

CITY PREPARES CHLORINE GAS CONTROL LAW

Ordinance Providing Safety in Storage Drafted for Council.

An ordinance to control the storage of chlorine gas will be presented to the city council, it was decided today following a discussion of the possibilities of another "chlorine gas accident" in the city, by safety board members.

William F. Hurd, city building commissioner, just returned from the national building officials conference in Chicago, reported that not a city in the United States had a law to control the storage of gas.

Even the national underwriters association, controlling the fixing of fire rates for insurance companies has failed to recognize it.

A number of cities throughout the country have written to Hurd, Chief Harry Voshell of the fire department and also Police Chief Michael Morrissey to learn the cause of the recent accident here in which more than forty persons were overcome, and what steps to take to prevent a mishap in their cities.

Hurd and Voshell were instructed by resident Charles Meyers of the board to meet with the legal department and draw up a stringent ordinance.

1,200 MOBILIZE AT C. M. T. C. AT FORT

All Candidates Are "Veterans"; Physical Condition Is Excellent.

War-time scenes were being re-enacted today at Ft. Benjamin Harrison as approximately 1,200 youths were being mobilized for the thirty days' citizens' military training camp.

Nearly 300 of the number arrived at the fort Tuesday for enrollment. All the candidates are "veterans," students of previous camps, as no funds were allotted this year for the first-year course.

Physical condition of the group reported Sunday was excellent, only a few being rejected during examination by regular and reserve corps medical officers.

Program during the month will include outdoor drill, shooting, athletics, hiking and citizenship studies. Reveille will sound at 5:40 a. m. Other calls will be: Breakfast, 6:30; dinner, noon; supper, 5:30; tattoo, 9 p. m.; call to quarters, 10:15, and taps, 10:30.

TWO HURT IN CRASH

City Man Suffers Lacerations, Internal Injuries in Accident.

Lying at the side of state Road 67, one mile east of Oakland, early today, police found Roy Legg, 22, of 917 East New York street, who reported that he had been injured in an automobile in which he was riding with Miss Wanda Gordon, 19, of Oakland. The car skidded into a ditch and turned over, he said.

Miss Gordon, only slightly bruised, had gone for help, he stated, when Byron Turner, truck driver, of Munice, found him limping along the road.

When Turner went to call police Legg collapsed. He was treated at city hospital for lacerations and internal injuries.

Jelly Bag Stand Made for Housewife; Manicure by Electricity.

For the first time, local inventors have been given opportunity to demonstrate contrivances to be placed on the market. The display of inventions is being shown at the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce.

Included in the display are several inventions which will be of interest to women.

One is a simple contrivance, designed for the suspension of a jelly bag. It was invented by Mrs. Rebecca Phinney, 130 North Oriental street. The stand fits on the side of a large pan, into which the fruit juice may drip. The jelly bag is suspended from a hook at the top of the stand.

An electrical manicuring machine, the invention of J. W. Fuge, resembles a dental tool. It can be connected to an ordinary light socket.

Games machinery for sharpening of razor blades, opening letters and cutting open packages of cigarettes are on display.

Various inventions for use of farmers also are being shown.

Such Monkey Business!

It Spoils First Swim Lesson

BY HELEN LINDSAY
Times Staff Writer

NOW I know just how it feels to have some one steal the show. I have all the sympathy in the world with the star who sees the ingene walk off with her act.

Assignments on newspapers vary. Sometimes they are just common place; sometimes difficult. Once in a while they offer a real thrill. That's what happened when I was assigned to take my first lesson on the afternoon of July 4 in The Times-Broad Ripple pool swimming course. Boy, that was an assignment!

Here was an opportunity to learn the fine art of swimming from a real expert. Earl Montgomery, instructor in swimming at the Broad Ripple pool, has outlined a complete course for beginners, which will be given in The Times-Broad Ripple free swim course, starting next Monday.

They were unusual acts-swimmers attempting to walk on a greased pole, and falling off, kerplunk, into the water; a wrestling match between Ed Slaughter and Hugh O'Gara on a floating raft; a fifty-yard swim under water by James Moore of Belle Isle, Detroit.

