

Parenthood Today Bears Heavy Load

What to Teach Child Baffling Question Rapidly Changing World.

BY GRETTA PALMER

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—It is doubtful that any recent generation really knew the meaning of the word "breath-taking" before ours or that parents ever faced as hard a problem as they do today. Things which would have made a decade notable in the days of the placid Victorian crop up, nowadays, three or four times every week, and explaining their meaning to the youngsters is no easy task.

Gretta Palmer

A murder with all of the mystery and S. S. Van Dine qualities of the Snyder-Gray case in its first stages occurs in Manhattan and is buried inside the newspapers. Too many other things of greater moment are going on for any one to get excited over the fate of a single individual.

An economic revolution which would have been discussed in solemn conferences for fifty years by our fathers takes place during a single afternoon of 1933. It is a bewildering and topsyturvy world, in which many of the old values have ceased to have any meaning. It is a world in which the rise of the rise in which the rise is perceived with considerable annoyance by Americans whose former boast was the stability of their currency. It is a world in which the farmers are being told that it is reprehensible and unpatriotic to be too hard working—a world in which thrift is labeled a most unattractive vice.

Maxims Flouted

The old copy book adages have ceased to hold. A large section of the public has been, for some years, engaged in breaking the federal prohibition law with not the slightest twinge of remorse.

Sizeable groups of quite well-thought-of persons feel that to get a divorce in the sleuthing manner indulged by the law is most ungentlemanly but that a little well-bred collusion behind the judge's back is quite legitimate. And, oddly enough, the judge very often thinks so, too.

Today's millionaire, we have come to believe, may be standing in tomorrow's breadline. The pillar of society of last week may be indicted for nefarious stock transactions next.

There is precious little security left for any one. There are very few facts, in the shifting scene about us, which we can trust to survive. And because of that the job of parenthood has never, perhaps, been a more difficult or baffling one than it is today.

Arming Children

You feel that you must give your son or daughter some kind of armor to carry out into the world. But the trouble is that you have not the remotest idea of what sort of world that is going to be.

You know the philosophy which was handed to you as a certain amulet in time of stress, but you have come to distrust many portions of it yourself. And it would obviously be the rankest sort of parental hypocrisy to try to convince your child of something you yourself have ceased to believe.

It is a challenge—about that there can be no shadow of a doubt. It is a challenge to bring up children who will not have to lean on the old certainties—the immutable facts which we have discovered to be so shifting and changeable, after all.

It requires that we give the younger generation a suppleness and an adaptability which will carry them through social changes more remarkable than any that we have known with a gallantry which former generations reversed for personal disasters and defeats.

As Norman Thomas once expressed it, "In a lifeboat there is no room for passengers." We must, above all, teach our children how to pull their own weight.

Sororities

Beta chapter of Theta Mu Rho sorority will hold a business meeting at 8 tonight at the Antlers.

Beta chapter of Omega Kappa sorority will meet at 8 tonight at the home of Miss Myrtle Turner.

Alpha Tau chapter of Alpha Zeta Beta sorority will hold a special meeting at 7:45 tonight at the Antlers. Plans for a week-end party will be completed.

Phi Rho Tau will meet at 8 tonight at the Yantis Toastee Shop. Twenty-third and Meridian streets.

Alpha chapter of Omega Nu Tau will meet at 7:45 tonight at the Lincoln.

Oct. 8 Wedding Date

Miss Billie Puertofey has set Oct. 8 as the date for her marriage to Albert L. Rust, son of Mrs. Anna M. Rust. The bride-elect is the daughter of W. H. Kiser of Phoenix, Ariz.

Daily Recipe

LIVER LOAF

1 pound liver
1-4 pound fresh pork
2 eggs
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1-2 cup milk or stock
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1 small onion, minced

Summer liver until it is tender; drain and cool it. Grind it with the fresh pork and mix the ground meat with the eggs, unbeat. Soak the bread crumbs in the milk or stock, add the remaining ingredients and combine them all with the meat and egg mixture. Place the mixture in a well-greased pan and bake for one hour in a moderate oven.

