Miss Lucy Taggart, 1331 North Delaware street, will witness the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as President of the nation.

Manners and Morals

BY JANE JORDAN

If you're having a hard time to understand your sweetheart's behavior, ask Jane Jordan to act as your interpreter. Write your letter today and read your answer shortly.

Dear Jane Jordan—I am a ver-sa-tile youth of 24 and I think I love one girl above all others, but I love them all! This girl I speak of is Doris. Her purity and loveliness is all I can dream of night after night. She is the apple of my eye. I was out of town (Zionsville) for one week and here is the letter she wrote me:

"Dear Romeo: A poor scrubby alley cat followed me home today, and right away I thought of you. As I don't have anything else to do, I started over to your home last night, and just happened to remember you were out of town. It was the first time I've thought of you."

Now all I have a swell time since you left. Don't hurry home. As long as you're away, you might as well stay, and say, you better give that girl you call Baby an awful play. You might be lucky and land her over there where nobody knows you. So long! Doris. P. S. You needn't bother to write me a letter. I probably wouldn't take time to read it anyhow."

I don't think this letter was very funny. If Doris really cared a little for me do you think it was right for her to write me a letter of this sort instead of a sweet love letter? I am a likable chap among my boy friends, and would like to be loved and cared for by Doris. Do I stand a chance?

Answer—Whew! You must have stepped on Doris' pride pretty heavily to have called out such a letter! Perhaps she wishes you were a little more like a human being. It takes an older woman with no particular interest in a man to appreciate the God-like capacity for wholesale loving which you speak of. Evidently the young lady is quite interested in you or she wouldn't have taken such pains to quash your ego so thoroughly. Her letter is a little too vicious to be sincere. You did something which made her feel that she had to even up the score. What was it?

My guess is that she resents your trip to Zionsville and feels that you should have preferred to stay at home with her. I gather she doesn't care for the feminine population of Zionsville, and feels it necessary to discourage your belief in your ability to attract them.

Do not take offense. Just laugh it off. If you will reverse every statement in Doris' caty little letter, you will come close to discovering the truth. Properly interpreted, her letter should read something like this:

"Dear Romeo: A poor scrubby alley cat followed me home today, and right away I thought of you. As I don't have anything else to do, I would like to reduce that man to the state of this cat! As I have nothing interesting to do since you left, I started over to your house last night and when I remembered that you were out of town I was sunk."

"I haven't had a good time since you left. Please hurry home, and while you're away don't you dare give that girl you call Baby a play. She might be lucky enough to land you and then what would I do?"

"P. S. Please write me a letter to reassure me that my place in your affections is safe."

Dear Jane Jordan—I am a girl considered fairly good-looking, but some girls who are worse looking have more dates. When I was younger I had a lot of dates and had several proposals, which I couldn't accept because of my mother and brothers and sisters, who would have been left without any support. Now my sisters are both married and happy. I am not.

I joined some clubs, thinking that those girls would in time make me acquainted with some boys. But although they dated steadily, they had no time for me. I was terribly hurt at some of their remarks, so I dropped out of the clubs.

Is there any way in which I can make acquaintances? I get so lonesome. It hurts my pride terribly that I am out of everything. What shall I do?

BLUES.

Answer—My guess is that you have become over-sensitive and timid. This often happens to the girl who has been sacrificed to her family. While they were out mingling with others and making their social adjustments, your nose was tied to the grindstone. Now that you are set free, you have lost your knack of making friends.

But you can win it back again by making an effort to understand people and sympathize with them. Toughest up your feelings as much as you can. Be more interested in the way other people feel than your own reactions. You joined your clubs hoping that the girls could do something for you. If you had tried to see what you could do for them instead, you would have been more successful in your original purpose.

Reception Is Held for New Nurse Chief

Fannie R. Froth Paid Honor by Student Body of School.

Miss Fanny R. Froth, newly appointed director of the Methodist hospital school of nursing and superintendent of nurses, was honored at a reception given Thursday night by the student body of the school in the residence.

In the receiving line were Arthur Wolf, Dr. and Mrs. John G. Benson, Dr. and Mrs. John H. Warfel, Mrs. Henry E. Ostrom and Mrs. Adah O. Frost.

