shipment before midnight. This, as the story went, would be held until 12:01 a. m. and rushed to the downtown restaurant.

No Early Beer for City

Today, however, the true story came out. The alleged salemen was not connected with the company, and there'll be no beer that early.

Retailers are ordering beer from every salesman who appeared, with the warning that "if you're not here first, that's the end of our business." So there still remains, after arrival of beer at the warehouses, a possibility that some dealers will stage a race to meet their customers' demands.

One trucking company had the Marion county shipments in its grip and a one-time winner of the Speedway race landed a job driving a beer truck.

He is Louis Schneider, former Indianapolis cop, who won the race in 1931. He was one of the first to answer an emergency call from Chicago brewers and left early this morning for Chicago. His job will be to drive a Mid-West Trucking Company carrier from Chicago to an unnamed destination.

Fear Truck Hijackers

Fear of hi-jackers on country roads had the greatest bearing on the sudden lack of enthusiasm on the part of local dealers to put the rush act on beer. State police have announced they will aid in protecting the trucks, majority of which will be manned by armed crews.

Chief Mike Morrissey said he had taken no precautions for any exceptional activities in Indianapolis in the next twenty-four hours.

"I think it'll be just like the first day of the swimming season," he said. "Some of them will get wet and then go home."

Prospects for a damp, cold night, predicted by the weather bureau, also aided in cooling off spirits of the natives.

Delivery Plans Mapped

Home delivery prices of the new beer from the wholesalers will be from $3 to $3.25 a case of twenty-four pints.

The system of delivery, in which the importer contributes by taking his cut on every case, was worked out at a meeting of those who will engage in supplying the trade at the Antlers Wednesday.

Importer's cut has been variously

'NO MORE AIRSHIPS'

"There won't be any more airships," he said. His committee will begin an inquiry into the Akron disaster.

estimated from 25 cents to 50 cents a case.

The initial cost to the case consumers will be boosted by $1 for a deposit for the bottles.

This means that the city's highest priced beer will cost $4.25 for the first case at $3.25 thereafter, as long as the supply is short.

Each wholesaler must buy a truckload, 400 cases, of the new beer. Split trucks will not be sold. The wholesaler can take as many truckloads of different brands as he desires.

Wholesalers will deliver case beer to dealers and restaurants at 50 cents under the case price to the homes.

The average cost of a bottle of beer to the home consumer, with the first day of thirst-quenching, will be 15 cents, while the office worker must pay 5 cents more.

One set of quotations on prices of brands is: Schlitz, $3.25; Falls City, Bruckman, $3; Atlas, Prima, Miller and Blatz beers, $3.15.

Added to these prices is the $1 deposit for bottles.

All beer shipped into the city Friday will be brought by truck from the breweries in Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis and Louisville.

SPEED PAPERS FOR RETURN OF COLONEL YOUNG

Former Disbursing Officer to Face Embezzlement Charge Here.

Papers were forwarded to Tampa, Fla., today for return of Lieutenant-Colonel Robert T. Young, former disbursing officer in the office of the adjutant-general, to face charges of embezzlement in federal court.

On receipt of information from Tampa authorities that Young is held there, Val C. Nolan, acting United States district attorney, prepared immediately for return of Young to Indianapolis.

Warrant charging Young with embezzlement of government funds was issued here two days ago.

Colonel Young, who is not a regular army officer, had been an employee in the adjutant-general's office since 1926.

He disappeared March 20 when Ralph C. Hale and L. F. Woodside, examiners from the comptroller-general's office at Washington, arrived at the statehouse to audit accounts.

The alleged shortage of Young's accounts is reported to be about $1,000. He was accustomed to handling from $5,000 to $15,000 monthly of government funds. His home is at 2815 Walker avenue.

WOMAN SUES FORMER EMPLOYER FOR $5,000

Comptometer Operator Charges
'False Promise' to City Company.

Dorothea Rutledge, comptometer operator, today filed suit in superior court for $5,000 damages on the grounds that she "falsely" was promised she would not lose her position, if she worked additional hours without compensation.

Miss Rutledge charges she went to work for the city company Nov. 1, 1931 at a salary of $55 a month and that Harry Bell, foreman, and Leo Ranson, office manager, promised her that if she would work three hours extra every night without compensation, she would not be laid off or discharged.

She declares she told them at that time her health was not very strong, but that they "falsely" fraudulently and wrongfully, assured her if she became ill, she would be compensated and given medical aid. On Jan. 14, 1933, the complaint asserts, Miss Rutledge suffered a nervous breakdown which will leave her permanently disabled.

She declares that the compensation and medical aid alleged to have been promised her is not forthcoming.

CITY'S GOLFERS IN FEES WAR

Park Board Hears Protest, Agrees to Confer With Sullivan.

Indianapolis public links golfers today won the first step in the fight for reduced golf fees when the park board agreed to take under consideration a petition for a cut from 50 to 25 cents for eighteen-hole rounds.

John L. Niblack, president of the Indianapolis Municipal Golf Association, and a delegation of twenty-five members appeared before the board, bearing a petition containing 800 names.

In addition to the greens fee slash, the municipal links golfers demand that season tickets on eighteen-hole courses be interchangeable. Formerly it was necessary for a season ticket holder to pay half the greens fee on courses other than the one against which his ticket was issued.

Park board members announced they would confer with Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan and make a decision this afternoon or Friday.

EARL BIGGERS, CHARLIE CHAN'S CREATOR, DEAD

Author Taken at Pasadena
by Heart Attack Suffered
Ten Days Ago.

By United Press

PASADENA, Cal., April 6.—Earl Derr Biggers, 48, creator of Charlie Chan, philosophical Chinese detective character, died at Pasadena hospital late Wednesday of a heart attack suffered ten days ago.

Biggers, who had been in poor health for the last two years, was stricken while resting at Palm Springs. His wife and son, who were in the east, flew to his bedside and were with him at the time of his death.

Biggers, one of America's most popular fiction authors and playwrights, was born in Warren, O., Aug. 26, 1884. He was graduated from Harvard with an A. B. degree in 1907 and worked from then until 1911 on the Boston Traveler, first as conductor of a humorous column, then as dramatic critic.

Biggers turned his hand to writing plays in 1912. The next year he wrote "Seven Keys to Baldpate," probably the most famous of his works and one of the most successful plays in American dramatic history. George M. Cohan made the character famous on the stage.

In 1912 Biggers was married to Miss Eleanor Ladd, Medford, Mass. They have one son, Robert Ladd Biggers.

Novels, more plays and a few musical comedies were written in succeeding years. Several years ago, on a trip to the Hawaiian islands, Biggers met a Chinese detective who gave him the inspiration for the character of Charlie Chan, his famous fictional hero.

Biggers wrote five Chan books, at least two of which were made into motion pictures.

Luckies Please!

In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please!"

Georgia, where fine tobaccos grow

"Cream of the Crop"
gives character... "Toasting"
makes them mild

What puts character in a cigarette? The quality of the tobaccos. Lucky Strike's tobaccos are carefully selected for quality, for tenderness, for distinctive flavor... the finest, most carefully selected tobaccos grown.

And Luckies are truly mild—because these fine tobaccos are "Toasted"—mellowed and purified by the exclusive Lucky Strike process. For these two reasons—Character and Mildness—"Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"
