

'Help Poor' Is Creed of Clubwomen

Welfare Work Is Major Interest of Many City Groups.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN
Times Woman's Page Editor

"Lend a hand" has become the creed of society women, who have realized the community's need of their leisure time.

Often their training in colleges has prepared them for welfare activities.

More frequently, their willingness to aid unfortunates has aroused an understanding and consequent efficiency, which has become an integral factor in the rehabilitation projects of various social agencies.

The most recent undertaking of this nature is the auxiliary to the Indianapolis Orphans' home, organized by the board with the intention of stimulating the interest and activity of younger women. Several young matrons and a few young women, recently students of colleges, were extended invitations.

Following an explanation of the lines of work in the home, the workers were requested to choose the phase which attracted them. Contrary to opinions of chronic critics who lament the disappearance of womanliness with its maternal virtues, a majority elected to care for children in the nursery department.

Devote Time to Work.
Because the auxiliary became sincerely interested in development of the children, it steered away from tea parties and similar projects. Their time has been devoted to actual work.

Mrs. John Hollett, who majored in social psychology at Mt. Holyoke college, tutors approximately thirty-five children, suffering from speech defects.

Miss Constance Fowler has developed poise and self assurance in the older boys and girls enrolled in her ballroom dancing class. Last Friday the class held its first dance at the home. The children were as expectant as any boy or girl anticipating the "first dance" and their fun just as genuine.

Manages Motor Corps.
Miss Ruth Millikan manages the motor corps, which is of service on Sunday morning in transporting the children to doctors and dentists for needed attention.

Mrs. Wynn Owens and Mrs. Jessie Fletcher, members of the board, have been working with the auxiliary in its first year's activities.

The Junior League of Indianapolis annually continues its constructive work at the James Whitcomb Riley hospital for children.

Six members go each day to the hospital wards, where they work under the supervision of graduate therapists.

Therapy Staff Aided
Members of the league who assist in the work of occupational therapy are required to complete a course, directed by Miss Winifred Conrick. With this knowledge they assist the patients in the various therapy projects.

League members also teach outpatients who come to the occupational therapy clinic on Saturday mornings, and two members daily assist the staff at the Rotary convalescent home.

Mrs. Larz Whitcomb is in charge of the volunteer work done for the Family Welfare Association by local women.

Direct Society's Work.
The various phases of work and chairman are: Motor corps, Mrs. Russell Fortune; collection of furniture, Mrs. Frank Wood; collection of clothing, Mrs. G. H. A. Clowes; investigation unit, Mrs. James P. Carroll; housing unit, Mrs. Robert Scott; household equipment collection, Mrs. W. Richardson Sinclair; and garden project, Mrs. James A. McDonald.

Miss Marjorie Kittle is chairman of the children's bureau motor corps, which is composed of Misses Helen Coffey, Mary Adelaide Rhoades, Catherine Lapenta, Emily Wolfson and Mrs. H. B. Caldwell.

Jackets Individual in Easter Styles

Eye-Catching Blouses Another Feature for 'Big Parade'

Three handsome Easter choices, any one of which might well suit you to a "T".
The Gibson Girl blue suit (left) with wide shoulders and a pert peplum. It is topped by the latest go-to-the-hat.
Softly dressmaker, is this chartreuse green and gray striped woolen suit (center), with short sleeves. Very new is this black gigolo suit (right), with diminutive fitted jacket with great pointed revers, faced with the red, black and white printed silk of go-to-the-hat. The hat is the new Maria Guy coachman's model.

(From Sally Milgrim, New York.)

mind. You'll probably find one that was made with you in mind.

Inspired by the gay nineteen hundreds, a smart, fine felt navy wool suit flaunts a pert peplum, and has the new Gibson Girl silhouette. Its shoulders are padded and puffed to exaggerate their width, with the express purpose, of course, of minimizing your hips and making your limbs look slender and tapering.

It has wide, flaring lapels and buttons right down the front, with a very narrow leather belt around a high waistline, to emphasize the peplum. The skirt has little godets in front to repeat the peplum's flare.

With this the new Maria Guy go-to-the-hat is done in white, with a little stand-offish ribbon fancy at one side, the color of the suit. White gloves, blue pumps with stitched stripings, a blue purse and a soft, white satin blouse with a tie collar complete the smart Easter picture.

VERY original is a black gigolo suit, neat, smart, unusual. Its diminutive jacket is fitted, has very wide shoulders and tight, straight sleeves.

The trim skirt fits up to a high waistline and buttons down the side with the button holes outlined in the novelty red, white and black printed silk that fashions the blouse and the great pointed revers of the coat. This print also lines the coat.

With this is worn the new Maria Guy coachman hat that is such a furore. If a girl is the kind who can wear it, it is smart as no other hat is smart this year.

