

M'NUTT FACES OPEN BREAK BY PETERS GROUP

Inter-Party Feud Between
'Old Timers' and 'Boy Scouts' Predicted.

Open split between Governor Paul V. McNutt and R. Earl Peters, Democratic state chairman, is in the offering, it is being predicted universally in political circles today.

The break is expected to precipitate an inter-party feud between the "old-time Democrats" and the so-called "Boy Scouts" that is the McNutt-American Legion group, which may have far-reaching effect on the Governor's political future.

Oddly enough, Secretary of State Frank Mayr, Jr., outcast by both McNutt and Peters, may, through his followers, be the deciding factor in the tide of battle.

Already certain Mayr henchmen are reported talking up Peters in his expected campaign for the nomination for the United States senate.

Since most of them were ousted from the statehouse on McNutt orders, they have no good word for the chief executive.

Peters has been slated to resign the state chairmanship for the senatorial race, but his followers do not want him to quit as the organization's head man until they are sure about who will be his successor.

This is complicated by the fact that William Storen, state treasurer; Floyd E. Williamson, state auditor, and others have all expressed willingness to "do the job."

Williamson is pro-Peters, if not anti-McNutt, so Storen would be a more favorable choice for the Governor's cohorts.

They plan also on having their own senatorial candidate, Sherman Minton, New Albany, appointed by McNutt as public counselor with the public service commission, already is running. He hopes to reduce utility rates and make a record which will attract state-wide attention.

He is a favorite of the Governor.

Day Camps for Girls to Be Opened by Y. W.

Directors of the day camps sponsored by the Girl Reserves department of the Y. W. C. A. are shown above.

Five Community Centers Will Be Operated During Summer.

Day camps for grade and high school girls will open in five community centers Wednesday under direction of the Central Y. W. C. A. Girl Reserves department, of which Miss Jenna Birks is executive and Miss Marian Smith, assistant.

The centers will be Spades park public library, Hawthorn community center, Garden Street Baptist church, Central Y. W. C. A. and South Side Y. W. C. A.

The program includes outdoor recreation, crafts, music, dramatics, nature lore and study hours. Transportation will be provided for week-but the McNutt group is reported not entirely committed to his candidacy at this time.

Frank McHale, Logansport, also has been boomed by friends as a possibility. Close to McNutt and an American Legion leader, he has not taken a state post but remained a power behind the scenes, particularly in the beer permit distribution.

On the outside if Albert Stump, Indianapolis attorney and twice a candidate, with a large personal following throughout the state.

With the state factions thus complicated, Senator Frederick Van Nuys looms as a power. It is expected that he will have considerable say regarding party fortunes in the near future.

First step toward that end is expected to be taken when the entire democracy attends the Democratic Editorial Association meeting at Lake Wawasee, Aug. 7 and 8.

Leaders include: South side high school and grade school director, Miss Jane Cartwright; counsellors, Virginia Boyd, Thelma Foster, Helen Glass and Catherine Burton; Central high school leader, Miss Dorothy Lambert, grade school, Mrs. Ridding; Hawthorn community center, Miss Stephens, director; Mrs. Lemming assistant; counsellors, Harriet Fouts, Catherine Murphy and Alice Forteus; Spades park leader, Marjorie Demaree, and Baptist Center directors, Rachel Cartwright and Miss Reed.

WOMEN AFTER BETTER 'BREAK' ON PATRONAGE

Democratic Bloc Organizing to Present Demands to Party Leaders.

BY FLORA G. ORR
Times Special Writer

WASHINGTON, July 4.—Women Democrats, dissatisfied with their patronage assignments to date, are planning a more compact organization to present their demands to party leaders.

This women's bloc probably will be headed by the new vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee, when this appointment is made to succeed Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, now director of the mint, who is expected shortly to resign her vice-chairmanship.

Prominently mentioned for the vice-chairmanship are Miss Mollie Dewson of New York, chairman of the women's division of the Democratic national committee during the Roosevelt campaign, and Mrs. Lavinia Engle, member of the Maryland legislature, and recently chairwoman of the national Democratic women's speakers' bureau.

The new feminine bloc will demand that a certain number of places be set aside for appointments on recommendations of the women's Democratic organization.

If the Democrats shall retain control for another four years, ten to twelve places for women in the little cabinet will be advanced as a "minimum requirement." This will be in addition to one woman at least in the cabinet itself.

The little cabinet consists of the assistant secretaries, or assistant directors of new administrations, commissions, federal corporations and agencies.

Soon after the President returns to the White House from his vacation, the flood of announced appointments will include the names of a few women to jobs more or less important in Washington and throughout the states.

On this list, it is anticipated, will be: Miss Sue White, Tennessee lawyer, now carrying on the women's work in the Democratic na-national committee headquarters in Washington, either to the legal division of the Tennessee valley authority or to a judgeship, possibly that of the juvenile court in Washington, D. C.

Miss Stella Akin, Savannah (Ga.) lawyer, to the post of special assistant in the department of justice.

Mrs. Phoebe Omile, aviatrix, to a salaried position on one of the independent advisory boards.

Several women as attorneys in the department of justice.

Mrs. Stanley V. Hodge, national committeewoman for Minnesota, is to be offered the post of customs collector at Minneapolis, and there will be several appointments to such state posts as this, as well as state directors for relief work, and home loan administrators.

At least one woman is slated for director of public works, in a western state.

The three outstanding appointments for women to date have been Miss Frances Perkins, as secretary of labor; Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen as minister to Denmark, and Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross as director of the mint.

PLEDGE PUBLIC PROTECTION IN RISE OF PRICES

Labor Also to Be Guarded Against Unfair Treatment in Recovery Program.

WASHINGTON, July 4.—General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery act administrator, has pledged the full force of the law to protect the public from extortionate prices and labor from unfair treatment under the Roosevelt industrial program.

"If we find extortion by price fixing, we'll call the parties in and make the case subject to all the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust act," Johnson declared Monday at a newspaper conference. This holds, he said, for the basic industry, for wholesalers, retailers and all along the line.
