A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

DETECTIVES, crooks and innocent bystanders who act, talk and think the way such people do in real life are not too common in mystery stories. It is a pleasure, therefore, to report that "Hot Ice," by Robert J. Casey, is simply full of them.

It is, in fact, a detective story, written by a man who actually has seen real detectives and real murderers and who knows how to describe what he has seen. As a result, it is a first-rate yarn.

"Hot Ice" begins with the murder of a well-known Chicago jewel thief. There follow in rapid succession the murders of a barber, an inoffensive milkman, a kindly old lady, a young woman of doubtful morals, a cop—and I'm not certain but what there are two or three more.

Anyway, the story flows freely, and it develops in the end that a row over the disposition of several hundred thousand dollars' worth of stolen jewels is largely responsible. And because Mr. Casey has been places and seen things, the book is one which ought to delight all mystery story fans.

It is published, by the way, by Bobbs-Merrill, and it costs $2.

French gangsters—yes, it seems they've 'em over there—figure in "The Crossroad Murders," by Georges Simenon (Covici-Friede, $2).

Here we have a moderately exciting and puzzling tale about queer doings which center about a sinister country house.

It begins with the finding of a corpse in a stolen auto, and it ends with a beautiful lady fighting a fake insurance salesman at the bottom of a cistern, and, for all I know, it may be just the instrument with which you'll want to kill an idle evening.

FACULTY RECITAL TO BE PRESENTED

A faculty recital will be given at the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music at 8 Thursday night in the Odeon.

The program will be presented by Thomas Poggiani, violinist, and Clarence Loomis, pianist, with comments on the sonatas by Max T. Krone. The numbers will be:

"Sonata in C Major K. No. 296," Mozart; "Allegro vivace," Beethoven; "Sonata in A Major," Cesar Franck; "Allegro ben moderato," Beethoven; "Allegretto-Pastorale," Beethoven; "Allegretto poco mosso," Beethoven.

Berry Books Cantor and Jessel for the Circle

Noted Stage Entertainers and Famous Band Will Make Two Appearances in This City Thursday, March 23.

By WALTER D. HICKMAN
ACE BERRY seems to be getting into his stride at once as he blossoms out with the statement that he has booked in person Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Bennie Maroff and his band and other entertainers.

This all-star organization comes to the Circle theater for a matinee and night performance on Thursday, March 23.

According to Berry, this means the dropping of the regular Circle movie show for one day only. This Jessel, Cantor, Maroff unit is touring the country, making many one-day engagements, such as Harry Lauder has made for years on his "farewell tours."

The large seating capacity of the Circle makes this theater the logical place in which to present the stars. Berry contends. Since Cantor has made such a big radio audience with his weekly broadcasts, it is felt that this tour will be a record-breaker from an audience standpoint.

Berry points out that the one-day appearance of the stars will only change the movie program of the Circle for one day.

At the Indiana on Monday, Feb. 27, Berry will present many of the stars in the new movie, "Forty-second Street," for an afternoon and night appearance.

These stars, including Bebe Daniels, will arrive on a special train on Monday.

It seems that Berry will have enough stars around him for a few days anyway.

MARY HAYNES AGAIN RETURNS TO THE LYRIC

Once more Mary Haynes, a vaudeville institution of song and character sketches, is back at the Lyric, and she is the big bright spot of the current bill.

Miss Haynes is a stage personality. I have met her off stage and she is a person to be considered.

She is always Mary Haynes whether she is on or off stage. She has experience and has gone thru successfully the change from what was called the "big time" to four and five a day.

And I never have heard this woman complain. She always gives a show and begs off doing too many encores by stating that her next number is a dance with seven veils.

"I just can't do it because I have lost six of the veils." Then after a short pause—"I know you can see thru that one." She doesn't change her material so very much nor her method. Remember she is Mary Haynes.

Three youngsters appear as "The Three Hill Billies" as another vaudeville act. I do not care for this type of entertainment whether they be children or grownups. You have your own tastes. I missed the opening act.

Raynor Lehr and his vaudeville stock company is nearing the end of their run. They have one more week to go at the Lyric. This week Lehr is doing a modified version of what seems to be "The Girl in the Limousine," a very ancient farce which was supposed to be funny and thirty years ago. In the hands of Lehr the present version is neither. To me it is tame and crude bedroom entertainment.

