

MEYER-KISER COURT PROBE TO CONTINUE

Two Other Ex-Officials to Take Stand for Questioning.

Questioning of former officials and liquidating agents of the defunct Meyer-Kiser bank will continue in circuit court this week with J. J. Kiser and M. S. Cohn on the witness stand.

At the same time, the grand jury probe of two other defunct local institutions, the State Savings and Trust Company, and the Washington Bank and Trust Company, will be pushed, according to prosecutor Herbert E. Wilson.

Ten days remain before expiration of the present grand jury term. Nearly a month of studying records and documents of the two banks would be lost if a new grand jury took up the probe, it has been pointed out.

Other Revelations Sought

Additional revelations regarding the Meyer-Kiser case are expected this week, inasmuch as the two earlier witnesses, Sol Meyer, former president, and his son, Ferdinand S. Meyer, referred answers to numerous questions to the other two liquidating agents in active control of the bank for twenty-three months.

Kiser, Cohn and the younger Meyer were named liquidating agents of the bank in May, 1931, although the latter spent a greater part of his time in Florida.

With Kiser and Cohn on the witness stand, attorneys for Thomas E. Garvin, receiver, and depositors will seek answers to questions regarding transactions prior to and during the liquidation period.

Demand by Circuit Judge Earl R. Cox that the agents file a comprehensive report of their handling of funds also is awaited as the first opportunity to learn the details of the liquidation.

Bared as Family Bank

Attempt is being made by Garvin to learn the actual value of assets having a book value of $545,000, uncovered as the bank's share in a trust organized by the former officers.

Other disclosures during the examination of the Meyers were:

The bank was "a family affair"; that it was controlled by a partnership of cousins, Sol Meyer and Sol Kiser; that in a six-year period $1,737,000 was drawn from the bank for salaries and operating expenses; that the salary of the elder Meyer was $65,358 in 1932; that his son received only $40 monthly salary from the bank, but was augmented by $600 monthly from his father, and an additional $500 monthly from the Lincoln Loan Company, a subsidiary.

That the elder Meyer and the three liquidating agents paid themselves $500 monthly during the liquidation period; that during the liquidation the agents also received $500 monthly from the loan company; that Luther Symons, former state banking commissioner, suggested withholding information from the public for the good of "general business conditions," and that Symons' son, Merwin, was employed in the bank at a $150 monthly salary for "part-time work."

Put YOUR WILL "IN BALANCE"

Today's shifting scale of values touches all of us at many angles. Even the bequests in a will may be "off balance" with present net worth figured at today's values.

HAVE YOU FIGURED how little or how much the value of your estate has altered since you made your will?

DOES YOUR WILL contain any specific money bequests? Should these be re-adjusted now in fairness to those who will receive the remainder or residue of your estate?

DO YOU KNOW how the revised taxes would affect the transfer of your estate and the net amount your beneficiaries would receive?

HAVE YOU LOOKED into the various modern trust plans which can protect the financial position of your heirs?

It is part of our business to have helpful information on the business aspects of estates and trust funds. Our Trust Officers will be glad to discuss recent developments with you at any time.

No appointment is necessary. No charge whatever is involved. Come in when you can for a talk about the things you want to do for your family.

CITY BREWERY DENIED PERMIT

'Starvation Pay' Charges Followed by Refusal of License.

Permit for the Home Brewing Company, which is rehabilitating the old Lieber brewery, 1300 Madison avenue, will not be granted at this time, it was announced today by Paul Fry, state excise director.

On June 10, Fry said the request had been filed by the company for a beer manufacturer's permit. He announced then that he was going to inquire into the financing of the company.

Reports were current that some of the funds were coming from Mrs. Claude Worley, wife of the former Indianapolis police chief, who now is serving a federal prison sentence at Leavenworth, Kan.

This was denied, however, by John J. Darmody, president of the company. Darmody also denied that "starvation wages" were being paid to workers at the old brewery. Harry Moore, 431 Prospect street, produced a check he received for fixing boilers there at 75 cents a day.

