Letter Dropped in Sea in Jar Is Received in City

Ferd Huber (inset) dropped a letter sealed in a glass jar into the Atlantic ocean. Four days later, the letter, shown above, was received here by relatives.

Missive Found on Florida Beach Is Delivered on Fourth Day.

Four days after a letter was sealed in a fruit jar and tossed into the high seas it was received in Indianapolis.

A mail carrier delivered to Mrs. John Linegar, 5370 East Washington street, Thursday, a letter that had been posted from the S. S. Puria, a fruit boat, en route to Puerto Barrios, Guatemala.

According to the letter, the boat, one of the Great White Fleet of the United Fruit Company, was miles off the Florida coast in the Atlantic ocean when the letter was thrown overboard, sealed in an ordinary fruit jar.

Is Washed on Beach

The jar washed up on Miami's beach and was taken to the post-office by the finder. The letter bore the post mark of the S. S. Puria for Sunday, July 23, and the Miami, Fla., stamp date of Tuesday, July 25.

The letter was from Ferd Huber, former Indianapolis resident, and a cousin of John Linegar. He formerly lived with the Linegar family. Huber forgot to mail the letter to Mrs. Linegar before he sailed.

Only Passengers on Boat

"This fruit boat left Philadelphia two days ago (July 21)," Huber said in his letter. "We are now in the Atlantic ocean some place off the coast of Florida. There is a possibility the tide will wash this fruit jar up on the beach where it may be found."

Huber with his wife and two children are the only passengers on the fruit boat. They are on a pleasure trip to Guatemala and San Salvador, where Huber formerly was engaged in the shipping business.

He will visit his brother, Hugo

JUVENILE JUDGE SHUNS ROLE OF 'BATH DICTATOR'

'It's Man's Own Business,' Rules Geckler in Family Tangle.

It's a man own business how often and where he takes baths, and this is one case where a wife can't dictate to him.

This, in effect, was the substance of a ruling today by Juvenile Judge John F. Geckler in the case of Marion Anderson, 1253 West New York street, arrested on child neglect charges on complaint of his wife, Mrs. Geraldine Anderson, who charged he set a bad example for their five children by the infrequency of his baths.

For Children's Sake

According to the wife's testimony, Anderson occupied the family wash tub not oftener than ever two weeks, and sometimes even less frequently.

She asked the court to require her husband to grace the tub at least once every week for the sake of the children's morale.

When Anderson testified, he told the court he didn't like to bathe in a wash tub, having no bath tub, and only did so at times to please his wife, with whom he had lived seventeen years without any previous trouble, he said.

Takes Dips in Creek

Then he bared a secret—in between baths in the wash tub, he takes dips in the creek, sometimes as often as two or three times a week, he explained, adding that he much preferred the greater exposure of the creek to the cramped wash tub.

"Well, I can't find anything in the law that says how often a man should take baths—defendant dismissed," Geckler concluded.

ILLINOIS MILK GROUP BATTLES RECOVERY CODE

'Unconstitutional Abuse of Authority,' Is Claim of Leaders.

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 31.—Terming the milk code of the national recovery act an "unconstitutional abuse of governmental authority," the Independent Milk Distributors' Association of Northern Illinois planned to seek an injunction in federal court today against its enforcement.

Norman Dietz, president of the association, issued the challenge to the N. I. A. saying he "invited prosecution." It was believed to be the first direct opposition to the recovery program.

Washington authorities, fearing an effort to question the constitutionality of the recovery program, have tried to keep their orders courtproof.

Dietz said he had signatures of 750,000 persons protesting against the code, which sets 10 cents a quart as the minimum milk price.

He said his association controls 102 distribution centers and serves a half million persons. The distributors retail milk at 6½ cents a quart. Dietz said his association would continue distribution at that price.

In his petition, Dietz said, he will contend that agricultural secretary Henry Wallace, signer of the milk code, is attempting to extract property from citizens without due process of law.

WE DO OUR PART

STANDARD STORES ARE 100% WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HIS PROSPERITY PROGRAM WILL BE PUT INTO EFFECT IN ALL OUR STORES TODAY!

In co-operation with our customers and most of our competitors, we are proud and happy to do our part under the inspiring leadership of the greatest President of our times.

Often have we wished that some authority would arise with the power and vision impartially to enforce a code of shorter hours on the overworked Food Industry. But unrestrained competition has made such a reform impossible, up till now.

And so we welcome this New Deal with real enthusiasm. We believe that President Roosevelt, with one swift blow, has cut the Gordian Knot of stagnation and despair that has bound us. We feel certain that this proposal to give useful and gainful employment to more people will prove to be the short-cut out of the Wilderness. We are convinced that the average citizen (and after all, there are more of us average folks than of any other kind, aren't there?), will get a better deal from the New Deal than he has had in a long, long time.

Adherence to the spirit, as well as the letter, of our pledge to the President requires that we somewhat reduce the number of hours when our stores will be open. We look for the friendly co-operation of the public to make these new hours fill every reasonable need.

Nothing, except the failure of the American people to co-operate sincerely, can stop the forward march which is now under way. We bespeak for the President... and in the interest of every single citizen of this country... the loyal and patriotic support to which his forward-looking program entitles him.
