Coast Sports New Giant Strong Man

Indians to Leave French Lick Friday

Sidelights Picked Up Here and There

A 19-year-old Samson with the shoulders of an Atlas and the arms of a gorilla recently transferred to Stanford university at Palo Alto, Cal., from Menlo (Cal.) Junior college. The young Hercules—Gordon Glover Dunn—is the most remarkable strong man the Pacific coast has yet developed. He stands 6 feet 5 1/4 inches tall weighs 246 pounds, and promises to shatter all existing records in the shot put and discus.

On March 4, young Dunn crowned himself king of the far west strong men at the annual Long Beach relays. All he accomplished in one afternoon was:

(1) Defeat John Anderson, 1932 Olympic games and National A. A. U. discus champion; (2) hurl the Grecian platter 157 feet, 3 1/4 inches to smash the meet record created by Dr. Clarence (Bud) Houser in 1926; (3) defeat Hueston Harper, second in the 1932 Intercollegiate A. A. A. shot put, in the latter's specialty; (4) conquer in the shot put also, Bob Hall, former Intercollegiate A. A. A. champion from Southern California.

In his first practice session this year, Dunn pitched the sixteen-pound shot 50 feet 10 inches to outdistance Nelson Gray of Stanford, Intercollegiate A. A. A. champion last year. His electrifying toss of 157 feet 3 1/4 inches surpassed Houser's Olympic record of 155 feet 2 1/4 inches.

Dunn has not yet learned how to throw the weights, it is said. He is so awkward, according to reports, that he invariably falls out of the back of the discus ring when he throws. Brutal strength has enabled him to smash the former world records of a three-time Olympic champion like Houser and to defeat a world champion like Anderson.

TRIBE TRAINING PROGRESS SLOWED BY RAIN

The second squad of Indians consisting of infielders and outfielders reported at the French Lick training camp Sunday evening and joined Manager Killefer and the batmen in pulling for a change in weather. The heavy rainfall has just about stymied the plans of the Tribe chief for early and heavy batting practice. The diamond at the Hoosier spot is on part of the golf links near the French Lick hotel and the turf was too wet Sunday and today to permit the athletes to get out and play the horsehide.

Killefer has the pitchers far enough along to give the slugs plenty of work whenever the weather opens up. Owner Norman A. Perry reached camp Sunday and was accompanied by Ray White, shortstop. Others reporting at French Lick Sunday, after checking in at Indianapolis, were outfielders Callahan, Crawford and Chapman, and infielders Well, Bedore and Norris.

Prexy Perry returned to Indianapolis today and Pilot Killefer also returned for a brief visit to settle some business matters. Killefer made an important announcement of a change in training plans as a result of the rain slowing the program at French Lick. He said that he would leave for the south with his squad this Friday as a means of obtaining more hard work where dry weather prevails. He is not sure at this time of stopping off in Memphis on the way to Ft. Worth. Dates with the Memphis Chicks are tentative.

It was announced that outfielders Purdy and Huff are in training with the Ft. Worth club of the Texas League and will join the Indians when Killefer's pastimes invade the southland for an exhibition series. Jim Turner, righthanded pitcher, also will report to the team when it arrives in Dixieland. Condon and Bell, both rookie hurlers, have been released. It was the first cut made in the squad.

Several prominent Indians are holding out and salary negotiations still are in order between the club officials and the boys who are seeking "revised" terms. Walter Riley, Tribe secretary, will leave for Ft. Worth this week to arrange for the team's stay there and in Dallas after training at French Lick is completed. Norman Perry is part owner of the Ft. Worth team. Hoosier headquarters there will be established at the Texas hotel.

Frank Sigafoos, veteran infielder, has signed, but has not reported. It is said he is driving through from California. The holdouts are Pete Dagha, Ernie Wingard and Johnnie Cooney; infielders Eddie Lee and H. Thomas, and outfielder Harry Rosenberg.

A PACKAGE IN TIME SAVES THE NINE

DETROIT ball players at the San Antonio training camp have been bouncing the ball out of the park into a yard passed over by a tall gentleman. The club hired a retriever to bring back the balls. This retriever tramped up the neighborhood lawns liberally. Finally the tall gentleman called upon the call club management and threatened to run the team out of Texas if his lawn was again invaded. One of Owner Frank Navin's friends called on the tall gentleman and left a package. The tall gentleman says he hopes the Detroit club will stay all year and they can play in his yard if they want to. The package was of the handle with care type.

TOM LOGAN, Perry stadium groundkeeper, is singing his theme song again as White River becomes menacing in front of the Tribe's big baseball plant. "River, Stay Away From My Door," Logan warbles as he keeps a sharp eye on the sandbags. Tom has not been compelled to resort to the bulwarks since the stadium was built, but is not going to be caught napping in the event the high water gets out of control. The river was lapping at the shoreline trees today.

Among the names of the winners in New York's Golden Gloves tournament were these: Jimmy Siclari, Harry Mangano, Jack Basilio, Louis Stilo, Leonard del Genio, Richard Cabello, Tripp Colado, Joe Ferrone, Joe Presti, Tony Juliani, Henry Balsamo and Alex Valo. And, oh yes, there was a guy named Patrick O'Connell.

It took Young Corbett III nine years and 145 ring battles to reach the top as welterweight champion of the world. Amateur boxers who think theistic profession is an easy path to fame and a bankroll might give Corbett's career deep thought.

A patched and soiled sweatshirt worn for two years by Walter Beck, Memphis pitcher up with Brooklyn, still adorns the torso of the rookie in Miami. Walter is afraid his luck will do an about face if he discards the tattered blouse. He had successful seasons in 1931 and '32. Sports goods salesman would be pleased if ball players would do away with superstitions and purchase new goods.

Cubs, Pirates and Cards One, Two, Three, McGraw Says; Giants Unimpressive

MIAMI, March 20.—The old fire horse of the National League—John J. McGraw—is sitting among the honored guests at one of the many dinners they throw down here, so I pull up my chair and sit down next to him.

"The Giants? Well, naturally, I would like to see them do very well, but facts are facts. They finished in a tie for sixth last year and if they can improve their position one or two places this year I will agree they have done nobly."

second place and the Cardinals for the show money."

McGraw always has been an outspoken gent. He is still identified with the Giants in a business capacity. If you didn't know him you would be surprised that he failed to put in a professional blurb for the Giants. Even so, you find your self curious as to how he feels about the ball club he managed for so many years.

Cleveland Ace Signs

Wes Ferrell, Star Hurler, Leaves for Training Camp.

By Times Special

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 20.—Wesley Ferrell, young slab ace, who has won twenty or more games during his first three years in the big leagues with Cleveland, planned to leave today for the Indians' training camp at New Orleans.

Ferrell, who has been a holdout because the contract offered him could for $12,000, a heavy pay cut, said he would accept the latest Cleveland offer, which includes a $3,000 bonus if he wins twenty games.

His brother, Rick Ferrell, St. Louis Browns' catcher, and also a holdout, left for the Brownie camp at West Palm Beach, Fla., today to talk over terms. His 1932 pay was cut $2,000 to $7,000, and he has been a holdout.
