the University of Southern California and the University of Pittsburgh, meet here today in the annual renewal of the Tournament of Roses football game.

A potent claim on national honors awaits the winner since Southern California won last year's national title. Only Michigan and Colgate have records that approximate those of the unbeaten Rose bowl rivals this season.

Southern California, with a string of nineteen consecutive victories and a heavier team, was favored 2 to 1 over Pitt.

The odds were based on the fact that Southern California has one of the fastest teams ever seen on the coast and in addition carries plenty of weight. Records of the two teams against common opponents also have figured in the forecasts of victory.

Southern California defeated Stanford and Notre Dame by scores of 13 to 0. Pitt won from Stanford, 7 to 0, and from Notre Dame, 12 to 0. If there was any psychological advantage it belonged to Pitt, since the Trojans have been social favorites for the last two weeks and in addition they will remember the last Pitt team they met in Rose Bowl. The score of the game, in 1930, was 47 to 14 in favor of a U. S. C.

Sunday Polo Likely Here

Roller polo games at Tomlinson hall on Sunday afternoons may take the place in the weekly sports program. Last Friday night the patrons at the Richmond-Indianapolis game were asked to express a choice of playing time by filling out a questionnaire, and a canvass of the votes revealed Sunday afternoon received the majority.

Consent for playing games on Sunday will be asked of city authorities, who are donating the use of the hall, and the matter will be taken up at a business meeting of the National Roller Polo League at Anderson Tuesday.

While the games so far played will count in the loop standing, the official schedule has not yet been drawn due to the fact a few of the teams never open their home seasons until the middle of January. After the adoption of the schedule Tuesday there will be two games in Indianapolis each week, perhaps one on Sunday afternoon and the other on Wednesday night, with the local club playing two games weekly on the road.

Free Annexes Skeet Honors

Clem Free, with three first, captured top laurels in the all-day firing at Indianapolis Skeet Club Sunday. Despite a biting wind, he shattered 14 out of 15, 13 out of 15 and 11 out of 15 days. Randolph Coats was second with 24 out of 25, 13 out of 15 and 9 out of 10. Bob Wallace, George Tony, Umbenhower, Ernest McCallie, H. Stumph, Kermer, Burd, R. Orders, Ollie Mays and C. Stumph were other leaders.

Conne Stump was leading in the class A 300-target event when firing was resumed today, with Ernest McCallie second. Many shooters were to take their turns today. Coats was leading the class B entries.

College Giants Sign for Bouts

Four ex-collegians and an Oklahoma veteran will see action on the Tomlinson hall mat program Thursday night as the Hercules A. C. offers its first card of heavyweight wrestling. The sixth grappler on the bill, an opponent for Arthur (Sack) Dick, former Evansville college grid player, is yet to be signed.

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois tackle, will meet Jack Zarnes, former grid guard at Ohio University, in the two falls out of three headline struggle.

Dr. Ralph Wilson, the Hoosier "wrestling surgeon" and former Big Ten champion at Indiana University, is slated to clash with Tommy Marvin, Oklahoma Indian heavyweight, in the semi-windup.

Kautskys Drop Upstate Cagers

Kautsky A. C. cagers registered their fifth triumph in six National League starts at the armory. Sunday, defeating South Bend Guardians, 24 to 19. After a listless first half, in which the locals led 6 to 5, Wooden and Kelly led a second-period rally for Kautskys.

Johnny How, with nine points, was the outstanding performer for the Guardians.

Akron Firestones, with a strong lineup including Ginger and Billy Reeves of Danville college fame, tackle Kautskys here next Sunday.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Ernie SchAAF and Stan Poredo, heavyweight contenders will tangle in their delayed heavyweight scrap at Madison Square Garden next Friday night, over the ten-round route.

'Just Give Me a Shanty,' Croons Williams as Hogan Departs

Well, I hope it is for the best. And wish the New Yorks a happier and more successful year. And for the Brooklyn gang over at Ebbe's field, too.

As for Colonel Ruppert and Joe McCarthy and the Yankee fans, they got all there was to get in baseball in 1932. Others languished, founded on the rocks. But to the Yanks came a pennant, sent a world championship in four straight games. All I can wish Jake is bigger crowds and victory again.

To Bill Terry, I cite the wonders of Giant history as a guiding star for 1933. The Giants, picked to win in 1915, finished last. They recamped the club for 1916 and came home fourth. In 1917 the club which had looked so utterly hopeless in 1915, won the pennant. So keep your chin up, Bill!

For Terry there is the task of refurbishing the color of the Giants, restoring the lurid tints lost with the passing of men like McGraw, Lindstrom and Hogan.

