

AIRMEN WILL HELP IN STATE NRA CAMPAIGN

Blue Eagle Will Be Taken by Plane to 27 Cities in Indiana.

Wells announced today. The Governor told Wells that he and Senator Frederick VanNuys will contact President Roosevelt and General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, today.

Johnson to Be Invited

McNutt and VanNuys either will talk on the long distance telephone to Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Johnson or send a long telegram urging them to co-operate in the Indianapolis celebration. The President will be asked to broadcast a message and Johnson will be invited to visit the city personally.

A feature of Recovery day parade will be a contingent of women on horseback representing the Indiana branch of the National Woman's Party. It was announced at recovery headquarters today.

Mrs. Hereford Dugan, legislative chairman of the organization, said that one of the horsewomen will be dressed in shining armor, to represent St. Joan of Arc.

Recruits Are Enlisted

The Federation of Jewish Women will hold two meetings Wednesday and Thursday to enlist recruits for the parade and the work of surveying the city for re-employment and investigation of violations of the NRA.

Mrs. Emma Komins and Mrs. John L. Goodwin will have charge of the meetings.

More than 150 floats will take part in the parade.

John B. Hudson of Lafayette, recovery chairman for Tippecanoe county, announced that a "large delegation—three blocks long"—would represent his county in the parade.

Letters were received today from Danville, Columbus, Michigan City and Lafayette, announcing co-operation with floats and delegates for the big event.

Meeting Is Called

McNutt called a meeting of members of the state recovery board for 10 o'clock Thursday morning at his office.

He sent telegrams to Daniel Wertz, Evansville; Adolph Fritz, Indianapolis; Rudolph Leeds, Richmond; Joseph M. Cravens, Madison; M. M. Dunbar, Indianapolis; G. M. Leslie, Ft. Wayne; Frederick Kroger, Anderson, and Charles Templeton, Terre Haute.

From Washington Monday came instructions to report immediately detailed information concerning infractions and violations of the NRA code here.

At the same time Charles W. Chase, president of the Indianapolis Railways, Inc., and "general" of the local recovery forces, said that the Indianapolis recovery committee on code compliance would call upon persons who have signed agreements and have failed to live up to the terms of the covenant.

HERE'S RESULT AFTER CELLULOID GASES CAUSE BLAST

This is all that remains of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, Devon and Michigan streets, eight miles east of the downtown district, after an explosion early today.

Parts of the house were hurled several yards. The Phillips were en route home from a visit in the neighborhood when they saw their home go up in smoke and flames.

The explosion jarred the neighborhood. One hundred eighty pounds of celluloid in a cedar chest was believed the cause of the blast.

News Item Not So Elusive, Touring Reporter Learns

Yarns Aplenty Appear After He Takes Oath to Shun Typewriter.

BY H. ALLEN SMITH

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A New York reporter, under oath to stay away from all typewriters for a period of two weeks, returned from his vacation today with various things to report about the state of the nation.

News items, it may be said, prevail throughout the United States, and it frequently was trying to the touring reporter, especially when he found telegraph offices on all sides.

There was the case of the man who swallowed the bedspring, the arrival of fifty turtles in an Indiana town, the story of the man with five sets of twins, and the drinking habits of the Hoosiers. There won't be room to set it all down.

A state trooper in Havre De Grace, Md., told about the bedspring incident, and his recital needs no dressing up.

Across the Susquehanna river from Havre De Grace is a government hospital for mental cases.

Has "Swallowing" Epidemic

"They had got," said the trooper, "an epidemic of swallowing. It all started when one of the patients got in the habit of eating everything he could lay his hands on."

He swallowed nails and tin foil and bolts, and everything but razor blades.

"Then the other day a patient came to the doctor, and said he had just swallowed a teaspoon. The doctor said that was impossible, but took an X-ray and sure enough, there was the teaspoon. They had got it."

"Well, the very next day another patient swallowed a whole bedspring. They had one hell of a time getting it out of him."

In Huntington, Ind., where enthusiasm for NRA is rampant, the publisher of the Herald-Press was in a sweat because some man in Oklahoma had shipped fifty turtles to the newspaper.

The Oklahoma man attached no explanation and the publisher, called upon this correspondent for information as to the feeding habits of turtles.

Capitalizes On Family

The only suggestion that was made was that they be given all-bran in the morning and steak sandwiches in the evening. If they are still alive at this writing, the publisher is to be congratulated.

In the same town there is a man who has five sets of twins and one odd child. All of the twins are boys, save one, and the odd child is a boy.

The father is unemployed, and is thinking about capitalizing on his family. He thinks it would be best, however, to have all the twin boys, so he is taking the odd child and working him in as a twin in place of the girl.

This sounds very complicated but he assured the traveling reporter that it would work out all right when he gets uniforms on all the kids.