A Pocket for Your Hat

It's simply amazing how many things combine usefulness with beauty. Dorothy Tree wears a white, pique beach hat which does just that. There is a tiny pocket in the crown for matches and two strips of material on the brim are designed to hold cigarettes. The pocket and the strips look like novelty trimmings when Dorothy isn't carrying matches and cigarettes in them.

NEWS OF SOCIETY FOLK

Miss Florence S. York, 3611 North Meridian street, left Sunday for New York. She will sail Tuesday for a month's stay in Europe. She will be joined in Paris by Mrs. Severin C. Buschmann and children, who are spending the summer in France. Mr. Buschmann will return this week from France, where he has been spending a month with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle C. Rowland and daughter Mary Ann of the Marott are spending several weeks in Chicago.

W. A. Balch and Miss Gertrude E. Beach are cruising on the Great Lakes aboard the S. S. Tionesta.

Miss Virginia Stout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Stout, 1703 Park avenue, is the guest of Miss Virginia Streeter of Muncie.

Mrs. H. C. Curtis, Miss Louise Curtis and Harold Curtis Jr., 3252 Rucklee street, have returned from Chicago where they attended A Century of Progress exposition.

Dr. and Mrs. James A. Moag are visiting in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George V. Craighead, 4255 Guilford avenue, are motoring south this week, where they will be the guests of Miss Anna Torian of Indianapolis, at her summer home at Sevanee, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Craighead will go on to Atlanta, Ga., the latter part of the week, returning in about ten days.

Miss Helen Gearen, 4160 Guilford avenue, is spending a week with relatives in Springfield, Ill.

Col. F. H. Payne of Greenfield, Mass., former assistant secretary of war, has returned to his home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Browning, 3934 Rookwood avenue.

Miss Anita Banta of Franklin is the guest of Mrs. William R. White, 2039 Dexter avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Smith and children, Mary Jane and Jack, 514 North Campbell avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Weiss, 4433 Broadway, have returned home from a visit at Dunes state park.

Mrs. Josephine Test, 28 East Sixteenth street, is visiting in Chicago.

Thirty-eight at Party
Mrs. Vern W. Dorsey entertained with a surprise birthday party at her home, 344 North Bradley, Monday in honor of her daughter, Marilyn Jane. Thirty-eight guests attended. Prizes were awarded and the colors, pink and blue, carried out in the refreshments and decorations.

Let's Talk About Profits $500.00 Per Month From a Small Investment

Under the N. R. A. Code for Beauty Culture, which is now being drafted in Washington, a trained operator will be able to earn a more substantial income in the future.

Your RAINBOW training is guaranteed to meet all N. R. A. requirements.

The girls who wish to make money are taking courses in Beauty Culture at Rainbow. The result—PROFITS—SATISFIED CUSTOMERS—A SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

Come in and let us tell you why your investment will be safe at Rainbow. The only school in Indianapolis that is a member of The National Organization of All American Beauty Culture Schools Associated.

Rainbow Academy of Beauty Culture

38 N. Pennsylvania St. LI. 8210

War Mother Convention Aids Chosen

County Body Chooses Group for National Session Here.

Forty members of the Marion county chapter of the American War Mothers attended a luncheon and business session Tuesday at the Columbia Club.

Delegates and alternates to the national convention, to be held in the city the last week in September, were chosen.

Mrs. Ralph E. Kennington as president, will attend the sessions. Mrs. Mary E. Gifford will be alternate for Mrs. Kennington. Others named were Mrs. A. E. Berry, first delegate, and Mrs. Clara May Pohlman, alternate. Mrs. George S. Healey, second delegate, and Mrs. J. P. Cochrane, alternate.

Mrs. Harry L. Root, state corresponding secretary of the organization, attended the business meeting Tuesday as guest of the Marion county chapter. Mrs. M. E. Costin was reservation chairman for the affair.

PARTY GIVEN FOR CALIFORNIA GUEST

Miss Reba Haskett of Los Angeles, Cal., attended a party this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Daniel T. Weir, 2142 Carrollton avenue. Mrs. Weir entertained members of a former Sunday school class in honor of Miss Haskett who is visiting Mrs. May Haskett, 2406 Carrollton avenue, during August.

