Yankee Chief Is Example of Courage.

Crawford Has Great Two-Year Record.

Original Frisch Deal Thorn to N. Y. Giants

JAKE RUPPERT, owner and president of the New York Yankees, world champions, possesses what the doctor ordered in the way of supplying tonic for the pessimists. He is 100 per cent sold on the idea that happy days will come again and doesn't hesitate to exhibit his confidence by spending money on improvements.

The Yankee team, stadium and minor league clubs and parks financed by Ruppert represent an investment of approximately $5,000,000 and the big chief of Babe Ruth and company thinks baseball will be one of the first enterprises to benefit when the depression lifts. He said: "My confidence in the baseball outlook for 1933 is such that I am reviving plans to swing the grandstand at Yankee stadium into right field. Before I do that I will double-deck the center field bleacher and provide at least 10,000 more 50-cent seats.

"Some day it is going to be recorded that a crowd of 100,000 attended a baseball game. It's true that in 1932 not a single club in the major leagues earned 6 per cent on its invested capital, but I understand baseball made a better showing in the amusement field than the theaters and motion pictures and the comparative loss in revenue was under that in football.

"This reduction does not mean the game is weakening. It may be traced entirely to the fact that people did not have the money. When depression is killed and panic and fear are beaten America will take to baseball and other amusements with greater avidity than ever.

"In 1933 I see major league baseball benefited by the spread of the farm idea. I am going to widen my own activities in that line. We must make baseball as a profession attractive to the young man. Not the least important factor is giving him minor league employment under terms which would guarantee his salary through the season.

"I have told my scouts to go after every prospect. I want to keep winning, and if I can take a pennant by fifty games that's all right with me. The success of baseball depends on each club owner building up to the highest standard."

BIRDS GIVE UP ON SLUGGING PAT

LARRY McPHAIL, president of the Columbus Birds of the American Association, has given up hopes of landing Pat Crawford, slugging first sacker, for his manager this year. McPhail is convinced Crawford will be retained by the St. Louis Cardinals at least until June. "I see little chance of keeping him out of the majors," the Bird prey said. Therefore, the Bucks will have to look elsewhere for a new pilot.

Columbus had two chiefs in 1932. Nemo Leibold was released in midseason when the Birds were overtaken by a losing spell and Billy Southworth was secured by the Cardinals. McPhail said that Billy resigned this winter and caught on with the New York Giants as coach and assistant to Manager Bill Terry.

There are many fans in Columbus who believe Leibold was given an unfair deal. Southworth was brought in to "save" the team, but the losing streak that knocked off Nemo continued for several days after the change in managers and the new pilot of the Birds failed to make any difference to the Minneapolis Millers, who copped the pennant.

Crawford stands an excellent chance of staying with the Cardinals now that Jim Bottomley is gone, and anyway there are other big league clubs that would be ready to grab Pat if St. Louis asked waivers. He has had two great years in the American Association and was voted the most valuable player in 1932. He hit .374 in 1931 and .369 in 1932 and was well up in the business of poling extra base hits.

Pat's home run total in 31 was twenty-eight. He also collected forty-one doubles, thirteen triples and six home runs. In 32 he whaled out thirty homers, thirty-four doubles, five triples and plinked fourteen sacks. He batted in 140 runs in 1932 and 154 runs the previous season. A two-year record of that description belongs in the miracle class.

Crawford is 31 years old, stands 5 feet 11 inches, and weighs 160. He has had major trials before, but on his recent achievements in the A. A. there is every reason to believe he will give Jimmy Collins a hard fight for the first string job of first-basing with the Cardinals this spring. Pat bats left-handed and is right-handed. Collins throws left-handed and is a "turn" hitter but rated best when swinging left-handed. Jimmy is 28, weighs 165 and stands 5 feet 9 1/2 inches.