'WHO'S WHO' LISTING MORE COLLEGE WOMEN

Increasing Number of Graduates Yearly Gaining in Prominence.

By Science Service

YONKERS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—An increasing proportion of the women successful enough to have attained a listing in "Who's Who in America" are women who have attended college, Bertha Beach Tharp reported in an article in the current issue of the Scientific Monthly.

Only 32.25 per cent of the women listed in the 1933 edition of "Who's Who in America" had had college training, as compared with 51.5 per cent of those in the 1929 edition. The proportion for the different occupations varied in 1929 from less than 20 per cent of women musicians and actresses to 100 per cent of the lawyers and physicians.

CORONER'S OFFICE IS SETTING FOR WEDDING

Location Is Chosen as Only Available Place in Courthouse.

Grim shadows of tragedy were draped Monday at the coroner's office and romance came into the room where grief is the every-day setting.

With no other quiet place in the courthouse for their wedding, William Goodall and Mary Scoggins, Negroes, found a haven in the coroner's office and were married there, with the Rev. A. M. Moses of Zion Baptist church, officiating.

POLICEMAN GETS FINE

Failure to Carry Shotgun in Cruiser Draws Chief's Ire.

By United Press

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 15.—From now on, Patrolman C. M. Kemble probably will carry a shotgun in his radio police car. He was fined $25 by Police Chief Frank Truxer for failure to have the weapon in the cruiser one night when a burglar escaped his revolver shots.

Paving Contract Awarded

The state highway commission today awarded a contract to Roger Daust, Defiance, O., for the paving of State Road 24, west of Logansport, 2.7 miles of concrete. The contract price was $103,860.22.

Airy Retort

Airplane Passenger Loses the Last Word to Stewardess.

By United Press

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 15.—A Kansas City-Chicago air liner asked a passenger to put his light out, and go to sleep.

The stewardess asked him to take another seat to let other people sleep.

He wouldn't. "I'll have to stop the plane," said the stewardess, "and have you put off."

The passenger laughed at the idea. "Stop the plane, indeed, what nonsense!"

Later, he told authorities who rushed to the emergency landing field here, that the stewardess acted like boss of the plane.

"And she was," he said as he took his brief case, and rode back to town.

JESSE JAMES TACTICS USED IN BUS ROBBERIES

Bandits in West Steal Baggage While Vehicle Is in Motion.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 15.—With nerve rivaling that of the notorious Jesse James, bandits have attacked several Omaha Rapid Transit busses, bound to Denver from Salt Lake City, stealing baggage on the roof of the busses while they were in motion.

O. M. Harvey, manager, reported to police in the same manner twice during the past few weeks. Approximately $1,000 worth of baggage was taken in one loot, he said.

The bandits drove alongside the bus as it traveled at a rate of 45 miles per hour. A man standing on the running board of the robbers' car, extended a board from the roof of the coach to their machine. Then he crawled to the bus and tossed baggage into the outlaw car.

The company recently stationed a man with the baggage. When the bandits attempted to make the connection, he struck them down with a club.

WATER YIELD OF LAND RAISED BY DEFORESTING

Opposing View to Accepted Belief Result of Tests by Engineers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Stripping off the forest cover does not decrease the water which can be obtained from a given area of land; contrary to widely accepted beliefs, it actually increases the water yield. This disagreement with orthodox forestry creed is presented by W. G. Hoyt and H. C. Troxell, hydraulic engineers of the United States geological survey, as the result of experiments which have been conducted in two typical watersheds in the west, one of which was deliberately deforested, while the other lost a chaparral cover accidentally through fire.

By measuring the water yields before the forest cover was removed, immediately afterward while the ground was still bare, and through several subsequent years while the areas were growing up in brush, a considerable mass of comparative data was accumulated.

TWO YOUTHS TO BE MASTERS OF HUGE FORTUNES

Lives of Young Vanderbilt and Astor Parallel in Many Ways.

BY H. ALLEN SMITH

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The wheel of time turns this summer to bring two American boys, scions of this country's front line aristocracy, into fortunes which were accumulated as the nation developed.

John Jacob Astor III became 21 Monday, and now assumes control of immense wealth.

His friend, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt Jr., will not reach his majority until Sept. 22, when he, too, comes into a fortune.

The coincidence of their ages is by no means the only parallel in their lives.

Each lost his father in a major marine disaster. Jack's father, John Jacob Astor, died when the Titanic sank in 1912, and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt Sr. met death in 1915, when a German submarine torpedoed the Cunard liner Lusitania off the Irish coast.

The wealth of the elder Astor, who died some four months before the birth of his son, was estimated two years after his death at $87,218,791. Of this sum, Vincent Astor, half-brother of Jack, received $69,000,000.

