

NURSE'S ATTACK CHARGE DENIED BY POLO STAR

'I Acted as a Gentleman,' Is Answer: Court Action Is Delayed.

By United Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Cecil Smith, the Texan who led the western polo team to victory in the first national contest, today publicly denied charges that he attacked Miss Eugenia Rose, 23-year-old nurse, in Hubbard Woods last Friday.

Hearing of attack charges filed against Smith may not be held until Friday, when the $5,000 bond Smith posted is returnable.

Dr. Gary Baker, Miss Rose's fiancé, said her parents had arrived from Cooperstown, N. D., and that she would retain private counsel.

Rally to Smith's Aid

Meanwhile, socialite friends of Smith in exclusive north shore suburbs rallied to his side, obtaining at least five witnesses to testify that Smith was not gone from their presence more than an hour and forty minutes.

Miss Rose filed her charges the day before Smith appeared in the final game of the east-west polo series. She said the attack occurred while Smith was taking her to her home from the Lake Forest hospital where she attended Rube Williams, another western star, who was injured last Wednesday in the second game of the series. She said she fought Smith for two hours before succumbing to the attack.

"Acted Like Gentleman"

"I drove Miss Rose home Friday night, and did what any gentleman would have done under similar circumstances," Smith stated.

"That night Rube Williams was transferred to his hotel room from the hospital, where he was confined since his leg injury."

"I escorted Miss Rose and Rube to the hotel room. After Miss Rose gave him some pills before taking her departure, Rube asked her how she was going home. She replied on the interurban."

"I offered to drive her home because he had been so kind to Rube. Miss Rose and I left the room together, descended to the lobby and got into my car, which was parked outside."

"Talked About Polo"

"It was then 10:20 p. m. We drove south to Evanston, engaging in civil conversation, mostly about polo and its fascination. The drive took about an hour and forty-five minutes. I delivered her to her door at 2118 Central avenue."

"I got out of the car, and took her to the door, bidding her good-by and thanking her. She in turn wished me luck in the Sunday game. 'There was at no time any play of indiscretion on my part. I can not understand Miss Rose's charges unless they are a deliberate frame-up. I will stay in town until I am cleared.'"

Smith added that he is anxious to go east to start training for the international polo matches next month.

STRICKEN WHILE HE CUTS GRASS

Newton Runyan, 83, Dies at Work in Yard of His Nephew.

Crouching under a summer sun, laboriously cutting grass with a pair of scissors, Newton Runyan, 83, suddenly slumped to the ground today in the yard at the home of his nephew, C. B. Reddick, at 1346 Linden street.

A few minutes later, he died, after being carried into the house by neighbors, while a 91-year-old sister, Mrs. Charlotte Reddick, plaintively insisted on being at his side.

According to Dr. E. R. Wilson, deputy coroner, Runyan died of heart disease, to which he had been subject for several years. The body was released to the family at once.

To Dr. Wilson the task of informing the aged sister of the death. Fears of the neighbors proved unfounded, however, for Mrs. Reddick, with the resignation of the aged, accepted the news without demonstration.

Runyan had made his home with the Reddicks for nearly a year, and previously had operated a store south of the city. A wife and five children, from whom Runyan has been separated for years, are believed to live in Chicago. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

CRANKS BOTHER ANTI-CRIME ACE

One Letter Suggests Probe of Church Raffle.

By Scripps-Herald Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Crank letters have begun to flow in to Joseph B. Keenan, "ace" of the government's anti-crime campaign. One letter writer suggests that he declare martial law, arrest all suspicious persons and hold them until they can prove their innocence.

Another wants him to investigate the "racket" of a back-alley dice game, another wants him to do something about a church raffle, still another is interested in prosecuting the telephone company for charging him for a telephone call he didn't make.

Keenan asked the populace to send their complaints of crime and he's getting them by the hundreds. After a nation-wide broadcast he received a long-distance call from a midwestern manufacturer.

"I want to tell you," said the excited caller, "about an attempt to kidnap my daughter." And he told the story in detail.

"I'll get after it right away," said Keenan. "When did it happen?" "Oh, about two years ago," replied the caller, "but I thought you might still be able to do something about it."

JUST SMILES AS FIGHT FOR LIFE STARTS

Alleged 'Bathtub Murderer' Unperturbed at Trial for Wife Murder.

BY DAN BOWERMAN

United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 22.—David A. Lamson, accused of beating his wife to death because of an overwhelming and frustrated love for her, laughed frequently as his trial on murder charges got under way.

The 31-year-old minor official of Stanford university was less tense than attorneys and prospective jurors.

Prosecutor Allan Lindsay's reconstruction of the violent death of Allene Thorpe Lamson pictures her husband as a highly-keyed man, intellectual, subject to explosive tempers, and with a mentality that is alleged to have caused him to crush life from the wife he loved to distraction.

If Lamson, author, playwright, poet and amateur actor, was playing a part in his coolness today, it rivaled the one the state alleges he played when he found the nude body of his wife in the bathtub of their Stanford campus home last May 30.

It was a jovial, neighborly David Lamson who raked leaves in his back yard that forenoon. Smiling, he entered the back door of his home, to admit callers at the front.

A minute later he opened the front door. He was deathly pale, near collapse.

"My God," he cried in agony then, "Allene has been murdered!"

The state charged Mrs. Lamson had been beaten to death by Lamson some time before, the body placed in the tub by him, and that he was fully aware of her death as he cheerfully worked in his yard.

Underneath the outward evidences of mutual love that caused Stanford friends to call the Lamsons "the ideal couple," the state alleged, was jealousy alleged to have been caused by Lamson's trips to Sacramento to visit a woman with whom he was engaged in a literary enterprise.

Allene, it was charged, resorted to subterfuge the previous night to reveal her husband's advances. When he discovered the deception in the morning, according to the state theory, he killed her.

The defense maintains discovery of her body as he walked through the house was an unerring shock to him.

Defense Attorney Edward Rea and Prosecutor Lindsay warred as they questioned venemen regarding their views on the death penalty. Lamson remained fresh and cheerful.

He frequently whispered to Rea. Twelve talesmen had been dismissed and four, all women, tentatively accepted as adjournment for the day ended.

ISSUES WARNING ON POOR RELIEF

Book Tells Townships to Levy Enough to Repay Federal Loans.

Warning to Indiana township and county officials that the federal government will not meet more than 50 per cent of poor relief expenditures after Aug. 1 was issued today by William H. Book, director of the Governor's unemployment relief commission.

Book pointed out in letters sent to every county that townships should levy enough to reimburse the county for allowances and to repay all federal aid sums advanced during the year, or face the prospect of no further federal assistance in poor relief.

He announced also that the state accounts board has ruled that poor relief advancements to the townships must be regarded as an indebtedness of the township, which must be levied for outside the $150 property tax limitation.

Repayment of federal aid will not be required next year, the letter explained, but the method of fixing the poor relief levy suggested is "the surest method of procuring sufficient revenue to meet the township's cost of poor relief."