In turning down the permit at this time, Fry gave as the reason that there is no room for more breweries in the Indianapolis district.

Slugger Runs Amuck on South Side; Attacks Trio

Three persons were slugged early Sunday night when an unidentified and apparently crazed youth ran amuck on the south side, running from house to house and attacking whomever he saw.

He was beaten into unconsciousness by one of his victims and three police officers and lodged in city prison in a padded cell.

The youth, apparently about 19, then ran to 318 Orange street, where Fred Kleis, bridgeport, was sitting on the porch. He knocked Kleis down, but Kleis didn't like it and pursued his assailant.

Running on porch of 343 East Morris street, where Mr. and Mrs. George Moon were sitting, the youth slugged Moon and tried to hit Mrs. Moon, who escaped by rolling from the porch into a flower bed.

Kleis still was hot in pursuit and was joined by Patrolman William Marks, who was in civilian clothes. They caught their quarry at Madison avenue and Morris street, where he put up a furious resistance. He battled Kleis and Marks successfully until Sergeant Ed Kruse and Patrolman Kenneth Downs joined in the melee.

The youth refused to tell his name, age, or residence. He told police he was "being paid $1,000 a week by gangsters to put people on the spot and intended to kill everybody."

He is held on a vagrancy charge as a mental patient after being treated at city hospital.

OUTLAWS HOLD SOUTHWEST IN GRIP OF TERROR

Dozen Bandits Put Feats of Jesse James Into Novice Class.

BY THOMAS C. CLUCK
United Press Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 19.—Modernized outlawry has reached an unprecedented high point in the southwest.

Depredations of such notorious characters as Jesse James and Al Jennings were amateurish compared with the machine gun, motorized reign of terror in recent weeks.

The roster of fugitives, many with blood on their hands and a price on their heads, today stood as follows: Seven Kansas state penitentiary convicts, including Wilbur Underhill, convicted murderer, and Harvey Bailey, killer and bank bandit.

Pretty Boy Floyd Loose
The "phantom bandit" of the southwest, Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, rival of Jesse James for infamy, was in the area at least one of his lieutenants.

Two or more machine gunners who raked the Union station plaza here with bullets Saturday, killing four officers and a convict.

Three bank bandits who shot to death a sheriff and state highway patrolman at Columbia, Mo., One suspected member of the gang that kidnaped Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of the city manager of Kansas City, Mo., and collected $30,000 ransom for her release.

Carjacking in the cases were: Lansing prison break, four convicts returned to prison; McElroy kidnaping, three men and one woman held; Union station massacre, none; Columbia killings, none.

Massacre Stirrs Police
The massacre of Raymond J. Caffey, special agent of the United States bureau of investigation; Police Chief Otto Reed of McAlester, Okla.; Frank Hermonson and J. W. Grooms, Kansas City detectives, on the Union station plaza, aroused the forces of law to feverish activity.

The fifth victim was Frank Nash, convict, whom the officers were returning to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth.

The gunners did their murderous work in sight of hundreds of early morning travelers and townspeople.

Five men suspected of complicity in the massacre were seen near Leavenworth, Kan., twenty-five miles away Sunday.

The arrest Sunday in Roanoke, Va., of George McGee, suspect in the McElroy kidnaping, left only one suspect in the case still at large. McGee's brother, Walter, was arrested in Amarillo, Tex., and confessed.

Floyd Makes Getaway
Clarence Click was arrested in Kansas City. A former wife of Walter McGee was captured at the hideout where Miss McElroy was held. Clarence Stevens has not been found. Approximately half the ransom money was recovered.

"Pretty Boy" Floyd disappeared after he and a lieutenant released a sheriff and another man near Lees Summit, Mo., early Saturday. The two had been held as hostages in a typical Floyd dash toward his Oklahoma retreats after the sheriff accidentally walked into a garage where the bandit car was being repaired.

