

SOCIAL ISSUES TO BE TOPICS FOR LECTURES

Norman Thomas Will Open Industrial Democracy League's Series.

Appearance of Norman Thomas, who twice has been candidate for President of the United States on the Socialist party ticket, at Keith's theater Wednesday night, will mark the opening of a series of lectures on social and economic problems. The lectures will be sponsored by the local branch of the League for Industrial Democracy.

Thomas, executive director of the league, with national headquarters in New York, is recognized not only as the leader of his party, but as an outstanding authority on social and economic questions. He is the author of "America's Way Out," "As I See It" and, with Paul Blanchard, "What's the Matter With New York" and is a constant contributor to current magazines.

Seven Other Lectures

His subject here will be "The American Scene—1932."

The seven other lectures of the course will be held in Hollenbeck hall in the Y. W. C. A. building on consecutive Wednesday nights.

The speakers, subjects and dates are: Frank Crosswell of New York, "Breaking the Breadlines," Jan. 25; Leo Krzycki of Milwaukee, "Trends in the Labor Movement," Feb. 1; Carl D. Thompson, secretary of the Public Ownership League of America, whose headquarters are in Chicago, "Confessions of the Power Trust," Feb. 8; John Lee, professor of economics at the University of Kansas, "Men and Land," Feb. 15; Garfield W. Cox, professor of finance at the University of Chicago, "Behind the Bank Failure," Feb. 22; Karl Borders, secretary of the Chicago branch of the league, "America in an Interdependent World," March 1; and Oscar Ameringer, editor of the American Guardian, "The Program for Action," the final lecture, March 8.

Committees in Charge

The committee in charge of the series is composed of Gertrude Brown, Helen Swoyer, Dr. Harold E. Fry, F. E. De Franz, C. E. Knapp, Russell O. Berg and Roy Wilson.

A secondary sponsoring committee includes Dean Albert Bailey, Mae Belcher, Amy Bruce, Dr. Louis Burkhardt, Rev. M. W. Clair Jr., the Rev. Morris Coers, the Rev. James A. ## Benefit Party Arranged

Indianapolis Council No. 55, Daughters of America, will give a benefit card party Wednesday night at 210 1/2 East Ohio street.

BY W. E. M'KENNEY
Secretary American Bridge League

If you are interested in working out bridge problems, the following hand should help you enjoy an hour or so of this pastime, read the problem—can you stop South, the declarer, from making four spades?

East and West can put up a defense, regardless of how the declarer plays the hand, that will defeat the contract, but there are many interesting angles to the hand. This hand also has another interesting feature.

Many players have asked me, "What do you do with these large hands that do not have the ten probable tricks sufficient to make an original forcing two bid, but which contain a great number of quick tricks?"—such as today's hand.

Contract Bridge

West will open the three of spades. West's opening lead of the three spot marks him with four spades, therefore East has only one spade. Before playing to this trick, declarer must stop and count his hand.

He is sure of making three spade tricks, one heart and one diamond—that is five. He needs four club tricks for a safe game.

He easily can cash his king and queen of clubs, but he now must be careful to create for himself an entry in dummy.

Would you win this first trick with the ten? If so, you will have lost your opportunity to make an easy game.

Your proper play is to win your trick with the ace of spades and immediately cash your king and jack of clubs, and now lead the ten of spades.

If West refuses to win with the queen, go right up with the jack in dummy, cash the two good clubs, on which you will discard a small spade and a small heart, and then take the diamond finesse.

By creating this jack of spades entry in dummy, you will have no trouble in making your contract. Not a difficult play, but one that requires just a little thought.

Now lead the hand out again, and let West open the eight of clubs against a four-spade contract. See if you can stop the declarer from making a game at spades. It can be done.