Guests included Miss Haskett, Mrs. Haskett, Mesdames Charles Alvey, Loma Thayer, Jack Silverman, Robert, Shellhorn, Everett, Crab, W. W. Woolen, Vivian Rankin, Roy Chisler, Paul Kistler, W. C. Weir, Herbert H. Kemp and W. L. Holdaway, sister of the hostess, and Misses Dorothy Scherrer, Dorothy Rouse and Jeanette Gardner.

PARTY AT CLUB ATTRACTS FIFTY

Approximately fifty members of the Propylaeum club attended the monthly luncheon and bridge party today at the club. Bridge was played from 10 to 12:30 with luncheon served at 1.

Mrs. Fred E. Matson, chairman of the club social committee, was in charge of the arrangements, assisted by her committee: Mesdames W. C. Marmon, Arthur E. Krick, Clyde Wands, William J. Shafer, Oscar A. Jose Jr. and Edward Lynn.

TEA GIVEN MEMBERS OF WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. R. O. McAlexander, president of the Woman's Department Club, entertained with a tea at her home, 2101 North Delaware street, this afternoon. Guests included members of the board of directors of the club and chairmen of club committees.

Mrs. Kathryn Turney Garten presented a program of book reviews. The hostess was assisted by Mr. Clayton Hunt Ridge and Mrs. Philip A. Keller, vice-presidents of the club. Mrs. James G. Ermon, chairman of the finance committee, and her daughters, Mrs. P. J. Van Dyke and Mrs. Russell Hughes Smith.

Newlyweds at Home

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Stuffle are at home at 3916 East Michigan street, following their marriage Sunday at the Little Flower church. The bride was Miss Margaret Sheller before her marriage.

Manners and Morals

BY JANE JORDAN

Bring your problems to Jane Jordan, who will help you solve them by her answers in this column. Letters of comment also are invited.

Dear Jane Jordan—When I married, I didn't love my wife. I was 21 and should have known better. I don't know what possessed me. I married against my will. She proposed and I told her I wasn't making enough to keep a home. She said she would help and everything would turn out all right.

I decided never to see her again. She gave me a note and said if I didn't show up in the river, I laughed and showed it to my boss, telling him in a joking manner that I would tell her to go ahead and do it. He advised me not to do so.

On another date, I gave in and got her a ring. I still had a growing fear of being married. I had grown up never wanting to get married. I slid into a trap that I fought, but there was no getting away.

She suggested that we live together as man and wife until we were fully prepared to go through the ceremony. The very next day after we moved together, I realized that I didn't love her and never would. I told her so and started packing my suitcase.

Then I saw what she really was—a devil. Her temper shook me from head to foot. She threw and scattered my belongings and told me I was as much to blame as she. We quarreled and argued for ten days, when I finally consented to let her make arrangements with a priest.

We have a boy who was born eleven months after we were married. We both love him and don't like the idea of breaking up his home. We still quarrel and have heated arguments that lead to foul names and blows.

My wife now admits that she does not love me. I grit my teeth and boil with anger when I think of my marriage. I can't describe it, but it goes to a certain point and then falls into despair. What would you suggest? L. F. C.

Answer—"The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings." You can't get anywhere with your problem until you have assumed a more aggressive attitude toward life. By aggression I do not mean futile quarreling, but an iron determination to master a situation instead of letting it master you.

For one thing, you never have learned the art of refusal. It's much harder to say no than say yes. If you had cultivated the strength to say no and stick to it, you never would have got into this situation.

You won't do any better in a new situation until you have learned to abide by your own convictions.

Your wife has been the aggressor from the beginning. She has assumed the masculine role, which should have been yours. You have accepted the passive, or feminine, role in permitting yourself to be pursued and captured.

Nevertheless, your outraged masculinity is strong enough to generate a violent conflict about which you do nothing definite. You won't respect yourself until you give your masculine traits a chance. In succinct slang, you've got to wear the pants of the family.