Ah, that Hogan! What a genius! Three years ago McGraw began to watch Shanty's meal checks, carpet

Old Boys Learned About Pitching From Him

Walker Is Hughes' foe

Frankie Hughes, the popular Clifton puncher and former Hoosier welterweight champion, and Young Walker, walloping coach welterweight, were signed today for a ten-round scrap on the Jackie Purvis-Tracy Cox card Tuesday night, Jan. 10, according to Matchmaker Sam Slosky.

Walker made a popular debut here last week when he traded punches with Purvis in a gruelling ten-round draw at the armory. The flashy coach battler will find plenty of opposition in the young Clinton slugger, who has won and dropped a decision in two tussles with Purvis. Hughes recently challenged both Cox and Purvis, who will tangle in the ten-round feature of the Jan. 10 card.

Both Hughes and Walker have agreed to terms for a scrap with the Cox-Purvis winner, and the victor will get the match.

Cox and Purvis opened training today at the Victory gym. Purvis will work from 2 p. m. until 3 p. m., with Cox drilling later. Rosy Kid Baker, middleweight, will serve as sparring partner for his stable mate, Purvis. Jack Stanley and Dick Clark, Cincinnati welterweights, will be used for Cox as tuneup opponents.

Although the site for the card has not been announced, many requests have been received for tickets. Bill Miller of the Pontiac A. C. said a decision would be reached today. The bouts may be staged at the fairgrounds. Tickets will go on sale Wednesday, Miller said.

Hecht Tries for Third Net Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Mark Hecht, Pennsylvania U. sophomore, sought his third consecutive national junior indoor tennis championship in today's final battle with Richard Hebard of Hill school. A victory by Hecht will equal Vincent Richards' record of three titles in a row.

Hecht already has established an unofficial tourney record of losing but eight games in five tournament matches. In the doubles finals today, Hecht and Ernest Koslan of New York met John Nogrady and Giles Verstraten of New York.

Sundot Grabs Caliente Race

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 2.—Sundot, Norman Church, 5-year-old sprint star, captured the six-furlongs Happy New Year handicap, $1,200 feature event on the Agua Caliente turf card here Sunday.

It was Sundot's second straight victory. He won the Greetings handicap on Christmas day. George Wolf was up on the veteran star, taking the lead at the start and beating Up by two lengths. The time was 1:11.15.

Cream of College Gridiron Stars Tangle in Coast Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—The pick of America's individual football stars, molded into two teams representing all the nation east and west of the Mississippi river, meet here today in the annual Shrine East-West game.

Two exponents of the Warner system—Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanly of Northwestern, tutored the East's aggregation. They drilled the players long and hard in carefully timed deceptions and aerial attacks.

"Knock somebody down" is the philosophy taught by Orin (Babe) Hollingbery of Washington State and Dana X. Bible of Nebraska, mentors for the West. The heavy westerners will pit crushing power against the East's speed and brilliant passing.

With the exception of Harry Newman, Michigan's all-America quarter back, who has an ankle injury, all the "greats" are ready for action. Both elevens boast powerful, deceptive back fields.

Cloudy weather was in prospect. Probable starting lineups:

Young Pro Cops Open

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2.—Young Johnny Revolta of Menominee, Mich., stood out today as a probable threat for the 1933 United States open golf championship because of his impressive victory in the Miami Springs course was impressive.

This 278 was five strokes better than the 283 carded by Gene Sarazen in winning the British open last spring, seven better than the course tournament record, and just seven less than the sensational 271 posted by Bill Mehlhorn back in 1927 when he established the mythical world record for major competition in winning the Texas open.

Denny Shute of Cleveland, who nosed Revolta out of first place in the recent $10,000 Miami Billmore open, finished second with 282, three strokes ahead of the mighty Sarazen, British and American champion. Sarazen finished with a brilliant 69 for the last 18 holes to give him a total of 285 for the four rounds.

Stonehouse of Indianapolis topped the four Hoosier entries with a 293. Johnny Watson of South Bend had 298, Russell Stonehouse 300, Charley Higgs of Indianapolis 307 and Hank Miller of LaPorte 318.

Rudolph Is Cue Winner

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Ralph Greenleaf, twelve times national pocket billiard champion, who has not lost a game in the last two national tournaments, was humbled by Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland veteran, in an exhibition series, 1,750 to 1,724.

In Sunday's play, the champion lost the first ball, 125 to 98, in ten innings, and won the final, 154 to 125, in twenty-one innings.

PORTSMOUTH WINNER

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 2.—Portsmouth O. Spartans of the National Pro League, defeated Dallas Rangers, 21 to 0, in a pro football game here Sunday.