It is the specialty numbers that make the hit again with the Lehr unit—the quartet, the two singing boys as well as the accordion player and the violinist. The chorus is doing nice work.

The movie is George O'Brien in "Smoke Lightning." Now at the Lyric.

CONSIDERING A GOOD CONCERT

The Indianapolis Maennerchor and Heinrich Schlusnus, German baritone, presented a varied and colorful program at the Academy of Music last night.

Schlusnus sang a delightful range of songs, sweeping from the smooth, peaceful "Wanderers Nightingale" of Schubert to the operatic heights of Hugo Wolf's "Abschied." He seemed to enjoy this change of tempo. At any rate, I was greatly impressed by the manner in which he threw himself into his renditions. Schlusnus began with a Schubert group. This included the ponderous "Der Atlas," it concluded with the more of almost snappy "Der Musensohn," which Schlusnus did in grand manner.

The male chorus followed with a well chosen group of three songs which blended into a pattern of color and ended with the magnificent "Der Mond Ist Aufgegangen."

Schlusnus next sang a group from Brahms. He was really thrilling in "Tambourliedchen," and I think that it was in this group and the one following that I saw the personality of the man. He was powerful, not only in what he gave out, but in what he retained.

Although most of the compositions on last night's program were short, I am sure that Schlusnus would be just as intriguing as "Tristram."

The "Epiphanias" was very light, free and catching. But in the singing of "Abschied" was I most conscious of being in the presence of an artist.

Then in the last group which Schlusnus sang, a Strauss group, I felt let down, not roughly nor rudely, but gently and with a nice, comfortable feeling. I was glad that Schlusnus ended with "Geduld." It left a good taste in one's mouth. I was almost sorry the audience called for an encore.

It seems to me that it would be a gross injustice not to mention the enthusiasm and spirit shown by Franz Rupp, the versatile and hard-working little accompanist. He helped, in no small way, to give charm and finesse to Schlusnus' selections.—(By the Observer.)

ONCE WASHDAY SPOILED HER FUN by DALTON VALENTINE

I'D LOVE TO COME TONIGHT, BARBARA, BUT I KNOW I'LL BE TOO TIRED TO MOVE. WHAT-EVER MADE YOU PICK WASHDAY NIGHT FOR YOUR PARTY?

YOU OLD-FASHIONED THING! WOMEN DON'T LET WASHDAY SPOIL THEIR FUN ANY MORE. SEND RIGHT OUT AND GET A BOX OF RINSO, THE HARD-WATER SOAP.

OH YES—THAT'S THE SOAP MY SISTER'S BEEN RAVING ABOUT. SHE SAYS IT'S GREAT FOR DISHES AND SO EASY ON HANDS.

TRY RINSO IN YOUR WASH-TUB IF YOU WANT TO SEE SOMETHING REALLY WONDERFUL! IT COAKES THE DIRT RIGHT OUT—ALL YOU DO IS RINSO. YOU'LL COME TO MY PARTY FRESH AS A DAISY.

THAT EVENING

WELL, HOW DID YOU ENJOY YOUR SCRUBBESS WASHDAY?

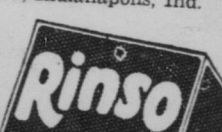

BARBARA, I'M THRILLED. I DIDN'T SCRUB OR BOIL—YET I HUNG-OUT THE WHITEST WASH EVER. RINSO IS GRAND.

"It's so easy on the hands!" says Mrs. Mary Koors, 32 E. Regent St.

"A WASHING machine demonstrator told me to use Rinsol for best results and my washer—or in the dishpan, either. A little Rinsol flashes into lots of rich, lasting suds—without a softener. Clothes come so white, they're a joy to see. Even if Rinsol cost more, I'd still buy it because it's so easy on my hands."

MRS. MARY KOORS, 32 Regent St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Rinsol washes clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter, safely. The makers of 40 famous washers recommend it. In tubs Rinsol soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing. Clothes last 2 or 3 times longer. Rinsol gives twice as much suds, cup for cup, as puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Wonderful for dishes. Get the BIG package.
