CAR RUNS INTO TRAIN; 2 HURT

Several Others Are Injured in Traffic Mishaps, Reports Show.

Two passengers in an automobile which crashed into the side of a train early today suffered only cuts and the driver of the car was unhurt.

The injured were Russell Dager, 610 North Sherman drive, and James Metzger, 2414 North Capitol avenue. The driver was Carl McKim, 1906 East Washington street.

Crashing through gates at the Big Four railroad crossing of East Michigan street, the automobile struck a freight car, one of a cut being drawn by a yard engine of which Ben Kelly, 313 East Thirtieth street, was the engineer.

Cuts were incurred Thursday night by Virgil Spencer, Bluff road and Raymond street, when an automobile in which he was riding, driven by Merritt Lambert, 35 same address, collided at Pine and Bates streets with a car driven by Charles McNeerney, 137 Leota street.

An unusual accident at Illinois and Washington streets caused Mrs. George S. Kinney, 76, Greenfield, to suffer a hip fracture.

Waterproofing Cellars

Any one who proposes to build, buy, or rent a house should consider the possibility of water and dampness in the cellar. Discovery of trouble after occupancy causes inconvenience and expense. Real estate dealers say that a good-dry, light cellar adds $500 to the value of an ordinary dwelling. Moisture and darkness favor mildew, molds, decay, and putrefaction; moisture also hastens the corrosion of metals. Therefore, a dry cellar makes for wholesome, sanitary conditions in the home; promotes personal comfort and health; lengthens the life of houses, furnishings and plumbing, and increases the usefulness of basements for storage, workshop and laundry purposes.

Our Washington Bureau has ready for you a bulletin on WATERPROOFING CELLARS that will tell you how a cellar should be kept free from water and moisture. Fill out the coupon below and send it for:

Vast Program of Public Works Urged by Senator

Bronson Cutting Points Out Need of Boosting Buying Power of People.

By MAX STERN
Times Special Writer

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The United States must halt the deflationary movement, and begin getting buying power into the pockets of its people, Senator Bronson Cutting, New Mexico progressive, declared today.

"We have gone as far as we dare go toward deflation," said Senator Cutting.

"We should begin at once a great public works program. Last session I introduced a measure for a $5,000,000,000 program. Now, I doubt if this would be sufficient."

"Such a program should, I believe, be of heroic proportions. It should relate to such works as will give a maximum of stimulus to private industry. And it should be launched without delay."

"We should go slow on public buildings."

"We should stress such things as highways, grade crossing elimination, slum abatement, reforestation on a large scale."

"Such works as these are needed, will add to our permanent wealth, will spread buying power broadly among the people."

Senator Cutting will await action from the White House on pending proposals for public works before reintroducing his public works plan.

CITY WATER CO. RATE CASE IS SET FOR MAY 1

Announcement Is Made by Albert Ward, Special Master in Chancery.

Evidence in the Indianapolis Water Company rate case will be heard in federal court May 1, Albert Ward, former United States district attorney and special master in chancery in the case, announced today.

The date was agreed upon at a conference between Ward, George W. Hufsmith, deputy attorney-general, and attorneys for the water company.

An injunction is sought by the water company to prevent enforcement of the public service commission's rate schedule which became effective Jan. 1.

This schedule increased the minimum charge to water consumers from $1.08 to $1.25 a month, based on a valuation of the company's property at $22,500,000.

The valuation is lower than that set by the company's engineers, and is opposed by attorneys for the city, who argued the valuation should have been only $19,000,000.

The hearing tentatively had been set for Monday, but was changed after the conference with Joseph J. Daniels, Indianapolis, and William L. Ransom, New York, water company attorneys.

Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell appointed Ward as special master March 24.

Members of the public service commission are defendants in the suit, which alleges the rates are confiscatory against the water company.

This service, according to the Rev. H. L. Herod, pastor of the Second Christian church and chairman of the west side committee explained, will close the pre-Easter services held in the Phyllis Wheatley auditorium under the auspices of the Interdenominational and Interracial Ministerial Alliance.

CITY MEN HELD ON WIFE-BEATING COUNT

Threatened to Kill Mate, Deputy Sheriffs Say.

Edward C. Priest, 50, said to have threatened to kill his wife, Myrtle, 52, is held today on three charges. A handful of hair he is said to have pulled from his wife's head will be among exhibits at his trial.

Priest, who gave deputy sheriffs two addresses, 2257 Gordon street and R. R. 12, Box 384-G, is charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, drawing a deadly weapon and drunkenness.

"If you don't want a woman killed, you'd better get out here," was the telephone message received at the sheriff's office Friday which led to Priest's arrest.

He was taken into custody at the home of Henry Quackenbush, R. R. 9, Box 637, where Mrs. Priest, estranged from her husband, has been living.

It is charged Priest threatened his wife with a shotgun and knife. Ninety-day penal farm term was served by Priest in a similar case, according to police.

Embargo on Foreign Goods Plan Is 30-Hour Bill Snag

Administration Facing Difficult Problem in Short Week Issue.

BY RUTH FINNEY,
Times Special Writer

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The administration is facing a difficult problem in the insistence of organized labor and numerous members of congress that the thirty-hour week bill include an embargo against all foreign goods made in plants where the short week is not likewise in effect.

This provision would have the same effect as a high tariff wall or general embargo, although the Democratic platform declares in favor of restoring foreign trade.

The house labor committee already has reported a thirty-hour week bill containing the embargo clause, by a unanimous vote.

If the house should pass the bill in that form, the house and senate measures would go to conference, and senate conferees would have difficulty in standing out against the foreign embargo provision in view of the 41-10-37 vote by which the senate defeated it.

The house will not vote on the short week week at all unless President Roosevelt decides that it should, Speaker Rainey has made clear.

The administration's decision probably will be announced Tuesday when a cabinet member will appear before the house labor committee to discuss the measure.

'BIG STICK' MAY SPEED RELIEF

Half-Billion Measure Is Apparently Marooned in House.

By Scripps-Haward Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The President will have to swing his big stick to get his half-billion-dollar relief bill through the house, according to present indications.

The senate passed the bill March 30. In the ten days since the house has marked time with unimportant legislation, general debate, and six days of recess.

The Democratic leadership there sidetracked the senate's relief bill into committee when Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell declared such a measure should have originated in the house, and the bill still is there.

A duplicate bill, introduced by Representative Lewis (Dem., Md.), which, meanwhile might, have been passed free of all technical objections, was referred to the banking and currency committee, whose hostility to relief bills has been marked in the past. The committee headed by Representative B. Steagall (Dem., Ala.), has not even been called to consider the measure.

The house judiciary committee, which is considering the point of order raised against the Wagner-Costigan-La Follette bill, has had the matter under consideration since April 5.

The banking and currency committee takes the position that it can not act on the separate house bill until the judiciary committee has reached a decision on the senate bill.

HUEY LONG'S CLAIM TO IMMUNITY CONTESTED

Ansels Files Answer to Senator's Plea He Can Not Waive.

By Scripps-Haward Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Sound public policy does not require that a member of congress be clothed with a privilege, like that of immunity, which he can not waive, asserts Brigadier-General S. T. Ansels, resigned, in an answer filed in court here to the motion of Senator Huey F. Long (Dem., La.) to dismiss Ansels' suit against him for alleged slander.

Long claims a member of congress can not divest himself of the privilege of immunity extended to him by the Constitution.

Ansels has filed two suits for $1,000,000 in damage claims for alleged libel, growing out of a speech made by Long in the senate.

Ansels cites the citizen's right to trial by jury, as evidence of the right of a congressman to divest himself of immunity.