If you succeed in wresting the dominant role from your wife, you might not despise her so much. I do not know what change authority on your part would cause in her behavior. I do know that until you learn to assert your own strength, you won't be able to obtain your own rights, even if it comes to divorce.

Answer—The surest way to disarm your enemy is to treat her with generosity. Possibly in this instance Ghandi's doctrine of non-resistance would work best. It is a great compliment to a young man to have two girls fighting over him. No doubt he thoroughly enjoys the situation and will prolong it as long as he can.

Dear Jane Jordan—I am a young girl in my teens, very much in love with a fellow who says he loves me. This evening my sister was passing his house. He was sitting on the porch and she stopped to talk to him. She is jealous of me, and she told him I stepped out on him, and he believed her and turned me down.

I have gone with him for nine months and worship the ground he walks on. I have done everything I could to make him love me. Please tell me what to do. TRUE LOVE.

Answer—A more spirited girl would turn the boy down for listening to tale bearers, and a more spirited girl would not have to work so hard for his love.

Answer—The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings. You can't get anywhere with your problem until you have assumed a more aggressive attitude toward life. By aggression I do not mean futile quarreling, but an iron determination to master a situation instead of letting it master you.

For one thing, you never have learned the art of refusal. It's much harder to say no than say yes. If you had cultivated the strength to say no and stick to it, you never would have got into this situation.

You won't do any better in a new situation until you have learned to abide by your own convictions.

Your wife has been the aggressor from the beginning. She has assumed the masculine role, which should have been yours. You have accepted the passive, or feminine, role in permitting yourself to be pursued and captured.

Nevertheless, your outraged masculinity is strong enough to generate a violent conflict about which you do nothing definite. You won't respect yourself until you give your masculine traits a chance. In succinct slang, you've got to wear the pants of the family.

If you succeed in wresting the dominant role from your wife, you might not despise her so much. I do not know what change authority on your part would cause in her behavior. I do know that until you learn to assert your own strength, you won't be able to obtain your own rights, even if it comes to divorce.

Answer—The surest way to disarm your enemy is to treat her with generosity. Possibly in this instance Ghandi's doctrine of non-resistance would work best. It is a great compliment to a young man to have two girls fighting over him. No doubt he thoroughly enjoys the situation and will prolong it as long as he can.

Dear Jane Jordan—I am a young girl in my teens, very much in love with a fellow who says he loves me. This evening my sister was passing his house. He was sitting on the porch and she stopped to talk to him. She is jealous of me, and she told him I stepped out on him, and he believed her and turned me down.

I have gone with him for nine months and worship the ground he walks on. I have done everything I could to make him love me. Please tell me what to do. TRUE LOVE.

Answer—A more spirited girl would turn the boy down for listening to tale bearers, and a more spirited girl would not have to work so hard for his love.

Answer—The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves, that we are underlings. You can't get anywhere with your problem until you have assumed a more aggressive attitude toward life. By aggression I do not mean futile quarreling, but an iron determination to master a situation instead of letting it master you.

For one thing, you never have learned the art of refusal. It's much harder to say no than say yes. If you had cultivated the strength to say no and stick to it, you never would have got into this situation.

You won't do any better in a new situation until you have learned to abide by your own convictions.

Your wife has been the aggressor from the beginning. She has assumed the masculine role, which should have been yours. You have accepted the passive, or feminine, role in permitting yourself to be pursued and captured.

New Gun of Light Weight Designed for Hunting of Ducks and Similar Game

Em-Roe Store Shows Winchester Product Which Has Been on Market Only Since June 1.

BY HELEN LINDSAY

HUNTERS in Indiana who waited anxiously for Aug. 1, the beginning of the open season on squirrels, are trying out the newest invention of Winchester gunsmiths, intended for the shooting of small game, ducks and quail.

This is a new pump gun, which shoots a new three-inch 410 gauge shell. The new gun and shells are much lighter in weight than those of earlier make. They have been on the market only since June 1, and are being shown at Em-Roe's.

