

CHARRED BODY OF SUICIDE IS FOUND IN AUTO

"You'll See Me on Front Page Tomorrow," Man's Boast Before Tragedy.
(Continued from Page One)

the wife and Mrs. Farley, and they began a fruitless search for Hayes. He stopped at a filling station at 1612 Somerset avenue and obtained three gallons of gasoline, according to the attendant, Hilary Owen.

Last Drink With Me

Glenwood Young and A. R. Stephenson, both of 3704 West Sixteenth street, who were in the station, told deputy sheriffs, Hayes offered them a drink with the remark, "This may be the last drink you can ever have with me."

He appeared to be intoxicated, according to Young and Stephenson. He called them to the car.

Pointing to the floor in front of the rear seat, Hayes said:

"The next time you see it there will be a hole there. You'll see me and the car on the first page tomorrow."

Hayes then drove away.

Residents in the vicinity of the Pat Ryan farm saw flames in a forty-acre woods about 7:30 and called the sheriff's office. They were informed there was no one available to be sent, and an hour later made an investigation themselves, disclosing the tragedy of flames.

See Gas Tank Explosion

Watching the fire from a distance, the witnesses said that fifteen minutes after they first noticed the flames, the gasoline tank of the car burst with a flash of fire.

It was 9 p.m., witnesses declare, before officers arrived. Investigation was made by Chief Mike Morrissey, Dr. Arbuckle and deputy sheriffs.

Body of Hayes, with the arms thrown back, was found crumpled beneath the steering wheel.

The car was the property of Mrs. Farley, who is a sister of Hayes' mother.

Mrs. Opal Hayes, first wife of the suicide, and mother of his daughter, died after a fight, in August, 1931, in Rome, Ga., shortly after the birth of the child. Hayes was in Indianapolis at the time, and hurried to Rome on being advised of his wife's illness. He reached her two hours before she died.

Funeral Rites Not Set

Funeral services will be held at the Farley home, but the time has not been set. Burial will be in Rome, where Hayes had spent most of his life.

The High School road is the scene where Harold Herbert Schroeder's car and its flaming human cargo were found more than two years ago. Schroeder is serving a term in the state prison.

OPTOMETRISTS GATHER

Educational Program to Be Given Sunday for Members.

An educational program will be given Sunday afternoon in the Severin for members of the Indiana Association of Optometrists. The program will be followed by a business session.

Officers in charge of the meeting will be Dr. G. E. Fisher of Sullivan, who is president of the association, and Dr. Clarence W. Morris of Ft. Wayne, secretary.

ENGINEERS HEAR TALK

Research Expert Gives Address on Depressions at Meeting.

The Indianapolis Engineering Society was addressed by Paul J. Stokes, research director of the National Retail Hardware Dealers Association, "on Business Depressions: Their Causes and Possible Prevention," at a luncheon today in the Board of Trade building. Emmett G. Fowler, president of the society, presided.

LAST 2 DAYS!

—Friday and Saturday—

SEARS VALUE DEMONSTRATION SALE

SEE PAGES 18 AND 19
IN TODAY'S INDIANAPOLIS TIMES
FOR DETAILED INFORMATION

SEARS, ROEBUCK AND CO.

Store Open Tonight
Till 9 o'Clock

Mammoth Court of Honor to End Celebration of Boy Scouts

Native Hungarians who will appear at the Boy Scout court of honor tonight.

Native Hungarian Youths to Invite Troops to Giant Jamboree.

A mammoth court of honor will be the feature of the concluding activities of Boy Scout week tonight at the Knights of Columbus auditorium, Thirteenth and Delaware street.

Local Hungarians will appear on the program, bringing greetings to the Scouts for the International Scout Jamboree which will be held in Budapest, Hungary, this summer.

HOODLUM SHOT; COPS HUNT HIM

Art Dampier, Wounded, Is Taken From Scene and Vanishes.

Police and deputy sheriffs today are searching for Art Dampier, Indianapolis hoodlum, who was shot Wednesday night by two unidentified men at the Madison lunch, 3259 Madison avenue.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

KENTLAND, Ind., March 30.—Starvation and exposure were believed today to have caused the death of a man whose body was found in an abandoned granary on a farm near here.

Police found on the body indicated it was Miguel Tizapa, of near Gary. He had been dead about two weeks. There were no marks of violence.

Officers in charge of the meeting will be Dr. G. E. Fisher of Sullivan, who is president of the association, and Dr. Clarence W. Morris of Ft. Wayne, secretary.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

FIND BODY OF MAN STARVED TO DEATH

No Marks of Violence Are Discovered by Probers.

Police and deputy sheriffs today are searching for Art Dampier, Indianapolis hoodlum, who was shot Wednesday night by two unidentified men at the Madison lunch, 3259 Madison avenue.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

KENTLAND, Ind., March 30.—Starvation and exposure were believed today to have caused the death of a man whose body was found in an abandoned granary on a farm near here.

Police found on the body indicated it was Miguel Tizapa, of near Gary. He had been dead about two weeks. There were no marks of violence.

Officers in charge of the meeting will be Dr. G. E. Fisher of Sullivan, who is president of the association, and Dr. Clarence W. Morris of Ft. Wayne, secretary.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were going to take him to a city hospital. He was not taken to the hospital, however.

Frank Poleni, Ralph Hiatt and Rosa Poleni were arrested on vagrancy charges and taken to the county jail for questioning. Poleni and Hiatt were released today on $2,000 bonds each and the Poleni woman on $500 bond.

Poleni asserted that Lawrence

Hiatt and two other men whose names he did not know, were in the restaurant at the time of the shooting, but left immediately.

Although Poleni claimed he owned the restaurant, deputy sheriffs said Dampier and Lawrence Hiatt are co-proprietors.

Two men, according to the garbled story told authorities by bystanders, entered the luncheon with the command, "stick 'em up," and Dampier rushed at them from behind the bar.

The two opened fire, according to witnesses, and Dampier fell to the floor with a body wound. When police and deputies reached the scene, they found the wall behind Dampier literally was riddled by gunfire and there were several pools of blood on the floor.

The gunmen fled, police were told, and two patrons joined Dampier in the car, saying they were