

Ruth Page Resides in Metal Home

Residence on Bluff in Chicago Overlooks Lake Michigan.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN
Times Woman's Page Editor
HEN Indianapolis friends of Ruth Page call on her as Mrs. Tom Fisher in Chicago, they'll be received in her new pre-fabricated home, which is the creation of her young brother-in-law, Howard T. Fisher, architect.

It was only recently that the last steel sections were set together on a bluff overlooking the lake on Sheridan road near Hubbard Woods. Miss Page has furnished her trim little steel home in appropriate metal furniture and accessories.

Her dance studio, a square white building near the entrance of the grounds, is quite apart in design from her modernistic home. Gifts and collections gathered together on her travels as a dancer provide a rich note, lacking in the metallic trend of her home.

Collection on Console

Her music is held in a decorated chest from Shansi. Chinese masks and Tibetan ornaments hang on the walls. A collection of tiny eastern dolls is arranged on a console.

Scattered here and there are Chinese and Burmese head-dresses, Japanese figures and rare fabrics from Bali. Heavy curtains from Damascus hang at the windows.

In contrast windows of the ready-made house are shielded with white Venetian blinds, and draped with beige and white striped curtains, which blend with the beige walls.

Tiny Piano From Sweden
The walls and ceilings of the bedrooms are painted in various colors. In the dining room horizontal panels of blue linoleum tile cover the walls, and insets of chromium steel provide a design.

The dining table is circular and of clear glass with a mirror edge, and the white fabric chairs of the room have metal frames.

The highlight of the drawing room is a Noguchi drawing hanging above a mono-metal mantel. One of the loveliest pieces of furniture in the room is the tiny piano, which was delivered from Sweden.

Takes Sun Baths on Roof
Miss Page takes sun baths on the roof of the flat-topped house. A winding steel staircase leads to the roof on the outside of the house.

Down the lake and across neighboring estates Miss Page can gaze as she rests in comfortable low, metal porch furniture.

Miss Page and her husband are the first to occupy one of the houses, planned by her brother-in-law after he studied contemporary housing problems with an idea of reducing costs and inefficiency.

Miss Page's mother, Mrs. LaFayette Page, probably will visit the new home on her return from a trip to Long Island.

K. K. G. SORORITY TO FETE PLEDGES

Misses Bernice Grant and Adelaide Gould will be hostesses tonight at the home of Miss Gould, 414 East Fall Creek parkway, for members of their pledge group in the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Guests will include Miss Nina Mae Jarvis of Sioux City, S. D., who is visiting in the city; Mrs. Joseph Schleen and Mrs. Herbert Owen, both of Shelbyville, Miss Dione Kerlin of Kokomo, and Misses Dorothy Grimes, Margaret Stitz, Mary Beem, Myla Smith, Vera Snodgrass and Joan Johnson.

BRIDGE PARTY IS GIVEN BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Mary Urbancic entertained with a buffet shower and bridge party Monday night at her home, 914 North Holmes avenue, for Miss Mary Elizabeth Yates, whose marriage to Anthony N. Haag will take place Sept. 4. She was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Joseph Urbancic, and her sister, Miss Christian Urbancic.

Guests with the bride-elect included her mother, Mrs. Michael Yates, and the bridegroom-elect's mother, Mrs. John Haag, and Mesdames Charles Hockley, Erwin Holing and Misses Betty and Henrietta Tuttle, Alice and Mary Connor, Cecilia Davey, Wilma Buchman and Emma Zimvar.

Hostess to Club
Miss Janet Hill, 6051 Central avenue, will be hostess tonight for a meeting of the Thesi Club.

Daily Recipe STUFFED GREENS

Prepare about two pounds of greens (beet tops, leeks, spinach, or any other greens) and cook them until they are tender. Drain them, chop them fine, and add salt, pepper and butter to taste. The two pounds should make about one quart of greens after they are chopped.

Put one-half of the greens on a greased baking pan and flatten them with a spoon to form a layer. Cover with a layer of stuffing about one inch in depth. Then add the remainder of the greens, and spread the top layer to cover the stuffing.

Place three thin slices of bacon across the top. Bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Serve on a hot platter with horse-radish sauce. Stuffing: One cup fine dry bread crumbs, one-half cup cold ham, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon chopped onion, one teaspoon horse-radish sauce, crushed tomato, canned or fresh, to moisten. Mix thoroughly.

New Fall Fashion Prints

An interesting sleeve treatment and a softly bloused bodice are two fall fashion points featured in this Jean Patou model in turtle-dove grey crepe.

Manners and Morals

BY JANE JORDAN

Letters of opinion are just as welcome as questions. Write to the editor and your letter will be published.

Dear Jane Jordan—Since you say all are invited to write either to agree or disagree with "Grandmother's" letter, I seat myself with pen in hand to write you a few lines. I'm a Great-Grandpa, and I'm a tellin' ye I think she's given ye about the best sort of good common sense.

I've seen for a coon's age.