GIANTS ARE LEFT HOLDING BAG

THE New York World-Telegram is cracking wise about the New York Giants' trading system. For Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Ring the Giants received Rogers Hornsby. For Hornsby they received Shanty Hogan and Jimmy Welsh. For Welsh they received Doc Farrell, and for Farrell and Hogan they received a few dollars. Well, at any rate, they got "new faces." The Giants now have nothing to show for the Frisch trade of 1927, and Frankie still is a star at St. Louis.

ANGLEY TO HEAR WEDDING BELLS

TOM ANGLE, robust backstop with the Indianapolis ball club, has won a fair damsel of Sarasota, Fla. The Indians trained there four years and Angle is spending the winter in the little city on the west coast of the Sunshine state. Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Archibald of Sarasota recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Eloise, to the former Georgia Tech football star. The marriage will take place in the near future. It is Angle's second venture in matrimony. Miss Archibald is prominent in social activities of the younger set in Sarasota and her father is a member of the Sarasota city council as well as a leading merchant.

No more holidays for local scribes until the Fourth of July. Decoration day they take in stride—the gas buggies race all day. And oh, yes, last year the Indians capped the "holiday" by playing a night ball game.

Jim Bottomley, the first sacker traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Cincy Reds, is threatening to write a book, entitled, "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Store Gang."

SHANTY HOGAN, the big catcher sold by the New York Giants to the Boston Braves, got back at the New Yorkers with a little dirt. Shanty said he was promoted and was glad of it. When Braves and Giants clash next season the ball park won't be a place for sensitive ears. That big guy is no shrinking violet in the gabfest league.

Unsung California U. Quarter Leads West to Grid Triumph

BY JAMES O'BRIEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—The west's unsung gridiron heroes won the shrine's eighth annual West-West classic, 21 to 13, before 45,000 spectators here Monday.

Hank Schalbach, California quarter back, whose name failed to appear on any of the all-America eleven, literally stole the show from the galaxy of all-Americans in the East's lineup. He scored the West's three touchdowns, added the extra point after each, and was the leading ground runner of the game. The East scored first when Bart Viviano of Cornell went across in the first period after a fifty-two-yard downhill drive led by Harry Newman, Michigan's all-America quarter back, and "Pug" Rentner, Northwestern half back. Newman's kick for goal was wide.

The half ended with the team of Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern leading, 6 to 0.

The third period saw Schalbach suddenly become inspired. He punted to the 2-yard line, where Steve Hokuf, Nebraska end, downed it. Paul Moss, Purdue's all-America end, punted out. Schalbach took the kick back thirty-five yards to the 6-yard line. Buck Roy, Texas back, made five yards in three tries, then Schalbach drove through to score.

A moment later, Stafford of Texas intercepted Newman's pass on the East's 30-yard line. Roy added twenty-one yards and then little Hank skinned through the entire field for his second touchdown.

The East scored again in the fourth quarter when Gil Berry, "Ili-nois" back, returned a punt seventeen yards to the West's 28-yard line. Rentner picked up seven yards around end and then Berry passed to Fencil, Northwestern end, for the score. Jack Mander, Minnesota full back, booted the extra point to leave the West in the lead, 14 to 13.

Schalbach once more came to life,

Trojans Rap Pitt for 20th Grid Win in Row

Great Southern California Eleven, Led by Mighty Ernie Smith, Slaughters Panthers in Rose Bowl, 35 to 0; Heller Is Losers' Hero.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 3.—The great football juggernaut of the University of Southern California today claimed its second consecutive national championship, boasted an unbroken string of twenty victories and pointed to a record of having won four tournament of Roses games in as many starts.

These honors were predicated on the 35 to 0 walloping the Trojans dealt in the annual Rose bowl game to the previously unbeaten University of Pittsburgh team.

The game was the most decisive in tournament history, exceeding even Southern California's 47 to 14 victory over Pitt in the 1930 contest.