"They recognize, however, that a solution of the wheat problem depends upon the co-operation of European countries."

It was rumored that the agreement reached in principle today provided for 15 per cent reduction of acreage for two years, or for reduction of exports by 15 per cent for two years.

"The government secret service trick, originated during the World war for the purpose of transporting ammunition and supplies over streams under fire.

Stunt Is Difficult

In this stunt, he pulled a raft carrying several people across the water by a harness fastened to his shoulders, while he walked on the bottom of the pool, carrying a one hundred pound bag of sand in his arms.

The show ended with a fire dive, in which Miss Ella Carver, her suit in flames, dived into a pool of ignited gasoline on the surface of the pool from a seventy-foot ladder.

"I'll come back tomorrow for my first lesson," I told Montgomery, after the show.

As I left the park, I paid a quiet visit to Jocko's cage. I examined the lock carefully. I gave Jocko a very dirty look.

"Don't be doing any Houdini stunts tomorrow, Jocko," I said, severely.

If it hadn't been for the water show that followed, I probably should have been a little disgusted, too.

After all, who wants to compete for the spotlight with a monkey.

50,000 WATCH SAHARA GROTTO HOLIDAY EVENT

Battle of Argonne Re-enacted at Butler Bowl as July 4th Feature.

Another Battle of the Argonne was history today, 50,000 persons having witnessed a re-enactment of the World War event at Butler bowl Tuesday night, part of a Fourth of July program sponsored by Sahara Grotto.

Preceding the battle, there were numerous fireworks displays, which included brilliant lights and huge settings.

Although there were only about 35,000 in the bowl proper, it was estimated that 15,000 persons watched the exhibition from parking places on nearby streets.

Fireworks did not hold the entire spotlight. Feature drills and music being given by the Grotto Blue Devil drill team, champions of the United States and Canada; the Indianapolis chapter of DeMolay, the Grotto drum and bugle corps, Twelfth district American Legion drum and bugle corps, and the Grotto Pirate band, which recently won first place for musical organization at the supreme convention at Chicago.

Circus for Children

It was a regular circus for children with Grotto revelers dressed as clowns.

Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan, an honored guest, was forced to give up his box, when he left to escort Miss Liberty to the field, in a pageant presented by playground children under the direction of Mrs. Norma Koster of the city recreation department.

Following the pageant, which concluded with the forming of a living American flag, the mayor accompanied Miss Liberty to a special section set aside for the children, and just couldn't get away from them, being forced to sit in the center of the group.

Golf Courses Crowded

As a finale, all the performers and officers of the Grotto marched around the field.

Indianapolis got out to other places also Tuesday to celebrate Independence day, and parks, swimming pools and woods were crowded with chilled swimmers and picnickers.

Golf courses also were crowded, as were tennis courts and baseball diamonds.

Riverside and Broad Ripple amusement parks also held firework displays for their patrons, and thousands visited both places throughout the day.

Robbed of $2 by Five Men

Five men set upon Art Craig, 32, 508 Leon street, Tuesday while he was sitting in Camp Sullivan park, slugged him and robbed him of $2. He was taken to city hospital and treated for bruises.

REACH WORLD WHEAT ACCORD

'Big Four' Delegates Agree on Policy of 'Temporary Adjustment.'

By United Press

LONDON, July 5.—Delegates representing the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina today reached agreement on principle on a "policy of temporary adjustment" to raise wheat prices, but agreed that co-operation of European consuming nations was necessary to any final solution of the problem, it was announced officially.

The text of a communiqué issued by the "big four" delegates was:

"The four overseas wheat exporting countries—Argentina, Australia, Canada and the United States—took agreement in principle today provided for 15 per cent reduction of acreage for two years, or for reduction of exports by 15 per cent for two years.

"They recognize, however, that a solution of the wheat problem depends upon the co-operation of European countries."

It was rumored that the agreement reached in principle today provided for 15 per cent reduction of acreage for two years, or for reduction of exports by 15 per cent for two years.
