

NAVAL LIMIT PACT OF 1922 IS IN BALANCE

Measure Conserving Peace of World May Be Junked in 1936.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMS
Senior Staff Editor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The vital Washington treaty of 1922, limiting the principal navies of the world, deforifying the islands of the western Pacific and generally conserving the peace of that ocean, is now in the balance.

Japan definitely has decided to build up to the very limit allowed by that treaty, launching the biggest warship program in her history, while the United States Thursday awarded the contracts for thirty-two new vessels, costing $238,000,000, in the second biggest project of the kind in this country.

Both programs are to be completed by the end of 1936, at which time the 1922 treaty automatically will expire if any of the five signatories—Great Britain, the United States, Japan, France or Italy—is dissatisfied.

And Japan already has indicated that she is far from satisfied with the 5-5-3 ratio which that treaty fixed for Britain, America and herself. She wants parity.

Barbara Stanwyck Has a Bold Role in 'Baby Face'

George Brent, Who Has Become Popular as a Featured Movie Player, Has Chief Male Supporting Role.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

TODAY we have with us on the local talking screen another of the modern bad girls.

Am speaking of the character which Barbara Stanwyck plays in "Baby Face," which opened today at the Circle.

This character is one of those hard-boiled babies we find on the screen these days who uses men, many of them poor saps, to gain fortune and social position such as it is.

Ace Berry, manager of the Circle, has given me this data on "Baby Face":

"Baby Face" is the story of a girl born and reared in the squalor of the slums of a steel town. Stepdaughter of a beer-flat proprietor, her stepfather's only interest in the girl is to use her beauty to attract the mill workers to his dive.

A gruff old shoemaker, who reads and preaches the doctrines of Nietzsche while he mends shoes, inspires Lily to use men, instead of permitting men to use her.

From that moment with her beauty and charm as her sole stock in trade, men are merely stepping-stones on the road to wealth, luxury and security from the poverty Lily leaves behind after the accidental death of her stepfather.

Ruthlessly, she takes from each in turn everything he has to give her and goes on to the next, taking care that each succeeding admirer shall be wealthier and more powerful than the last.

George Brent, whose rise to popularity has been sensational since he joined the ranks of Warner Brothers featured players, has the leading role opposite Miss Stanwyck.

A carefully chosen cast of expert players such as Henry Kolker, Alphonse Ehlert, Douglas Dumbrille, James Murray, Arthur Hohl, Donald Cook and Theresa Harris are seen in support of the star.

Also, on the bill is the third in a series of Bobby Jones golf reels entitled "Position and Backswing," and Russ Columbo, famous band leader, in a fine featurette, "That Goes Double."

Latest world events are shown in the Circle News.