Pitt really seemed not so much outclassed as the score indicated. But Southern California played inspired football, scoring on sheer power when that was necessary and meantime taking advantage of every bobble the Panthers made.

Turf Fans Talk Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 3.—The Kentucky Derby still is several weeks away—it's scheduled for May 6 this year—but turfmen already are talking about the contenders in the $50,000 classic for 1933.

Ladysman, champion money winner of the 1932 juveniles, naturally ranks as the winter book favorite, but there are some who believe W. R. Coe's speedy colt will not be ready to race in the blue ribbon event.

Kentucky's hopes, as usual, will ride with Colonel E. R. Bradley, who holds the record of having produced three Derby winners, including Burgoon King, 1932 victor. Bollemauer, withdrawn from racing last season when he was injured, is perfectly sound now and Colonel Bradley rates him as his best hope for fourth victory. Bollemauer is another son of Bubbling Over, 1926 Derby winner and sire of Burgoon King.

C. V. Whitney, whose Equipose and Flight, winter book favorites the last two years, did not go to the post due to injuries, has another strong contender in the Derby.

Willis Sharpe Kilm's Sun Archer and L. Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, surprise winner of the $90,000 Belmont Futurity, also are rated highly. If other 1932 juvenile stars survive the rigors of training, the field of 3-year-olds in the 1933 Derby should be large and classy.

Coach Staggs Ill in East

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Amos Alonzo Staggs, dean of American football coaches, fought influenza and bronchial pneumonia today at Medical Arts sanitarium, aided by one of his former grid stars.

"Unchanged" was the latest report on his condition from Dr. Max Rohde, a member of Staggs' Chicago university eleven which won the Big Ten championship in 1907.

Dr. Rohde admitted his 70-year-old patient was "pretty sick," but said his amazing strength and vitality undoubtedly would "pull him through" and put him back on his feet again in a week or so.

Slaughter Stops Firpo in First

DAYTON, O., Jan. 3.—Two Hoosier boxers walked off with easy victories in feature scraps here Monday.

Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute, Negro middleweight, stopped Henry Firpo, Louisville veteran, with two punches. The first blow sent Firpo down for a nine count and the second put him to sleep.

Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute Negro heavyweight, easily captured the decision from Frankie Simms, Cleveland, in ten rounds.

Bahamas Wins Caliente Race

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 3.—Bahamas, Oak Tree stables' 4-year-old turf star, turned in his second consecutive triumph by defeating Sundot and Wirt G. Bowman in a driving finish to capture the $2,000 New Year Handicap here Monday.

Although carrying the top impost of 123 pounds, including jockey Steve O'Donnell, Bahamas sprouted into the lead at the start and never was headed over the mile and sixteenth round. Sundot lost by a nose, with Wirt G. Bowman a half length back. The winner paid $11.40.

Trojan Triumph Boosts Jones to Top of Coaching Ranks

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Three things stand out in the aftermath of the Rose Bowl game.

1. Southern California is one of the greatest football teams of the year. Possibly the greatest.

2. Howard Jones has moved to the top of the coaching profession.

3. The material with which Jones has to work is of excellent caliber. Without meaning to take anything from the traditions of the university or the skill of Jones, I should say that factor No. 3 is the vital one. No coach is going to get very far without material. True, some get farther than others. Jones apparently belongs to this group.

Young men who want to play football naturally gravitate to where the game is encouraged, if not actually exploited. Also, it means some-

Unbeaten Shelby Cagers Battle Newcastle Tonight

Hoosier prep quintets continue their battles for top positions this week with an array of attractive games.

Shelbyville's unbeaten veterans start the fireworks tonight by taking on Newcastle's surprising Trojans, defending title holders, at Newcastle. Only a double overtime tie with Greencastle mars the Shelby record, while the Trojans have been hitting a swift pace despite the loss of four members of last year's championship five.

There will be a lull in big time activities Wednesday and Thursday, but the warfare will be resumed on Friday, when Newcastle again steals the feature spot. The Trojans, second in the North Central Conference, invade Logansport, where the Berries will defend their unbeaten conference lead.

