

Anniversary of Club Will Be Observed

Meridian Hills Program Saturday to Be for Members.

Eighth anniversary of the Meridian Hills Country Club will be observed traditionally with Saturday's program, planned to entertain every member of the club.

The day will have a lively start at 1 with the men playing their annual golf tournament. Walter Krull and Arthur E. Krick have planned this event.

A party for the children will begin at 3, and all children under 8 will gather at the riding stables to ride in saddles or carts. Mrs. Charles C. Binkley and Mrs. Dan W. Flickinger will supervise the children.

Ribbons to Be Awarded

Ribbon awards for the first three places will be given in swimming events opening at 3:30 under the direction of Walter A. Jamieson and Howard S. Morse, swimming chairman. Registrations are in charge of William Weiss, instructor, who has announced the pool will be open all day with the exception of the contest period.

"Women will take to the golf course at 4:30 when they will try their putting skill. Mrs. James L. Murray will manage this event.

Huge Cake to Be Cut

A huge birthday cake will be cut during the picnic dinner on the lawn at 6:30. At 8:30 tables will be arranged on the lawn for bridge, and at 9 dancing will begin on the porch with the Indiana Ramblers of Noblesville providing music.

The bridge party is in charge of Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Harold, Messrs. and Mesdames M. G. Knox, J. E. Thompson, and Verne A. Trask. Bridge reservations should be made with dinner orders. The dance committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Huston and Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Axtell.

RECENT BRIDE IS FETED AT SHOWER

Mrs. J. E. Licht and Miss Hazel Madden entertained Monday night with a shower at the Rose of Sharon cottage in honor of Mrs. Earl T. Mulbarger, sister of Mrs. Licht and the former Miss Grace Giban, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Giban of University Heights. Appointments were in pink and green.

Guests were Mesdames Anna Lee Terry, Elmore Boswell, Juanita Price, Flora Giban and Gladys Johnson and Mrs. Thyr Van Vactor of Michigan City, and Misses Helen Lammer, Edith Stahl, Lois and Hazel Carter, Barbara Robinson, Leola Flory, Gertrude Becker, Freda Hammening, Florence Hawthorne, Autumn Bradley and Ann Furry.

STUDENT BODY TO HOLD PARK PICNIC

Student body of Lincoln Chiropractic college will hold its annual picnic Sunday at Riverside park. Members of the faculty, relatives and friends of the students will be guests.

A program of sports events has been arranged for the afternoon which will include an inter-class baseball tournament in which students from twenty-three states and five foreign countries will participate.

Club Event Scheduled

Quest club of the Business Girls organization of the Y. W. C. A. will visit the Children's Museum tonight, as the fourth trip in the series sponsored by the club. The group will meet at 7:30 at the central Y. Supper will be served at 6:30, preceded by a swim at 5:30 for those interested.

FLOWERED PRINT

Buttercups and daisies are blooming all over the town as well as in the country, these days. They are blooming in gay, bright colors on sheer crepe backgrounds that are as refreshing as a cool breeze.

Wherever you spend the summer you'll need a few. So pick yours now and be prepared to look your most alluring.

It is hard to say whether these prints inspired the new frocks or whether the frocks inspired the prints, but at any rate the combination is irresistible.

There is this frock for instance, with its diaphanous sleeves and its clever seams that make the most of lovely curves. A velvet sash picks up the predominating color of the print and, remember, velvet sashes are very important.

It's smart, isn't it? And there are ever so many others just as smart in our new Fashion Book. See the pattern envelope for the materials required to make this frock in your size.

Price for pattern 15 cents.

New summer fashion book is out! Send for it—put check here ☐ and enclose 10 cents extra for book. Pattern No. 5271 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 bust.

Your Manners

MAY a maid bring in two plates at a time?—C. L.

Not if she is going to exchange the plate she brings in for the one belonging to the last course—a bit of legerdemain which will require both hands. Two hors d'oeuvres plates may be brought at once, as they start the meal, or two soup plates, if the maid is steady-handed.