Oxford, of trim, tailored cut, with the new punchwork holes for decoration, make a suitable addition to this suit's appearance.

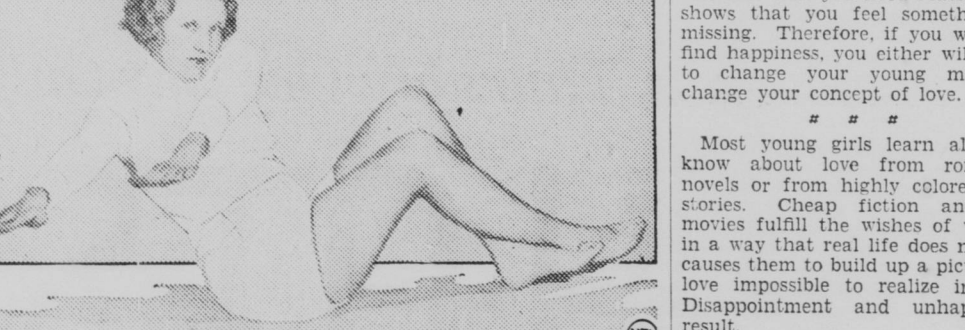

Much easier to wear than either of these suits is a chartreuse green and gray striped woolen dressmaker one. It has a simple skirt, and its silk blouse is the chartreuse.

The coat is an easy, surplice cut, with the new short sleeves that let the blouse show for cuffs. It fastens with a single button of the wool.

DON'T buy a single accessory or your hat until you get your suit. And be sure, unless a blouse goes with your suit, that you try them on, before buying. Hats, particularly, must be well with the suits or your whole ensemble is ruined.

If it is one of the latest high-styled suits you are buying, try the new hats with it! They were made with that sort of suit in mind.

Exercise Reduces Hips

Hip roll... with opposite arm-swing

This is the tenth of twelve daily exercises by Jac Auer, New York body building expert, outlining exercises to improve your looks and health.

BY JAC AUER
Written for NEA Service

CONCENTRATE today on your hips and abdomen. Reducing your hips gives you the slender form you want.

Toning up the abdomen is helpful, not only in reducing the waistline, but also is excellent for toning up your whole system, because it works toward the complete elimination of the system, essential to health itself, as well as an exuberant, lifting figure.

This exercise is a double one. You swing your shoulders one way, your legs another. It is a particularly fine abdominal squeeze that you get by this opposite swing.

Sit up straight on the floor and rock back as far as you need to get proper balance to lift your feet slightly off the floor, ankles crossed. Your arms instinctively will go out to your sides to balance you. Keep them as near shoulder level as you can, and parallel.

Now swing your legs off the floor to the left side as you swing your arms forcibly to the right side, keeping them at shoulder height. Rest.

Now swing your legs off the floor to the right and your arms to the left. Try it a couple of times, resting in between.

NEXT: First Medicine Ball Exercise.

Daily Recipe

SEA BASS

Allow one three-pound fish or two smaller ones for two persons. After the fish have been thoroughly cleaned at the market, then washed and dried, cook them for five minutes in a pan with two ounces of butter, half a dozen chopped shallots, a tablespoon of white wine.

Remove the fish from the pan, add four ounces of butter to the sauce and let it cook until it has been reduced one-third. Season with salt and pepper and pour over the fish.

Kappa Beta Convention to Be Here

Sessions at Butler to Be Attended by Delegates from Six States.

Sixteenth annual convention of Kappa Beta, the organization for university women of the Disciples of Christ church, will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the Butler university chapter as host.

Seven chapters will be represented: Kansas, Ohio, Iowa, Purdue, Nebraska, and the Kansas State Agricultural college. All sessions will be held in the recreation room of the Arthur Jordan Memorial hall.

Following the registration at 8:30 Friday morning, Mrs. Thelma G. Wessenberg will give a welcoming address and the delegates will be introduced. A tour of the city will be made.

Speakers will include Dr. Frederick Kershner, dean of the university college of religion; Mrs. May Coats of Lincoln, Neb., national adviser of the sorority; Dr. William A. Shullenberger, pastor of the Central Christian church; and Dr. H. O. Pritchard, head of the board of education of the Disciples of Christ church.

A model initiation and pledge service will be conducted Saturday afternoon, followed by election of national officers. A formal banquet will be held at night at the Lincoln.

Sunday, the advisers of the Butler chapter will entertain with a tea. They are: Miss Allena Grafton, Miss Corinne Welling, Mrs. J. W. Putnam and Mrs. F. D. Kershner.

Chairmen of the committees in charge of the convention arrangements are: Miss La Vonne Fullgraf, registration; Miss Agatha Griffin, housing; Miss Clara Margaret Von Vleet, banquet; and Miss Charlotte Carl, tour-of-the-city.

