

'NEW DEAL' IS 30 YEARS OLD, SURVEY SHOWS

Theodore Roosevelt Was First President to Suggest U. S. Regulation.

By Scripps-Hoover Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, July 18.—How new is the New Deal's industrial recovery program?
It is accused of being too new by half of its detractors, not new enough by the other half. The first group says it introduces a strange element into American life, the second says it is "just a reshuffle of old ideas." What are the facts?
The idea of federal regulation of business is, as a matter of fact, at least thirty years old in American political economy, though it never has been tried, even during war times, in the way first proposed or in the way outlined under the recovery act.
Theodore Roosevelt was the first president to suggest such regulation. In 1906 he proposed federal licensing of all corporations doing interstate business, as a means of eliminating monopolistic and other abuses, and during the remainder of his term he repeatedly asked congress to enact such a licensing law.

Wilson Adopts Idea
The Progressive party in 1912, with Theodore Roosevelt at its head, had a platform demanding "strong national regulation of interstate corporations" and "establishment of a strong federal administrative commission of high standing which shall maintain permanent, active supervision over industrial corporations engaged in interstate commerce, doing for them what the government now does for the railroads and what now is done for the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission."
Woodrow Wilson in 1919 came around to the idea of a federal licensing of corporations. He recommended it in two messages to congress, urging that the license be issued in a way designed to prevent competitive selling and prevent "unconscionable profits in the method of marketing."
He pointed out such control "would afford a welcome opportunity to effect other much needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and in the methods of corporations which are engaged in it."

Provisions Are Drastic
Neither of these recommendations ever were considered seriously in congress, probably because abuses they were designed to curb arose from too great prosperity on the part of business.
When Franklin D. Roosevelt proposed his recovery program, it was to cure the opposite malady—business prostration due to cut-throat competition, and it had the hearty support of most business leaders.
Both the proposals of Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson were more drastic than that of the present administration, which has based its plan primarily on voluntary action by trade associations, with the licensing power used only as a whip for recalcitrant minorities.
The two earlier plans were for permanent operation, also, instead of the two-year period covered by the new deal plan.

DESERT FOREST CORPS

Indiana Youths Stage Wholesale Walkout on California Unit.