The manufacturers of Winchester guns were pioneers in gun manufacture, dating the business from about 1860. Each gun made by them bears the "Winchester proof mark," placed on the gun only after it has been assembled and given various tests. A charge far in excess of that for which the gun is intended is fired. The gun is then inspected and gauged for flaws or strain. A test for manipulation is made by operating the gun with "dummy" cartridges, and firing it slowly and quickly.

These new light weight Winchesters will be used, according to the experts at Em-Roe's, in the coming season for duck hunting, which opens Oct. 16.

Other Items for Hunters

INTERESTING merchandise offered at Em-Roe's for the duck season includes wooden and rubber decoys, made so cleverly that they lure the wild mallards from the air to the hunter's range. The decoys are made in pairs; the drake is painted with green head, tail and wing tips, while the hen is much duller in appearance.

"Duck calls" are made of hard rubber composition, much in the shape of the duck's bill. After a little practice the hunter is able to imitate the call of the mallard duck so perfectly as to call the ducks to the decoys.

Similar calls are also manufactured for hunters of crows. Many duck hunters around Indianapolis raise their own decoys; tame mallard ducks, which they place in the water fastened by a foot to iron anchors. The anchors are dropped into the water. The tame ducks soon learn the game, and call to the wild ducks as they fly over water. The duck anchors are on sale also at Em-Roe's.

Gauntlet Style Rules Gloves

NEW glove fashions for late summer wear are practically all in gauntlet style. In addition to the black, brown and white satin gloves shown, H. P. Wasson & Co. offers black moire gauntlets, and white ones of the same material, with black stitching and black moire trimming on the gauntlet cuff.

Gloves which are much like the stove pipe ribbon material used for hat trimmings, has been used also in the shiny black gloves popular for the late summer season.

In the more conservative gloves, suedes and kids are being shown.

Attire for Campus Ready

WOOLENS and heavy crepes will be worn by many of the college girls this fall. Kink's is showing attractive junior models in the best fall colors. Leading in these are eel grey and brown.

One eel grey dress of rabbit cloth is a youthful tailored model, made with a deep pointed yoke, soft rolled tailored collar, and long sleeves, trimmed with tiny cloth covered buttons at the wrists.

A red silk tie is used with this dress, and a red leather belt goes under the point of the yoke at the front of the waist, and fastens in back with a buckle.

The tray shoulder is seen on a brown crepe dress, which has a white satin scarf tie. Brown and orange crepe plaid has been used for another junior dress, especially suitable for campus wear. It is made with deep pleated epaulets at the shoulders, and has a small tailored tie and collar of white pique.

Names or Monograms Embroidered

AS a special feature this week, H. P. Wasson & Co. is offering underwear embroidered with the customer's name or monogram. The work is done by Mrs. Anna Adams, representative of H. T. Mendelsohn of New York. Mrs. Adams uses a specially constructed sewing machine, embroidering the design on the underwear without a pattern. It is stitched on the garment in pure silk thread in fast colors.

New Gun of Light Weight Designed for Hunting of Ducks and Similar Game

Em-Roe Store Shows Winchester Product Which Has Been on Market Only Since June 1.

BY HELEN LINDSAY

HUNTERS in Indiana who waited anxiously for Aug. 1, the beginning of the open season on squirrels, are trying out the newest invention of Winchester gunsmiths, intended for the shooting of small game, ducks and quail.

This is a new pump gun, which shoots a new three-inch 410 gauge shell. The new gun and shells are much lighter in weight than those of earlier make. They have been on the market only since June 1, and are being shown at Em-Roe's.

The manufacturers of Winchester guns were pioneers in gun manufacture, dating the business from about 1860. Each gun made by them bears the "Winchester proof mark," placed on the gun only after it has been assembled and given various tests. A charge far in excess of that for which the gun is intended is fired. The gun is then inspected and gauged for flaws or strain. A test for manipulation is made by operating the gun with "dummy" cartridges, and firing it slowly and quickly.

These new light weight Winchesters will be used, according to the experts at Em-Roe's, in the coming season for duck hunting, which opens Oct. 16.