Drawn Before Disaster

In one of the few instances of its nature on record, the elder Astor made provision in his will for the unborn child, having drawn up the testament a short time before he sailed on the Titanic.

The Astor millions came mainly from real estate in New York, after old John Jacob, the immigrant from Waldo, had established its foundations in the fur trade.

Young Vanderbilt, in September, inherits a share in a $17,360,522 fortune. The Vanderbilt wealth, which came principally from railroads, was merged with the Emerson Bromo Seltzer fortune when Alfred Gwynne's father married into the Emerson family.

Neither of these two young heirs has attended college. They have led sheltered lives, shunning all manner of publicity. They are not known to the hot spots of Broadway, and they remain pretty much in seclusion.

Doubts College Value

Jack Astor, when he returned last winter from a world cruise, described his trip as being the equivalent of university training. "I begin to doubt," he told ship news reporters, "the value of wasting time in college."

He lives with his aunt, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, at Newport, R. I., and is of athletic bent, going in for races, hunts, tennis and other sports.

His mother, the former Madeline Talmadge, was his father's second wife.

In June, 1916, Mrs. Astor married William K. Dick, and by the terms of the Astor will relinquished $50,000,000 and the palatial home on Fifth avenue.

Recently she divorced Dick and there has been some talk of a romance with a prize fighter, Enzo Fiermonte, who once was hired to give young Jack instructions in self-defense.

Young Vanderbilt at present is engaging himself racing a stable of horses at Saratoga.

HOME LOAN OFFICES TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

Six Branches in Various Parts of State to Be Ready.

Coincident with the opening of the Indianapolis office of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in the old Farmers Trust Company at 8:30 Wednesday morning, branches in six other state cities also will be ready for business.

E. Kirk McKinney, state manager, was to return from Washington tonight to handle opening of the offices.

It is expected that a large crowd will be on hand, seeking federal aid. The policy of the institution will be to aid only those persons in distress who are in danger of losing their homes, due to financial difficulties.

Other offices will open at Ft. Wayne, Evansville, South Bend, Gary, Richmond and Terre Haute.

Circus Reaches City for Two Big Performances

Scenes at the Tented City

Open up another barrel of adjectives and tear the dictionary into shreds. Put on your Sunday best and array the urchins in their best bib and tucker, and come along, for we're going to the circus, and from a ringside seat study the latest fads and frills in clowning.

To really prove who enjoys the colorful fad of the circus show world a panorama of the circus campus at the old ball park on West Washington street, where the gigantic Ringling and Barnum & Bailey circus is showing its wares this afternoon, and will again tonight repeat its Golden Jubilee year program at 8 o'clock, will probably show gray-haired granddads leading little Ernest about with big Clarence and the missus trailing behind.

As an inseparable part of the American scene, the circus takes the biscuits every time.

Early this morning while the greater part of the city slept, four trainloads of spangled glories, clowns, tents, elephants, animals, horses, performers, giant ant eaters, giraffe-necked misses from Burma, freaks, gill, glitter and what have you pulled into Indianapolis from Kankakee and proceeded to install its encampment at the show grounds with half the bother that usually attends a May day moving.

But early in the circus arrived, the usual reception committee composed of the younger social set was on hand to greet the red wagons, and in many a home this morning dads announced, "Dad it all, how can anybody sleep with that kid galloping around the house at such an unearthly hour?" and then sidled out the side door to catch up with little Elmer, half a block from the house, to join him on his pilgrimage to the circus grounds.

It's all here, wide awake and raring to go, with what has everywhere been characterized as the best performance ever given under the Ringling-Barnum aegis.

New features are as plentiful as huckleberries in August, and the great new spectacle of the Delhi Durbar, which starts the circus ball of rolling is the most pretentious offering ever made under canvas.

This way to the big show!

CIRCUS FAN INJURED

Boy, 14, on Way to Grounds, Hurt in Fall Off Truck.

Lure of the circus brought injuries today to George Beweley, 14, of 552 North Belmont avenue.

He hopped a ride on a truck to carry him to the site on South Belmont avenue where the Ringling Brothers' show is unloading. En route, the truck struck a bump, hurling the boy to the pavement. He incurred bruises.

Charles E. Dike, 41, of Princeton, driver, said he was not aware that the boy had boarded the truck.

'CHERRY LEAF' BABY TEST IN HIGH DISFAVOR

Artificial Reproduction of Human Beings Flouted by Biologists.

By Science Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Biologists, skeptical to the last degree of the effort of Earl E. Dudding of Huntington, W. Va., to produce a child by injecting a cherry leaf extract into his wife's blood stream, see in his project merely a pseudo-scientific attempt to bring about in a human being an event that is fairly common among certain lower organisms—the type of birth known as parthenogenesis.
