

MORGAN'S UTILITY EMPIRE CONTROLS MORE THAN HALF OF NATION'S LIGHT, POWER

Handful of Wall Streeters Could Demoralize
Whole Country by Stopping Service;
Operates on $15,000,000,000 Capital.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Morgan utility empire produces and sells in thirty-six states more than half the electric light and power of the United States.

It operates on a fixed capital roughly estimated at fifteen billion dollars—five times the federal government's annual budget, more than one-third of the country's estimated annual income, and larger than the world's entire stock of monetary gold.

The Morgan-created United Corporation is the biggest utility investment company in the world.

It links together in joint and tangled ownership five powerful holding company groups and many lesser ones of its own; and also the whole Electric Bond and Share system—the world's second largest utility empire, and the Insull system, ranked third in size.

If the handful of New York men who control the vast network of power lines and power plants linked together through United Corporation should decide to shut down their motors—stop service suddenly—the entire nation would be demoralized.

Manufacturing plants would close, trains would stop running, food supplies would run short, city dwellers would be left helpless. It would be interesting to see what the government could do about a situation like this.

In less spectacular fashion, the Morgan utility empire has ignored the mandates of both federal and state governments for years past, escaping federal income tax payments, organizing to avoid anti-trust laws while achieving the ends those laws sought to prevent.

Heavy Stock Holder
United Corporation owns large blocks of stock in the following holding companies:

United Gas Improvement Company which owns, among others, Philadelphia Electric and Connecticut Electric Service.

Niagara Hudson Power Corporation which owns half a dozen big New York power companies.

Consolidated Gas which owns the New York Edison Company, Brooklyn Edison Company, Westchester Lighting Company, Bronx Gas and Electric Company, United Electric Light and Power Company, New York-Queens Electric Light and Power Company.

Firm Grip on South
Commonwealth and Southern, which owns the Alabama Power Company, Georgia Power Company, Ohio Edison Company, Tennessee Electric Power Company, Consumers' Power Company, and many others.

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, with several subsidiaries.

Columbia Gas and Electric Company which owns Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company, United Fuel Gas Company, Union Light, Heat and Power Company, Ohio Fuel Gas Company, Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, and others.

Through joint ownership of American Superpower and Commonwealth and Southern, United Corporation and Electric Bond and Share are linked together.

Each company owns stock of the other, also.

Jig-Saw Puzzle Effect
Officers and directors are interlocked into a jig-saw puzzle effect.

United Corporation's directors are directors of J. P. Morgan & Co., Bonbright & Co., Electric Bond and Share, F. L. Carlisle & Co., Commonwealth and Southern, Columbia Gas and Electric, Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and United Gas Improvement Company.

Electric Bond and Share's contribution to the great empire is made through five large holding company groups, American Power and Light, National Power and Light, Electric Power and Light, American Gas and Electric, and American and Foreign Power.

The Insull tie-in comes through stock ownership of Midland United Corporation by United Gas Improvement.

Midland United is a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities.

HOST TO EDITORS

Walter W. Aikens

Members of the National Editorial Association, in convention here, were the guests with their wives today of the Indiana railroad, for an interurban car trip to Franklin as a tribute to Walter W. Aikens, veteran publisher of the Franklin Star and for fifteen years treasurer of the association.

Special cars bearing the guests left the Traction Terminal at 7 a. m. Breakfast was served in the Franklin college gymnasium, and afterward the guests visited the publisher and Mrs. Aikens at their home, and also inspected the office of the Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Aikens have attended every national convention of the association and are well acquainted with most of the members. He still is engaged in business direction of the Star, which he founded forty-eight years ago.

CIVIC LEADERS TO VISIT NEEDY

Fund Heads to Eat What Jobless Are Fed at Lodging House.

Eating what the unemployed eat while being housed at the Central Housing Foundation, 224 East Washington street, members of the Indianapolis Civic Leaders' Fund will meet at 6:15 Wednesday night at the free lodging house.

The fellowship members will be charged 5 cents a plate for the same food served each evening to city's homeless men. They will sit on the same wood benches and at the same long tables used by the unemployed.

Formal attire has been banned for the banquet.

The lodge will be toured following the meal.

Al G. Feeney, state director of public safety, will talk on state police work. Russell C. Rotger is president of the fellowship.

DRY LAW IS DOOMED, SAYS MAGAZINE HEAD

Collier's Editorial Director Confident Repeal Will Come.

"If Indiana votes for repeal in today's election, it practically will mean the end of the eighteenth amendment."

This view was expressed by Thomas Beck, New York, editorial director of Collier's magazine, and staunch repeal crusader.

He addressed the National Editorial Association convention here today.

