

MOVE TO TAKE INDUSTRY INTO RURAL REGIONS

Decentralization Seen for Factories, Workers to Have Garden Grounds.

By Raymond Clapper
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Although obscured by spectacular recovery activities, the administration is planning a development which may affect the average man long after the blue eagle of NRA has flown away—this is the movement to decentralize industry and create men's garden communities.

The national recovery act set aside $25,000,000 for loans for this purpose. Interior Secretary Harold Ickes has held preliminary conferences, and now is considering what sort of an administrative organization he shall set up.

The plan has several objectives. One is to get farmers off bad land and on to good soil that is capable of yielding a living.

Another is to get workingmen out of the cities into suburban areas. A third is to spread out industries, get them away from congested metropolitan areas, and out in the open air where employers may live on their own plot of ground.

Some industries, such as coal mining, can not support all of their skilled workers, even operating at peak capacity, and this plan would help them locate on farms.

It would enable villages now going to seed to establish small part-time industries so that young men instead of drifting to the cities to get work could divide their time between the village factories in winter and the fields in summer.

It sounds very idyllic, but some good hard heads think there is opportunity to give a real chance to millions of families to live a more rounded and secure life.

Army Mule to Sing Swan Song at Encampment

The much-herated army mule will sing his swan song next week when nearly 8,000 officers and enlisted men of the Thirty-eighth division, composed of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia national guardsmen, open their annual encampment at Ft. Knox, Ky.

The encampment will mark the passing of horse and mule-drawn artillery in the division, as shortly afterward the entire division will be motorized, in line with the new army program.

Advance details left Indianapolis for the camp, while the mass movement of troops began today and was to continue Saturday and Sunday by railroad.

CITIZENS of Indiana today was extended a cordial invitation by Major-General Robert Tyndall, commanding the encampment, to attend the final divisional review at 3 P. M., Aug. 18, when the entire division will maneuver as a whole.

Thousands of Kentuckians turn out for this spectacular entertainment, Tyndall said, but in the past, Indiana has not been as well represented as the general would like, he said.

Both Governor Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky, and Governor Paul V. McNutt have been invited to attend the review.

FOLLOWING the formal review, a reception will be held when distinguished guests will meet the 576 officers of the division. The Thirty-eighth division holds the distinction of being the only division in the country to train as a unit, with infantry, artillery, aviation and other units, all maneuvering together as a wartime field army.

For a number of years it has been against army policy to hold maneuvers of such large groups, and it only has been through the efforts of General Tyndall that the Thirty-eighth division has been permitted to train as a unit for the last ten years.

A DJUTANT-GENERAL ELMER F. STRAUB will give up his general rank temporarily, during the encampment, and assume his regular rank of captain. His assistant, Colonel Robinson Hitchcock, will assume his old rank of lieutenant.
