Government Bares Teeth in Farm Relief: Permits to Be Issued.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, July 18. — Licenses which the agricultural adjustment administration will impose on milk distributors and processors actually will be government permits to do business.
Determination of the A. A. A. to invoke its licensing system is the first display of the iron hand within the velvet glove of the new farm relief law. It is the decision of the Roosevelt administration that recalcitrant minorities handling food products in interstate commerce will not be permitted to upset agreements among majorities in their industries.
Licensing of milk producers would work this way: If producers, distributors and processors of milk within a given area reach a marketing agreement in which prices to be paid producers and prices to be charged retail customers are fixed, and its terms are favored by the A. A. A., governmental approval will be given.

All to Be Licensed
Then, all those who signed the agreement, as well as those who did not, will be licensed. The provisions of the license will follow the terms of the marketing agreement, and, generally, licensees who decline to join the agreement will pay the same prices to producers as those who did sign.

The terms of the agricultural adjustment act regarding licenses are broad and definite:

"In order," says the law, "to effectuate the declared policy (of this act), the secretary of agriculture shall have power to issue licenses permitting processors, associations of producers and others to engage in the handling, in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, of any agricultural commodity or product thereof, or any competing commodity or product thereof."

Fines May Be Levied
"Such licenses shall be subject to such terms and conditions . . . as may be necessary to eliminate unfair practices or charges that prevent or tend to prevent . . . the restoration of normal economic conditions in the marketing of such commodities or products . . . the secretary of agriculture may suspend or revoke any such license . . . for violation of the term and conditions thereof."

The law also provides for fines of not more than $1,000 a day for each day of the terms of a license are violated.

The secretary likewise is empowered to require his licensees to make detailed reports on their business, with special attention to the prices paid for products bought, and prices charged for products sold.

MCKINNEY GOES TO PARLEY AT CAPITAL

Leaves for Washington to See Interpretation of Law.

E. Kirk McKinney, newly appointed manager of the Indiana division of the federal home loan bank, left today for Washington to seek an interpretation of the new emergency law designed to relieve home owners of the burden of 8 per cent interest on mortgages and lengthening the repayment time to fifteen years.

McKinney will explain to national officials that banking examiners, particularly those dealing with building and loan companies, must give "broad co-operation" in the federal plan. Ninety per cent of Indiana home mortgages are held by such institutions.

McKinney also will learn if appointment of a chief appraiser for the state is necessary. Martin H. Walpole, chief Barrett law clerk and McKinney's assistant, may fill the post.

MACHINIST ENDS LIFE

Puts Bullet Through Temple; Ill Health Is Blamed.

Despondency over ill health is believed to have been the motive for the suicide early today of William Clark, 63, R. R. 8, Box 80.

Utility Beaten in First Skirmish of Rate Fight

Public Service Co.'s Motion to Dismiss Procedure Rejected Swiftly.

Opening round of the state administration's battle to reduce utility rates as won before the public service commission today.

Motions to dismiss the rate reduction procedure launched against the Public Service Company of Indiana promptly were rejected by the commissioners.

The case, involving the hundreds of cities and towns throughout the entire "south system," will proceed, it was announced by Chairman Perry McCart of the commission.

The rate case as inaugurated by the commission upon information filed by Sherman Minton, public counselor, designed to show that the company made $2,000,000 or more excess profits last year.

Minton Assails Motions
Edward H. Heble of the Chicago law firm of Cooke, Sullivan & Ricks, appeared for the company.

He contended that Minton exceeded his power as public counselor in filing a rate reduction petition and that he had no right to put the burden of proof on the company.

His motions to dismiss were based on these two points.

Minton assailed them both. "We want to get to the merits of this case and not waste our time arguing procedure," he declared. "This company comes in with the same old wheeze and dodge that rates can not be reduced this way or that."

"They are using the old trick of setting up a straw man and then knocking it down. I know that the public counselor has no right to institute a rate case by petition. But the commissioners can and they are the ones calling this hearing today."

Reach Decision Swiftly
"They are well within their rights to make the company show their books and prove whether or not present rates are unjust and unreasonable."

Commissioners reached a decision to overrule the company motions to dismiss without leaving the hearing room.

McCart said that the case had been based on other showings in addition to that made in the "bill of discovery," filed by Minton. He

Keep Cool

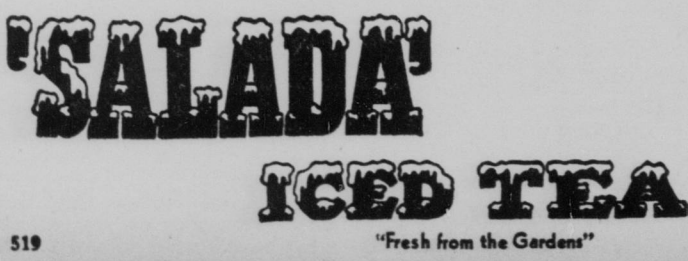

By Science Service

In your efforts to keep cool, don't catch cold. The summer cold is as uncomfortable as the winter grip and almost as dangerous, health authorities point out. Light clothing is fine for the dog days, but don't go on wearing it when they are over. Don't scorn a wrap on a cool evening and keep out of drafts when the underclothing is soaked with perspiration.

I learned about "Toasting" from my husband

I used to think that "Toasting" was just an advertising phrase. But one day my husband explained to me what "Toasting" is—and what it does. Where he learned it all, I don't know, but I began to understand the difference in cigarettes. Now I find myself enjoying Luckies' mildness and fine taste with a new respect. But even more—since I am a woman quite sensitive to personal daintiness—and since my cigarette and my lips are so intimately related, I especially appreciate the comforting purity of "Toasting". Naturally, with me it's always "Luckies Please!"