Democrats to Meet

Wayne Township Democratic Club will meet Saturday night at King avenue and Walnut street. The meeting is open to the public.

Manners and Morals

BY JANE JORDAN

Bring your perplexities to Jane Jordan, who will help you straighten them out in your own mind.

Dear Jane Jordan—Can a person be in love and not know it? It's like this. We're both 20 and have known each other fifteen years. I'm the only girl he goes with, but he never has spoken of marriage. He isn't in a position to marry, for he has no job and no prospects, but it seems to me that if his love was real he would say something about wanting to some time. He says he loves me and seems so sure of it.

I never tire of him. I'd rather spend an evening at home with him than to go anywhere on earth with anybody else. If this is love, isn't exactly what I thought it would be like. Could it be that I do love him, but that it has come upon me so gradually that I don't know I'm in love?

I'm sure he isn't my ideal in looks, for he really is a bit homely. But how many women ever marry their ideal in looks? He is a swell person, kind and makes me feel like I am robbing a cradle or something. Do you think I should stop seeing him, or what must I do? DOUBTFUL.

Answer: I can't see why such a slight difference in ages should make any difference in your friendship. If you're having a good time together, that's all that matters.

CLUB SPEAKER

Dear Jane Jordan—There is a young fellow who seems to be very fond of me and I of him, but I have found out that I am over a year older than he is. It makes me feel like I am robbing a cradle or something. Do you think I should stop seeing him, or what must I do? DOUBTFUL.

Answer: I can't see why such a slight difference in ages should make any difference in your friendship. If you're having a good time together, that's all that matters.

Clever Inventions Help Gardener; Sprinkling Line Is Placed Underground

Rockeries Are Combined With Lily Pools; Paper Patterns Devised to Grow Plants According to Set Design.

BY HELEN LINDSAY

FOR the person who takes gardening and lawn culture seriously this spring, there are all the thrills of a three-ring circus, for the most unusual and interesting things are happening in the gardening world.

Sprinkling systems are being handled in an underground way. While this formerly was only practical for large estates and public grounds, underground sprinkling systems have been introduced which are suitable for the small garden or lawn.

Small annealed copper tubes are placed about two or three feet below the soil surface. By pressing an electric switch in the house, the water is released through these copper tubes, sending out the moisture which the roots of the grass and plants seek.

L. A. Turnock, local representative for the Northern Indiana Brass Company, which has perfected this system of Nibco sub-surface irrigation, explains that in this way only one-fourth of the water used ordinarily in watering lawns and gardens will be consumed.

Evaporation, which takes place in ordinary sprinkling methods, is eliminated with this sub-surface device.

Rock gardens, according to D. D. Morris, landscape gardener, are being combined more and more with lily pools. Mr. Morris uses coloring substances on concrete and even on cokes, to effect the desired natural rock coloring where rocks are not available.

According to this garden expert, electricity plays a leading part in spring gardening ideas, with the introduction of electric lawnmowers, electric shrubbery shears, and even electric hotbeds.

Sprinkler Saves Passer-by

THE Rain-Square lawn sprinkler, featured at the Vonnegut Hardware Company, answers the question of sprinkling the plot of ground close to the sidewalk. Differing from the ordinary lawn sprinkler, this new device sprinkles not in a circle, but in a square, so that it can be adjusted to reach all corners of the lawn, and still not drench the passer-by.

Among the most popular garden tools displayed at Vonnegut's are cultivators with four prongs and long handles; bamboo rakes, reinforced with metal to prevent their breaking when they become wet, and turf cutters, to be used in trimming around walks and flower beds.

Garden Grown by Pattern

THE most "ultra" note in the new gardening ideas is the paper pattern for the garden. The designer formerly planted seeds at random, hoping that color combinations and design would develop according to fond hopes. The garden now is planted according to a desired design by use of a pattern of perforated holes in mulch paper.

The mulch paper aids seed germination, and discourages weeds in the garden. This pattern is shown in L. S. Ayres garden department. Outstanding in this department, also, is a new rambling rose, which has been patented in the United States patent office.

It is the "Blaze," a crimson rambler which blooms once a month all the summer, instead of only once during the year.

Information Given on Shrubs

SHRUBS and evergreens, together with desirable plants for rock gardens, are grown in profusion at the Weigand Evergreen Nursery on Kessler boulevard.

Experts at the nursery provide ideas for the proper shrubs to be planted according to the season, advising also on the kind most effective for the individual grounds.

NEWS OF SOCIETY FOLK

Miss Priscilla Miner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Miner, 26 East Thirty-sixth street, returned Tuesday from a visit in the east.