Anderson and Frankfort renew an old rivalry at the latter place, with the revived Indians holding a decided edge. Another old feud will be renewed at Martinsville, where Glenn Curtis' Artesians tangle with Vincennes.

Two Indianapolis teams will greet Saturday's spotlight. Tech's fast-stepping warriors will be out to add another topnotch scalp to their list, taking on Muncie's Bearcats on the home court. Shortridge also gets into action here, battling Abie Master's swift Jeff of Lafayette five.

This week's schedule of major tilts:

Down The Alleys

Don Johnson again proved his ability to set the tone on any alley when he won a total of 709 to win first prize in the 1932-33 billiard season. Johnson, who won the 1932-33 season, scored 689 on the final round to pass Ray Robertson, who scored 687. Johnson's score was a record for the season. Johnson's score was a record for the season.

Hunker Stays On

A last week's football coaches' pow-wow in New York, a rumor apparently based on fact indicated it is J. C. Harper, athletic director, and not Coach Hunk Anderson, shown here, whom Notre Dame prefers to unseat. Hunk has a new contract for '33.

Kid Gleason, Veteran Diamond Figure, Dead

67-Year-Old Coach of A's, Former White Sox Manager and Star Pitcher and Infielder, Succumbs to Heart Disease.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—William (Kid) Gleason, one of the most famous and colorful figures in baseball's old guard, died at his home here Monday night of heart disease.

Gleason had been ill for several months as he rounded out his seventh year as coach of the Philadelphia Athletics, and his forty-sixth year on the diamond.

He entered baseball as a pitcher for the Phillies back in '87, won great fame on the mound and later became a second baseman. He reached the peak of his career in 1919 when he piloted the Chicago White Sox to the American League pennant.

Long With White Sox
Gleason was one of the veterans of America's national pastime, and for nearly fifteen years was a fixture with the Chicago White Sox of the American League.

Under Gleason's management the White Sox swept into the American League championship in 1919, only to go down in the ignominy of the "Black Sox" scandal when some members of the team conspired to throw the world series to the Cincinnati Reds.

The "Black Sox" year was the first year of Gleason's management of the team, though as early as 1907 he had been connected with the Sox as coach. The late Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, stood by Gleason through the scandal and continued him as manager until 1923.

Developed Stars
Gleason was credited with developing half a dozen stars of the "Black Sox." Among them were Eddie Cicotte, great right-handed pitcher; Claude Williams, southpaw hurler; Happy Felsch, outfielder, and Swede Risberg, infielder.

Proudest of the veteran baseball player's achievements was his discovery of Ray Schalk, one of the greatest catchers of all time. Scouting for the White Sox in 1911, Gleason saw Schalk play for Milwaukee of the American Association. The sparkling catcher-to-be was a puny, undersized athlete at the time, but Gleason saw his possibilities. Ignoring criticism and ridicule, he brought Schalk to Chicago where under his tutelage the catcher rapidly rose to stardom.

Member of Orioles
Gleason started his career with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1887 as a pitcher. He continued until 1891. Three years later he was with the Baltimore Orioles in the days when the Orioles were one of baseball's finest teams.

From 1895 to 1900 he played second base for the New York Giants and then went to Detroit for two years in the same position. From 1903 to 1907 he was with the Phillies again, when a blow from a pitched ball ended his active playing career. He then joined the White Sox as coach.

Butler Five Trips Drake

GRINNELL, Ia., Jan. 3.—Butler's Bulldogs will be seeking their second Missouri Valley conference cage triumph when they tackle Grinnell college, one of the title favorites, here tonight.

The Indianapolis collegians opened their title campaign at Des Moines Monday night, defeating Drake, 36 to 12. It was an easy win for the Hoosiers, eleven punters seeing action. Profit's fifteen points was best for Butler.
