Cine-Modes Cinema Stars Lounge in Luxury

Spongy Rose Crepe Negligee Enhances Carole Lombard's Beauty

Carole Lombard... lounges in luxury.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 1.—Love-ly blonde Carole Lombard is one of the few Hollywood stars who voluntarily pick glamorous, flowing things for their private, leisure-hour lounging.

She wears a luxurious, spongy rose crepe negligee, which looks almost like wool. It has a square neckline which shows Miss Lombard's lovely neck to advantage. There is an elaborate bead embroidery motif across the front, around the neck and for the entire deep cuffs.

It is a clinging, fitted negligee, very long and trailing, and in it Carole certainly looks grand.

Loretta Young lounges in pajamas, her favorite being black lace ones, with white lace top and a waistline black lace jacket that ties in front with white velvet ribbon.

Mary Mason, who likes to do a bit of housework for her relaxing, wears slacks with suspender straps and a striped silk shirt with polo collar, always open.

Mary Pickford has an absolute-ly handsome pure white Japanese crepe kimono, with regal sleeves.

Kathleen Burke wears one-piece pajamas, her favorite being of chalk white crepe, cut in tailored manner, with double-breasted top with tailored lapels, and long sleeves that button up a deep cuff.

Manners and Morals

BY JANE JORDAN

Bring your love problems to Jane Jordan who will give you sane and sensible advice. Read your answer in this column.

Dear Jane Jordan—This is one more love triangle. I am married happily to a good man, whom I love and who loves me. After ten years of married life, we still are close. We chum with one of my old sweethearts, who has been in love with me for years, even before I went with my husband.

He is married and his wife has stepped out and really doesn't measure up to what a wife should be. They are two of the finest men I've ever known. I love the one dearly and have a world of respect and regard for the other.

My former sweetheart came to my house not so long ago and asked me if it would be all right for him to stop and talk with me sometimes. I'm not afraid of doing anything wrong, as I know both of our natures too well for that. I really enjoy talking to him. I'm not afraid of what my husband would do, as we've built up great trust in each other, and he knows just how this friend always has felt toward me.

But his wife would put the worst possible interpretation on his visits, since she's not straight herself. Is there any way I can be of help and comfort to him? I'm truly sincere in my wish.

ANOTHER WONDERER.

Dear Another Wonderer—There is nothing that a woman can do for a former lover to atone for the fact that she rejected him. Even your friendship is barred by a jealous, suspicious wife, and perhaps it's just as well, since few husbands have sufficient sophistication to tolerate a close friendship between their wives and other men.

Too many private meetings between you and your former lover might throw a wrench into your happiness which you can not foresee. There is no good intellectual reason why this should be true, but people seldom reason about their emotions.

GOOD FOR SUB-DEB

This party frock has dropped shoulders and puffed sleeves, for all the world like a grownup dinner frock.

This model is smarter than anything the sub-deb ever dreamed of. Incidentally, you couldn't find an easier one to make, and it takes very little material. Choose something utterly new, such as finely crinkled crepe in hyacinth blue. Size 12 requires 2½ yards 36-inch material.

Pattern No. 5116 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 years. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Have more clothes at less cost! Choose them from our new Fashion Magazine. Also read the dress-making hints and an article on wedding etiquette. Price, 10 cents.

Dear Drifting—This case is very interesting, but too complicated for me to attempt an analysis. If you will send me a stamped and self-addressed envelope, I will send you the name of a psychologist whom I am sure can help you. There will be no charge for this service.

MEETING HELD BY IRVINGTON GROUP

Mrs. John W. Atherton, 5060 Pleasant Run parkway, was hostess for the Irvington Woman's Club Monday afternoon. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Hilton U. Brown.

Mrs. Harry E. Barnard read a paper on "The Renaissance in Italy," the fifth in the group of meetings on "Through the Thirties."

Foes of Dry Law Gather in Louisville

Mrs. Nicholson, Other City Persons to Take Part in Dinner.

Mrs. Meredith Nicholson Jr., executive secretary of the Indiana division of the woman's organization for national prohibition reform, Mrs. Henley Holiday, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Woolen motored to Louisville today to attend the annual protest dinner of anti-prohibition organizations in Kentucky. They will be guests of Mrs. James Ross Todd, who visited here last year.

The speaker at the dinner will be Jettie Shouse, national chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, and former Democratic national chairman.

At the executive board meeting of the organization Monday in the American Central Life Insurance building, plans were discussed for a membership drive, which will terminate with an open meeting in February.

Campaign to Be Launched

Mrs. W. Richardson Sinclair and Mrs. Bowman Elder, new members of the board, attended.

Mrs. Nicholson announced that a national political and educational campaign among women voters is being launched this week.

State chairmen have been sent the course to study constitutional and legislative procedure and designed to teach proper political methods for obtaining repeal of the eighteenth amendment and ratification by state conventions.

Study units in each county will be established, and open forums and lecture course will be conducted in large centers.

Message Is Issued

Mrs. Charles H. Sablin, national chairman, has issued the following message: "We plan to educate our members to effective political action; we shall urge them to study the Constitution of the United States and the process of governing the liquor control system of foreign countries and existing liquor laws of the various states."

"This year undoubtedly will be a crucial period in deciding the issue of prohibition reform. We are determined to keep that issue clearly and constantly before the people."

Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Sylvester Johnson attended a meeting of the Lewis Business College Club, composed of Negro women, Sunday at its clubhouse, 2034 North Capital avenue.

Mrs. Nicholson reviewed the history, aims and principles of the organization.