I believe, like her, that birth control is all right in some cases. Maybe I have more cases than Grandma has. Howsoever, I really think she's wrong in her rate of percentage. If she'd turn it around and say that 90 per cent ought to practice birth control because of financial reasons, she would be nearer right in her calculations. Since 3 per cent of the people in these United States own and control more than 90 per cent of the wealth, that leaves the other 97 per cent of the people to own the remaining 10 per cent, and I take that as pretty good argument in favor of birth control.

Some of your answers are just fine, couldn't be better. Then again, some are not so fine, sort of clumsy like. A while back a young woman wrote ye about her happy married life with her husband and two children, a perfect heaven, it was, until she learned he had been over the fence.

She said it broke her heart and ruined their lives and you had not one word of fault to find with this man for that. When she took the same course, you ridiculed her for her act, and told her her ego was offended.

Again, when he became enraged and beat up on her, you hadn't a word to say again him for that. I don't say she took the right course. She should have got a good size baseball bat and knocked his dern dirty snout plumb off his noodle. If there ever was a man that needed killin' it's one like him; one thinks he has a right to do as he pleases, but demands that his wife walk straight.

Now one more pint and I'm through. You don't believe in whippin' children, ye say. Well, I do when they need it. I've seen 'em fore now so bad there was no livin' with 'em, and I also seed the reason why, too.

The parents, nearly allus the mother, was sittin' around readin' rodless rearin' books while she ought to a-been tannin' their jackets. On the other hand, I been in families where Dad and Mother dealt the rod in love.

Now, I don't think Grandma or me ever can convince ye or we'll just give up and say, "Oh, Merciful Father, have the gracious Godmother to take Jane and dry her, for she's all wet."

GRANDPA SCHREIBER.
Answer—Listen, Grandpa, I don't like an unfair husband any better than you do, but I don't believe you can reform him with a baseball bat. I don't feel justified in using up good space in calling him names, when I can put it to better use by telling his wife how to handle him.

You show one curious reaction which I often have noticed in other letters. Whenever I point out the fault of a person's behavior, it invariably is interpreted as ridicule. If I mention a wound to the ego, somebody always thinks I am making fun of the wounded party, whereas I only am stating a fact.

I have no faith in the rod dealt in love, and I do not believe the hypocritical parent who says, "This hurts me more than it hurts you." There follows a second letter from Grandmother. I referred a letter to her for answer in which a father didn't want a baby, and didn't love it when it came. I asked which was better—birth control or the unwelcome child.

Dear Jane Jordan—As you asked for my opinion of which would be best, birth control or the unwelcome baby, I am writing again. Presuming that the mother wanted the baby, I think it is much better that she has it. The woman is the one who does the suffering, so why should she go through life childless to satisfy such unreasonable selfishness?

Now she has a darling baby to love and work for, and if the mother's love is strong, the child will not suffer for the disinterest of the father. Unless he is a very abnormal person, he will come to love his child after a while, and treat it differently.

GRANDMOTHER.
Answer—It seems to me that you argue more from what the mother wants than from what is good for the child. Does the mere fact that a woman desires a baby justify her in having it, regardless of the conditions in which she must rear it?

The poor child can not be consulted, but if it could be, I doubt if it would choose an antagonistic father.

A disinterested father is bound to affect a child. Nothing can be worse for a child than the mother who overloves it, to make up for the father's lack. Errors leaving lifelong marks on the victim are almost inevitable in such situation.

Although your viewpoint is more sentimental than accurate, there is truth in your prediction that the father may come to love the child as it grows older. Many men dislike little babies, but are very fond of older children.

However, it still is a bad risk, and it's a pretty shabby trick to gamble with the happiness of an unborn child.

Dear Jane Jordan—A grandchild of 18 would like to say that she thoroughly disagrees with "Grandmother." If my parents had overruled their little infidelities, I would have had a home, but they separated when I was only 3. I have a stepmother and a stepfather, two houses to live in, but not a real home on earth.

Grandmother, in all the security of her mid-Victorian home, very easily can condemn birth control and talk of self-respecting wives, but would it not have been much better for me if my parents had practiced birth control until they discovered their incompatibility, or, if not that, if they had been willing to forgive and forget each other's philanderings in those first hard years of marriage?

A GRANDCHILD.
Answer—Grandmother may reply to this letter if she wishes.

Dear Jane Jordan—Grandmother says in part, "No self-respecting woman would overlook her husband's infidelities." I am sure you now so bad there was no livin' with 'em, and I also seed the reason why, too.

The parents, nearly allus the mother, was sittin' around readin' rodless rearin' books while she ought to a-been tannin' their jackets. On the other hand, I been in families where Dad and Mother dealt the rod in love.

Now, I don't think Grandma or me ever can convince ye or we'll just give up and say, "Oh, Merciful Father, have the gracious Godmother to take Jane and dry her, for she's all wet."

GRANDPA SCHREIBER.
Answer—Listen, Grandpa, I don't like an unfair husband any better than you do, but I don't believe you can reform him with a baseball bat. I don't feel justified in using up good space in calling him names, when I can put it to better use by telling his wife how to handle him.

You show one curious reaction which I often have noticed in other letters. Whenever I point out the fault of a person's behavior, it invariably is interpreted as ridicule. If I mention a wound to the ego, somebody always thinks I am making fun of the wounded party, whereas I only am stating a fact.