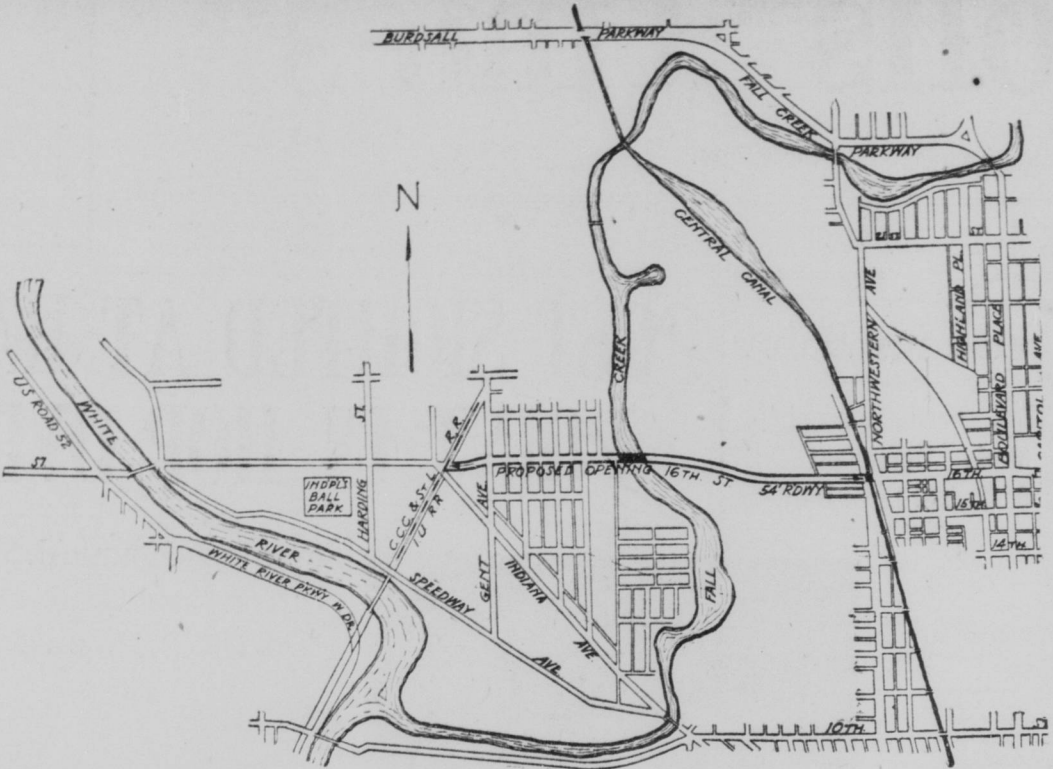

By United Press
SULLIVAN, Ind., July 18.—Sullivan county youths assigned to civilian conservation corps fire-fighting units in California forests, are arriving home via freight trains and highways.
Homesickness and dissatisfaction with rations served while the youths were fighting a forest fire were reported today to have caused a wholesale "walkout" of Indiana recruits stationed at Camp Comfort, near Banning, Cal.
Knox county recruits stationed at the camp also were reported to be on the move.

MCKINNEY AT CAPITAL

Manager of Indiana Home Loan Office Confers With Officials.

With 500 requests for loans already received, E. Kirk McKinney, manager of the Indiana organization under the federal home owners loan law, is in Washington conferring with national officials of the organization regarding details of applying the law.
McKinney has expressed a desire to complete the Indiana organization as quickly as possible.
State headquarters will be established here and there will be offices in each of the ninety-two counties of the state in addition to regional offices, which probably will be located at Evansville, Ft. Wayne and South Bend.

PLAN EXTENSION OF SIXTEENTH STREET TO INDIANA AVENUE

Plan for extension of West Sixteenth Street from the canal at Northwestern Avenue to the junction of the Big Four railroad tracks and Indiana Avenue is shown here. The entire program, it has been estimated, would provide 5,000 men with jobs for two years.

REACH TRUCE IN GAS TAX FIGHT

County to Get Share, Then Return Similar Amount on State Bill.

Agreement under which Marion county will receive its $25,583.33 gasoline tax share immediately in return for a promise to pay approximately the same sum on a $14,573.31 clothing bill owed the state was announced today.
Marion county commissioners, headed by Thomas Ellis, president, conferred at the statehouse Monday with Lawrence F. Sullivan, deputy state auditor, terminating a deadlock which threatened to deprive the county of its tax share.
The debt to the state was incurred in the purchase of clothing for county institution inmates. Earlier in the day the commissioners were planning to begin mandate proceedings against the state to obtain the tax.
Legal steps probably will be taken in a similar dispute between the state and St. Joseph county, it appeared today after a conference Monday found both sides refusing to yield.
The gas tax share for St. Joseph county was held up by Sullivan when it was discovered that the county was short in its property tax payments to the state.
Fact that county funds are restricted in a bank was disclosed at the conference. The delegation of officials which came to Indianapolis for the conference returned home Monday night after no agreement had been reached.

Nosy Pup

Dog Goes Exploring and Lands His Master in a Cell.

By United Press
ONTARIO, Cal., July 18.—Jack O'Shay, 17, hitch-hiking Minneapolis youth, landed in jail because his dog was curious.

Charged with taking a lumber company truck in Redlands, O'Shay told police he wanted to give his tired dog a ride.
Nearing Ontario, the truck stopped. Believing it was out of fuel, O'Shay walked to the lumber firm's Ontario office, where he posed as the regular driver and asked for gasoline.
Returning to the truck with police, who were called by the lumber company, it was found that lack of gas was not the trouble.
O'Shay's dog, rummaging under the seat, had shut off the fuel supply.

MARKET BOOM ADDS BILLIONS TO CROP VALUE

Potential Return on Four Leading Products Boosted by Price Climbs.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, July 18.—Booming commodity prices have increased the American farmers cash and potential return on four leading crops by more than $2,150,000,000. This huge gain, attributed partly to effects of the Roosevelt recovery program and partly to unfavorable crop reports, was calculated today on the basis of the increase in prices of cotton, corn, wheat and oats since March 1.
The figure takes into account the stocks of these commodities held by farmers on their farms, and the value of their maturing crops on the basis of preliminary estimates of yield.
A number of the chemical elements have been identified, but not yet isolated.