The student committee in charge of the reception included Miss Mary Mildred Powell, chairman, assisted by Misses Marjorie Lynn, Maxine Pemberton, Mary McCullough, Mary Harting, Gertrude Zorn and Frances Van Pelt.

The program for the evening included songs by Mrs. Jane Johnson Burroughs, accompanied at the piano by Dale Young. Cards and games were played on the roof garden and guests danced in the auditorium. Balloons and colored crepe paper streamers were used as decorations.

Members of the medical staff and their wives, members of the board of trustees, and other friends of the hospital attended the reception.

An Inauguration in Blue

Left—Mrs. Paul V. McNutt in the suit which she will wear to the inauguration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Right—Mrs. McTutt, gowned for the inaugural ball.

Saturday will be a "blue" day for Mrs. Paul V. McNutt. For she will grace important occasions at the inaugural day of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the flattering softness of blue.

The wool cape suit which she will wear to the inaugural ceremonies is trimmed luxuriously in gray fox. The cape is drawn in at the back by a belt which ties in a loop in front. The gray blouse is trimmed with silk braid.

With the costume Mrs. McNutt wears a matching blue hat, trimmed with a gray ornament, blue purse, gray gloves and blue suede and kid tie slippers.

The "first lady" of Indiana has chosen turquoise blue chiffon velvet for the formal occasion. Its long fitted skirt is edged with ostrich feathers, as is the sleeveless waistline jacket. She wears silver cut-out slippers.

The guild, which was organized recently, now has a membership of eighty active members, who participate in the various departments of the work.

France's Debt Policy Backed in Talk Here

"France did not try to evade her war debt to payment to the United States, but wished to retard it until negotiations on the subject could be arranged," said Professor Andre Alix of the University of Lyon, who addressed members of the Alliance Francaise Thursday night in the Washington.

The effect of the present economic crisis in France and the war debt problem were subjects discussed by Professor Alix. He believes that the debt problem will be settled early in the new administration.

The lecture was preceded by a dinner in honor of Professor Alix. A musical program was given by Miss Irma Chambers, violinist, accompanied by Donald Carter.

SAVES WEEK'S WAGES

Throws off COUGH Overnight

"A cough may be nothing much to some people but it usually puts me out of commission for at least a week. Last month I again caught a cough, but this time I got a bottle of Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. Well—all I can tell you is:—my cough stopped in two hours. I was fit for work again the next day. I figure that that 35c bottle of Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup saved me a week's wage." J. Keller, Staten Island, N. Y.

Monthly Reports Receive Attention at Meeting of Board.

Monthly reports of officers and a discussion of the difficulty of providing sick diets for tuberculosis patients received attention of the board of directors of the Indianapolis Flower Mission at its meeting Thursday in the Architects and Builders building. Mrs. David Ross, president, presided.

Reports were made by Mrs. James H. Lowes, treasurer; Mrs. James D. Ermston, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. M. Turner, recording secretary, and Mrs. Fred Noerr, district visitor.

There are 349 children in the 116 families, aided by the Flower Mission, according to reports. These children are tubercular, or are exposed to it, and need proper diet. The Flower Mission recently was forced to curtail its activities because of lack of funds and has taken no new cases.

Mrs. Noerr reported that Mrs. Robert Elliott, a member of the board, had donated two bushels of oranges, which were distributed among the families.

New Officers Are Named by Butler Y. W.

Miss Mary Bohnstadt was elected president of the Butler university Y. W. C. A. at a meeting Wednesday in the university building.

Other officers who will be installed at the May meeting are Misses Emma Lou Thornbrough, vice-president; Marjorie Carr, secretary, and Martha Jane McMaster, treasurer.

Retiring officers are Misses Ann Arnold, president; Agnes Postma, vice-president; Marjorie Carr, secretary, and Mary Helen Dunnington, treasurer.

Miss Bohnstadt and Miss Thornbrough were delegates to the Y. W. C. A. conference at Lake Geneva, Wis., last summer.

BUTLER LEADERS HONORED AT TEA

Presidents of sororities, fraternities and the Butler Independent Association were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Athearn at a tea, this afternoon at the president's home, 520 Hampton drive.

Others attending the meeting to discuss university problems were Mrs. Alice Bidwell Wesenberg, chairman of the Woman's Council, and Professor A. Dale Beeler, chairman of the Men's Council.
