Let's Explore Your Mind

BY DR. ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

1 SINCE COMEDIANS MAKE PEOPLE LAUGH BY HEE-HAWING AT THEIR OWN WISERACKS, SHOULD A PERSON LAUGH AT HIS OWN JOKES?

WRITE YES OR NO HERE

1. No, the comedian laughs knowing you will see how foolish he is to laugh at his own jokes.
And, of course, he knows the truth of the poet's phrase "Laugh and the world laughs with you." The great comedians do not laugh at their jokes. May I say after years on the lecture platform that the thing that cor-quers an audience, whether it be comedy or pathos, is suppressed emotion. Great emotion, under control, will move any audience to laughter, exaltation, or tears.
It will do it in personal conversation. If you wish to become a brilliant conversationalist or successful salesman, remember this is the most basic of all principles in influencing other people.

2. Emphatically no. Neither can school teachers. Some teachers and parents suspect a child to be bright, whereas mental tests often show the opposite to be true. Many bright children are thought dull, chiefly because they are so well equipped mentally that the school studies do not interest them.

Every child should have an intelligence test, the scores of which the child should not know, but which the parents and teachers should know, so they will be informed as to what to expect of the child.

3. Yes. You can think of plenty of exceptions among your friends but Karl Pearson, English statistician, showed this was a fact.
Freud, Viennese psychologist, advanced the theory that it is because a healthy girl grows up admiring her father as her ideal man.

He may be homely as sin, but to her he is the "glass of fashion and mold of form." Likewise, a healthy boy, Freud thinks, grows from babyhood thinking his mother the ideal woman.

She may be a fat rilly poly, but a boy's first sweetheart usually resembles his mother in general physical build and size.
This is sufficiently the rule to be very significant. It probably has been quite a factor in human evolution.

Contract Bridge

BY W. E. MCKENNEY
Secretary American Bridge League

HERE is an interesting coincidence. While in St. Petersburg, Fla., I had the pleasure of meeting Judge Ralph E. Richards of Clearwater, Fla.

Upon hearing his name, I naturally was interested to learn whether he played a good game of bridge, as it was Ralph E. Richards, now of California, who was my partner when we won the national contract pair championship in Chicago in 1929.

During the evening, Judge Richards brought back memories of some of the masterful plays made by my former partner when he successfully executed a coup play to make his contract in the following hand:

The Bidding

The bidding was very optimistic.
Judge Richards in the South opened with a two spade bid, and as a result found himself playing a six spade contract doubled.

Judge Richards' hand contained entirely too many losing cards to open with an original two bid. However, it was the play of the hand that I thought unusually interesting.

The Play

West opened the king of clubs which Judge Richards in the South won with the ace.

Summing the hand up, it now looks as though he must lose a diamond and a spade trick, even though he can take one spade finesse.

However, seeing that there was one possible chance of making the hand, Judge Richards proceeded in the following manner:

He won the next trick with the ace of spades and then led the three of hearts, winning in dummy with the ace.

On dummy's king and queen of hearts, he discarded his three and eight of clubs. He then led the three of spades and finessed the jack.

West's ten spot fell, warning him that East held the queen and eight of spades. Judge Richards then played his ace of diamonds and

SPAIN FAILS TO LOCATE LEADER FOR NEW DEAL

Weak Government Keeps Power Due to Fear of
'What Is Next?'

BY WILLIAM H. LANDER

United Press Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Feb. 23.—The dearth of men of ability in the republic never was more in evidence in Spain than today, when many deputies will privately tell you of their opposition to the government, but do not dare to vote against it, for uncertainty as to what would come next.

There is a widespread demand for a change, a "new deal" as they say in the United States, but a variety of circumstances have kept Premier Manuel Azana in power since Oct.
14, 1931, when it originally was believed he would last for only a relatively short while.

Profited by Rebellion

Had the government taken advantage of the fervent republican feeling, which manifested itself throughout the country as a reaction to the monarchical rebellion of Aug. 10, 1932, and held general elections within a few weeks afterward, a new cortex with a tremendous republican majority would have been elected, and the course of events might have been different.

Even as it was, the Azana government profited greatly by the failure of the movement.

Between Aug. 10 and today, however, only one thing has served to strengthen the Azana government, and much has happened to make people dissatisfied with it.

The big thing in Azana's favor was the victory of the Esquerra Catalana in the Catalan elections of Nov. 20, 1932, which indirectly was a triumph for Azana.

Government Loses Strength

The Jan. 8 anarchical movement has come and gone, but there has been no popular reaction produced in favor of the government as a result of it, as happened on Aug. 10.

As a matter of fact, many persons, although not in sympathy with the anarchists and the syndi-calists, declare that it is perfectly logical for these elements to feel animosity toward the government as long as the ministry of labor is in the hands of a man who besides being a Socialist is the secretary of the Union General de Trabajadores —a rival labor organization.

The proof that the government is not as strong as it once was is that only 231 out of 469 deputies voted in favor of the 1933 budget, and one had to come all the way from Rome to vote for the government.

When West's jack dropped, continued with the king, West discarding a club.

Judge Richards then led the nine of diamonds and was careful to play the ten from dummy. East won the trick with the queen of diamonds.

East then made the serious mistake of returning the jack of hearts, which Richards trumped with the five of spades.

Judge Richards led the deuce of diamonds, which was won in dummy with the eight spot, and all he had to do was to lead a club from dummy which East was forced to trump with the eight of spades.

Judge Richards overtrumped with the nine of spades and won the last trick with the king of spades, thereby successfully making his contract of six spades doubled.

Giving your opponent an opportunity to make an error, and being quick to take advantage of the breaks, is what makes a good bridge player.