Of the eleven Kansas penitentiary convicts who escaped Memorial day, seven remained free. Clifford Dopson and Billie Woods were captured at Junction, Tex. Frank Sawyer was taken near Bunker, Okla., after a bloody encounter with officers. Lewis Bechtel was arrested quietly at Dripping Springs, Okla. The others could not be traced.

HOLDUP IS REPORTED
City Man Taken for Ride, by Trio, Police Are Told.

Flem O. Brittain, 44, of 85 North Addison street, reported to police that he had been "taken for a ride" late Saturday by three men who asked for directions at St. Clair street and Broadway.

With a revolver pressed against his side, Brittain was driven east of the city and robbed of $7, the contents of his purse. The bandits drove a car with an Illinois license, Brittain said.

TAKES GAS TO END LIFE
No Flowers or Funeral Is Request of Woman Suicide.

Leaving a note requesting "no funeral or flowers for me," Mrs. Lotie Stenler, 50, of 933 Buchanan street, committed suicide by leaping into the jets of her kitchen gas stove open.

The body was found Sunday night, Dr. William E. Arbuckle, coroner, estimating she had been dead at least forty-eight hours.

Virgil Kirkland Opens New Fight for Freedom in Madison Co. Court

Judge's Right Questioned by Gary Youth's Counsel in Death Case.

By Times Special
ANDERSON, Ind., June 19.—Virgil Kirkland, gin party slayer of Arlene Draves, Gary high school girl, was to open a fight for freedom this afternoon in Madison superior court.

Kirkland, a Gary youth, was given a one to ten-year term in the Indiana reformatory as result of a new trial after he had been convicted at a spectacular previous hearing of murder, entailing a life term in prison.

Second conviction was on a charge of assault and battery with intent to commit a criminal attack.

Proceedings today will be on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against Ralph Howard, reformatory superintendent.

It is contended in the petition that a court lacks power to convict a defendant of a lesser offense than the one with which he is charged.

Miss Draves, 18, died Nov. 30, 1930, due to a brain hemorrhage resulting from criminal attack, according to a coroner's verdict.

KIDNAPERS KIND, HAMM ASSERTS

Millionaire Brewer Back Home: Large Ransom Is Paid.

000," which the abductors originally had asked.

He reached his home here at 8:30 and detectives immediately started questioning him.

Meanwhile a physician and nurse had been called to the home where Mrs. Hamm, the kidnaped man's aged mother, was reported near collapse.

Wyoming is on trunk highway No. 1, between the Twin Cities and Duluth. It was on this same highway that the ransom payment was made Saturday night. A Hamm Brewing Company truck and a specially designated automobile figured in the payment.

At least five men were believed to have taken part in the kidnaping. The truck, originally designated as the "payoff" vehicle, separated from the automobile north of St. Paul. The automobile proceeded north on highway No. 1 to a point between Pine City and Rush City.

Two automobiles drove alongside the "payoff" car and indicated the ransom was to be thrown out.

St. Paul, as soon as word was received of Hamm's safety, police started the delayed hunt for the kidnapers. Police Chief Thomas Dahill, accompanied by several aids, sped northward out of the city. cruiser automobiles began raids previously determined upon, to obtain information.

Some doubt was raised that the ransom had been paid to the right gang, but Dahill belittled this theory. Dahill still was confident that Verne Sankey, suspected as the perpetrator of two notorious kidnapings in the last year, was leader of the gang which overpowered Hamm.

JUDGE TO RULE ON INTANGIBLES TAX

Verdict on Constitutionality Due Soon at South Bend.

By United Press
SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 19.—Judge Fred P. Bingham of St. Joseph superior court today had under advisement a series of suits attacking validity of the new state tax on intangibles.

His decision is expected within two weeks and, regardless of the verdict, an appeal will be taken to the state supreme court, it was indicated by attorneys.

During the hearing before Judge Bingham Saturday, attorneys Joseph Hemphill, Roland Obenchain, Harry S. Taylor and Walter R. Arnold argued that the law was "unconstitutional and discriminatory."

Joseph W. Hutchinson, deputy attorney-general, defended the tax.