One Grand Riot of Fun Is Oscar Wilde 'Nightmare'

'Woman of No Importance' Is Jolliest Tonic the Civic Theater Has Given in Many, Many Months.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN
WHEN Gerald Arbuthnot tossed back his head and pointed his right arm to the skies and heroically and with gestures told his mother, "I have never heard of such a thing of a woman refusing to marry the father of her own child," a near capacity house at the Playhouse last night did not burst out in tears but roared with laughter.

Again, when Lord Illingworth dramatically declared that when a woman has lived romance for twenty years she's like a ruin, but when she has been married twenty years she looks like a public building, the house shook with laughter.

Am just trying to tell you that some of the gayest, rowdiest theater that the Civic Theater has ever dishied out is the third offering of the summer stock season at the Playhouse. Of course, it is Oscar Wilde's nightmare of gorgeous satire and dripping melodrama, "A Woman of No Importance."

I yelled and I screamed at the old fashioned heart throbbing actions of the cast. They moved and talked, posed and pointed to the heavens with upturned faces, got on their knees and begged for mercy and did every thing in the spirit of acting of the years from 1900 to 1909. At times the tremendous effective "over acting" reminded me of "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model" and even "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is this period acting on part of the cast that makes this Wilde play the biggest scream and the best "theater" the Civic has given us in years and years.

Hale MacKeen

Acting Is Effective
The acting and direction was so effective and so much old fashioned atmosphere was injected into this ancient piece that the audience caught the spirit and went to town, so to speak, with the cast.

Wilde knew how to poke fun, to exaggerate the importance of morale as well as immorality and he was an artist at creating biting, startling satire which concluded often as flaming melodrama.

Alan Wallace, guest director, kept the hoop-skirts on the mannerisms of the actors. That is what made this 1893 produced Wilde play such a delightful cameo.

Here is my verdict. Last night's performance was the best first night performance I have ever seen at the Civic. I did not discover a terribly weak character in the fourteen.

Triumphs Are Scored

Acting triumphs were obtained by Hale MacKeen, Horace F. Hill, Walter Hardy Bullock, Jack Chesterfield, Sara Lauter, Maude Margaret Blatter and Jayne Hoffman.

Watch the mad mother love devotion scenes of Miss Hoffman. They are delicious, splendidly shaded. And what suffering, heroic gestures. Great.

Watch the antique poses of Hill as Mr. Kevill, a member of parliament who was always writing about purity.

I know you will want to pass out with laughter when Chesterfield gets down on his knees to hear the melodramatic recital of how he would never know home to legitimately sign his name to a letter. And the containers are charming.

All these are grand furniture moving moments in this old play. Enough raving.

The cast is so important I give it to you as follows:
Lord Illingworth.....Hale MacKeen
Sir John Pontefract.....Tom Long
Lord Alfred Rufford.....Tom Long
Sir Kevill, M. P.....Jack Chesterfield
The Venerable Archdeacon Drabney, Gerald Arbuthnot.....Walter H. Bullock
Lady Lumsden.....Maude Margaret Blatter
Lady Caroline Pontefract.....Sara Lauter
Lady Sturges.....Jayne Hoffman
Mrs. Altonby.....Maude Margaret Blatter
Miss Hester Worsley.....Maude M. Blatter
Mrs. Arbuthnot.....Fanchon Fattig
Alice.....Fanchon Fattig

It's Great Attraction

If you want to have one of the most enjoyable and pleasant summer evenings you have ever had in a theater, then trot right over to the Playhouse at Nineteenth and Alabama and see this one. You will thank me, I am sure.

On view nightly and Saturday matinee at the Playhouse for the balance of the season.

Other theaters today offer: "Gold Diggers of 1933" at the Circle; "Bed of Roses" at the Apollo; "Made On Broadway" at the Palace; "Jennie Gerhardt" at the Lyric, and burlesque at the Colonial.

There aren't any Millionaires Running Beauty Shops but in spite of all the ballyhoo about "amazing" profits, we don't know any Beauty Shop owner that's running around in a Rolls-Royce. But we do know of dozens of our graduates that are doing handsomely for themselves—banking money each week. Some in business for themselves, others employed by others.

Unfortunately, nothing has yet been found that will take the place of good management—and thoroughly trained, competent operators—to satisfy old customers, and to bring in new ones.

And so—get your training now—enter a profession that will not make you a millionaire, but that will earn you a better-than-average income.