After making a repeal talk at Ft. Wayne, his wife's hometown, Beck asserted:

"I am certainly surprised the way Indiana is changing its attitude on the liquor question."

"The eighteenth amendment unquestionably will be repealed."

"Moral effect of Indiana repeal on other states will be overwhelming if Hoosiers vote for repeal, opposition in other states will melt away."

"It is the logical and sane thing to repeal the eighteenth amendment."

DENY ROBBERY GUILT

Two Face Count in Pawnshop Slaying Case; One Awaiting Trial.

Stanley Parker and Roy Loe entered pleas of not guilty in criminal court Monday to charges of robbery growing out of a holdup which resulted in the slaying of Jack Werner, Indiana avenue pawnbroker.

Parker was acquitted recently of a murder charge in the case, but Loe still is awaiting trial on a murder indictment.

'PLAYBOY,' 40, CHARGED WITH BEATING HEIRESS

Sits in Reno Jail, Claiming
It Was a 'Mere Lovers'
Quarrel.'

By United Press

RENO, Nev., June 6.—A 40-year-old New Yorker remained in the county jail today because no one would come forward with $250 bail to release him of charges of beating Mrs. Miriam Hostetter Young, 32-year-old patent medicine heiress.

Eugene A. Bowen, described as a "playboy," denied he had struck the Pittsburgh and New York social register, who is here to divorce her second husband, Charles Fuller Young, New York broker.

"I'm dumbfounded about the whole thing," Bowen said, stroking his two-day growth of beard. "It makes me very unhappy."

A week ago Bowen announced he would marry Mrs. Young after she obtained her divorce.

Not since Peter Arno and Cornelius Vanderbilt had their famous "duel" in 1931 has Reno's divorce colony had such a tidbit to gossip over.

Bowen, who said he flew to Reno two weeks ago at the urgent instance of Mrs. Young, pleaded not guilty in justice court to two charges of assault and battery. He will be tried Wednesday.

The dapper, 40-year-old New Yorker is charged with beating Mrs. Young in the exclusive Riverside hotel on the night of May 21 and again on the morning of May 29.

Bowen claims these were only "lovers' quarrels," and that he did not actually strike her.

Bowen said that at 6 a. m. Sunday morning Mrs. Young, clad in an evening dress, visited him in the city jail.

"She threw her arms around me and called me 'poor darling'—Bowen told the United Press. "She even gave me a handkerchief—so that I could have something of her's to place close to my heart."

He displayed the monogrammed handkerchief.

Mrs. Young is the daughter of Mrs. Miriam Hostetter of Pasadena, widow of the Hostetter Stomach Bitters magnate.

Dressed smartly in a brown figured silk dress, Mrs. Young yawned as the complaint against Bowen was read in justice court.

4-H Club Camp Opens

SHAKAMAK STATE PARK, Ind., June 6.—The second annual junior 4-H Club leaders' training camp opened here Monday night with Paul McKee, Hartford city, district Kiwanis governor, addressing the 350 boys and girls participating. HOOSIERS FIND MANY FOREIGN GUESTS AT FAIR

Visitors From Europe and Asia Are Numerous at Exposition.

By Mrs. MAURICE MURPHY
Times Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 6.—Hoosiers visiting A Century of Progress are finding it a truly international exposition and are brushing elbows with people from all lands. They hear in walking or riding over the grounds, in the blue and white sight-seeing buses, exclamations of delight over the fair, spoken in nearly every language.

On Sunday, a big day at the fair, there were known to be on the grounds, visitors from Havana, Cairo, Egypt, London and other English cities; Berlin and Leipzig, Germany; Budapest, Hungary; Palermo, Italy; Rio de Janeiro, Argentine; from Norway, the Panama Canal Zone, the Philippines and from any number of places in Canada.

At the Indiana hall, in the Court of States, people came from not only Indianapolis and towns all over Indiana, but from far-distant states and foreign lands.

Mrs. Edward Rector was one of the notable visitors at the Indiana exhibit on Monday. Although a Chicagoan, Mrs. Rector is well-known throughout Indiana because of her interest in De Pauw university.

Other Indians arriving: The Misses Helen Schooner, Ruth Kirk, and Mildred Flamingham came from Indianapolis Sunday to take the places of Misses Florence Grady, Ruth Kramer and Madeline Abel, who had been at the exhibit prior to that time. Miss Wilma Davis, who has been in Chicago since the opening day, will remain for another week.

Among Indianapolis visitors who recently have seen the Indiana exhibit are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hogan, A. F. Taylor, Charles H. Cooper, Marion Cooper, Bob Mayer, P. F. Hammack and Miss Helen Hammack, Miss Alice Gibson, Miss Electa Walker, Miss Jeanne Madigan, and Charles W. Daugherty.
