

INDIANA STAMP TO BE SOUVENIR OF HOOSIER DAY

Special Cachet and Map to Commemorate Event at Chicago Fair.

BY MRS. MAURICE MURPHY
Times Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 7.—All Hoosiers who plan to go to Chicago for Indiana day at A Century of Progress Exposition, July 13, will be interested in the Indiana day covers, designed in recognition of the celebration. Many letters will be sent "back home to Indiana" by loyal Hoosier visitors to relatives and friends unable to attend the exposition on the big day.

A map of Indiana, in outline form, a carnation, the state flower, and the words, "official cover, July 13," are shown on the envelope with A Century of Progress heading and the official Century of Progress 1933 flag. "Indiana day" is emblazoned in still larger type across the design.

For those interested in stamp collecting, a pastime which has been dubbed "the king of hobbies and the hobby of kings" and which dates back to about the year 1841, the cachets will prove of exceptional interest.

There is in Indianapolis at the present time a stamp club to which many prominent professional and business men and women belong.

Even to those not interested in philately, the covers will have great souvenir value for this particularly Century of Progress souvenir is one exclusively Hoosier.

Individual cachets have been designed for each marked day on A Century of Progress calendar, great care having been taken to carry out some idea symbolic of the state or country for which it was made.

It even has been suggested that the cachets for German day, Aug. 13, may be made on the Gutenberg press.

City Amateurs Will Get Chance in '1933 Follies'

Home Talent to Make Up
Cast of Sparkling Plot
at Granada Theater.

Probably in your dreams you have pictured your name in incandescent lights on the rialtos of cities from coast to coast, or you may have dreamed your ambition by simply wishing to get a good part on the stage to show what you can do.

No matter which of these dreams aroused your footlight or silversheet ambitions, it may come true if you are one of the successful members of the cast of the "Indianapolis Follies of 1933," which will show at the Granada theater for three days, starting Sunday, July 16, to be made up entirely of actor and actress enthusiasts of Indianapolis and vicinity.

Since the first announcement in Thursday's Times of the coming of Jeff Creager, Broadway producer, and one of the foremost directors of local revues, to pick 100 girls and a few clever young men for the cast, a score of girls and young men have expressed a desire to be given tryouts for the production.

ed for Indiana day to see the wonders of the past century depicted at the exposition. Since opening day, great numbers of Indians have come to the fair.

Among recent visitors from Indianapolis are:

AID OF FARLEY MAKES HIMSELF BURGLAR-PROOF

Devises Arrangement of Pins, Wire and String to Fool Pickpockets.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Senator William C. Lyons is happy to announce that, he at last, is burglar-proof.

The senator, an inventor extraordinary as well as unofficial ambassador plenipotentiary of the postoffice department, has devised an arrangement of pins, wire and string on each of his lower vest pockets.

In his left pocket he keeps a diamond-studded watch, presented to him by Jack Dempsey. In his right pocket he keeps a ruby-studded watch given him by another pugilist.

If anybody tries to reach into the senator's left pocket for the diamond-studded watch, he gets his hand stuck automatically by a needle. If he reaches into the senator's right pocket while the senator isn't looking, he gets jabbed by a pin. The hand jabbing equipment is perfected so well that the senator himself can look either at his diamond watch or his ruby watch without so much as scratching a finger.

Details of the burglar sticking device remain secret. He's afraid that if the results of his ingenuity became public, potential burglars might invade both pockets.

The senator is a tiny gentleman, partly bald and slightly wrinkled. His official title is administrative assistant to Postmaster General James A. Farley.

He was born in Waco, Tex., became a Texas ranger, drifted into the prize fight business, became intimate with Dempsey and other celebrities of the ring, and climaxed his career by becoming a state senator in Colorado.

During all these years he was a good Democrat. He campaigned for Woodrow Wilson. He also campaigned for President Roosevelt.

And so he has been rewarded with his post office job and important-sounding title.

The senator's duties are not arduous. He has plenty of time to tell visitors about the time that Dempsey handed him the diamond watch and about the extraordinary methods taken to safeguard it.

There's one real way to judge
good beer

THERE'S ONE WAY to judge beer. And that's by its flavor. If it has the right aroma—the right body and taste—then it has everything else you want!

Good taste in beer comes only from good brewing. It can be had in no other way. And better brewing is the simple secret of Atlas popularity. Its matchless flavor—its zest and snap and creamy foam—are the admiration of beer lovers everywhere.

In making Atlas Beer, only the finest barley malt is used—the choicest domestic and imported Bohemian hops. These are blended according to a formula perfected through 42 years of continuous brewing. At every step in brewing, the utmost care is exerted. Even the water is specially treated. After brewing, the beer is cooled—through filtered air—in a spotless glazed-tile room. Then it is allowed to age for months—until that mellow Atlas flavor is fully developed.

So wholesome is this superb beer, that a famous laboratory certifies to its purity. For your guests, as well as your family, have a case of Atlas Beer always on hand. Its beneficial properties aid the digestion and soothe the nerves. You'll sleep better if you drink some each night at bedtime.

Atlas Beer is sold by 65,000 dealers and at your favorite restaurant, club and tavern.