Other Items for Hunters

INTERESTING merchandise offered at Em-Roe's for the duck season includes wooden and rubber decoys, made so cleverly that they lure the wild mallards from the air to the hunter's range. The decoys are made in pairs; the drake is painted with green head, tail and wing tips, while the hen is much duller in appearance.

"Duck calls" are made of hard rubber composition, much in the shape of the duck's bill. After a little practice the hunter is able to imitate the call of the mallard duck so perfectly as to call the ducks to the decoys.

Similar calls are also manufactured for hunters of crows. Many duck hunters around Indianapolis raise their own decoys; tame mallard ducks, which they place in the water fastened by a foot to iron anchors. The anchors are dropped into the water. The tame ducks soon learn the game, and call to the wild ducks as they fly over water. The duck anchors are on sale also at Em-Roe's.

Gauntlet Style Rules Gloves

NEW glove fashions for late summer wear are practically all in gauntlet style. In addition to the black, brown and white satin gloves shown, H. P. Wasson & Co. offers black moire gauntlets, and white ones of the same material, with black stitching and black moire trimming on the gauntlet cuff.

Gloves which are much like the stove pipe ribbon material used for hat trimmings, has been used also in the shiny black gloves popular for the late summer season.

In the more conservative gloves, suedes and kids are being shown.

Attire for Campus Ready

WOOLENS and heavy crepes will be worn by many of the college girls this fall. Kink's is showing attractive junior models in the best fall colors. Leading in these are eel grey and brown.

One eel grey dress of rabbit cloth is a youthful tailored model, made with a deep pointed yoke, soft rolled tailored collar, and long sleeves, trimmed with tiny cloth covered buttons at the wrists.

A red silk tie is used with this dress, and a red leather belt goes under the point of the yoke at the front of the waist, and fastens in back with a buckle.

The tray shoulder is seen on a brown crepe dress, which has a white satin scarf tie. Brown and orange crepe plaid has been used for another junior dress, especially suitable for campus wear. It is made with deep pleated epaulets at the shoulders, and has a small tailored tie and collar of white pique.

Names or Monograms Embroidered

AS a special feature this week, H. P. Wasson & Co. is offering underwear embroidered with the customer's name or monogram. The work is done by Mrs. Anna Adams, representative of H. T. Mendelsohn of New York. Mrs. Adams uses a specially constructed sewing machine, embroidering the design on the underwear without a pattern. It is stitched on the garment in pure silk thread in fast colors.

Buy Your Rugs Now! Block's Greatest
ADVANCE FALL SALE OF RUGS
$1.00 DOWN!
Rug prices are already higher and they're going even higher. Only because we bought when prices were lowest can we offer such sensational rug values now! We positively can not duplicate such values this fall. Buy now before our stocks are depleted.

9x12 Axminster RUGS
Seamless, deep, thick, all-wool nap rugs that will give years of service! Colorful all-over patterns to harmonize with any type of furnishings. Every rug is perfect. Tailored ends. Quantity is limited—hurry!
9x12 All-Hair Bound Edge Rug Cushions, $3.98

9x12 LUSTRE TYPE RUGS
Also 8.3x10.6 size. Made by famous Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Co. Beautiful high-lighted designs suitable for any room. Every rug perfect. $1 Down Delivers! $21.95

9x12 JACQUARD WILTON RUGS
All-wool nap! Seamless! Handsome Oriental designs on soft red, rust and taupe backgrounds. Every rug perfect. $1 Down Delivers! $35.95

$55 & $60 AMERICAN ORIENTALS
9x12 Rugs in patterns that rival real Orientals. Deep, lustrous, high-lighted, all-wool nap that will give years of wear. Red and rust backgrounds. $1 Down Delivers! $39.95

9x12 WASHED WILTON RUGS
Think of being able to buy these handsome rugs for only $59.95! They weigh 50 pounds. Velvety nap that gives that luxurious "feel" under foot. Made lustrous by washing the same as real Orientals. $59.95

BLOCK'S
BLOCK'S—FOURTH FLOOR