I have no faith in the rod dealt in love, and I do not believe the hypocritical parent who says, "This hurts me more than it hurts you." There follows a second letter from Grandmother. I referred a letter to her for answer in which a father didn't want a baby, and didn't love it when it came. I asked which was better—birth control or the unwelcome child.

Dear Jane Jordan—As you asked for my opinion of which would be best, birth control or the unwelcome baby, I am writing again. Presuming that the mother wanted the baby, I think it is much better that she has it. The woman is the one who does the suffering, so why should she go through life childless to satisfy such unreasonable selfishness?

Now she has a darling baby to love and work for, and if the mother's love is strong, the child will not suffer for the disinterest of the father. Unless he is a very abnormal person, he will come to love his child after a while, and treat it differently.

GRANDMOTHER.
Answer—It seems to me that you argue more from what the mother wants than from what is good for the child. Does the mere fact that a woman desires a baby justify her in having it, regardless of the conditions in which she must rear it?

Oct. 6 Date for Opening Club Season

President's Day Event Will Be Held at Propylaeum.

A variety of topics will be considered by the Indianapolis Woman's Club, which will open its year with a president's day observance Oct. 6 at the Propylaeum. Mesdames D. Laurence Chambers, chairman of the affair, will be assisted by Mrs. Earl B. Barnes and Mrs. Warack Wallace.

Club activities this term will be directed by Mrs. Theodore B. Griffith as president, assisted by other officers: Mrs. Henry W. Butolph, vice-president; Mrs. Erwin C. Stout, recording secretary; Miss Clara McDonald Ketcham, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Harvey Elam, treasurer.

Discussions Are Listed

Several of the programs include discussions of "Bird Flights" by Mrs. Robert B. Feiler; "Not in Future Forgetfulness," by Mrs. Thor G. Wesenberg; "Galsworthy," by Miss Anne Fraser; Mark Twain's "America," by Mrs. Edward Taggart; "A Century of Progress," by Mrs. Robert A. Hendrickson, and "College for Life," by Mrs. R. Shirley Sherwood. Other members of the organization will contribute topics at the cultural meetings.

Guest day will be observed Nov. 17 with an informal tea and program presented by Miss Genevieve Scoville and Mrs. Wendell Sherk. The nominating committee chosen at the meeting Feb. 16 will report its candidates for election March 9 when new directors of the club will be chosen.

Guest Day Scheduled

The second guest day is scheduled for April 6 and the concluding meeting will be held June 1. Annual reports and a resume of the year's business will be given at this time.

Mrs. Charles A. Pfaffin and Mrs. Warren K. Mannon will present the program.

Miss Mona Taggart, chairman of the executive committee, has as her assistants, Mrs. Guy M. Shandiger, Mrs. Vernon Hahn, Miss Evelyn Butler and Mrs. Henry Jameson. Other committees are membership; Mrs. Warack Wallace, chairman, Mesdames Louis Burkhardt, Daniel L. Grossbrenner, Noble Dear, and Robert Hendrickson; room; Mrs. Charles Robertson; chairman, Mrs. Mannon, Mesdames Carlos Recker, Frank Streightoff and Grier Shotwell.

PARTY IS PLANNED FOR CALIFORNIANS

Mrs. Stephen T. Bogert will receive informally at her home on the Pendleton pike, from 3 to 5 Friday afternoon. She will be assisted by her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Schofield. The affair is in honor of Mrs. Bogert's sister, Mrs. J. O. Shultz, and her niece, Miss Rhoda Mace, both of Los Angeles. There are no invitations.

SIGMA ALPHA TO INSTALL OFFICERS

Miss Hannah Silver will be installed as president of the Alpha Chi chapter of Sigma Alpha sorority at the dinner party Wednesday night at the Charm house.

Other officers who will take the oath of office are Miss Lois Huey, vice-president; Miss Ada Haase, treasurer; Miss M. M. Schaefer, recording secretary; Miss Minnie Lee Delp, corresponding secretary, and Miss Thelma Parks, historian.

Miss Clevenger Bride

The marriage of Miss Mary Clevenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clevenger, Kokomo, to Lloyd Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snyder, Zionsville, took place Sunday morning at the Union Street Friends church in Kokomo. The couple will live at 1907 North Kentucky street in Kokomo.

Honor Bride-Elect

Mrs. Edward Overbeck entertained with a miscellaneous shower and party Saturday night for Miss Louise Overbeck, who will be married to Alvin Wiedenhaup, this month. There were thirty-six guests.

Personals

Mrs. Russell H. Gilmore and son Richard have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher at Nabb.

Miss Eunice Toothacker of South Bend, will come this week to be the house guest of Miss Nidrah Dunn, Rockville road.

Misses Eileen Howard and Margaret Fries, who have been visiting their cousin, Miss Leona Tonnies, 6448 Broadway, have returned to their home in Covington, Ky. Miss Tonnies has left to spend a few days in Chicago.

Miss Jean Underwood has returned from Lake Maxinkuckee, where she has been visiting Miss Elizabeth Heiskell at the Heiskell summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen L. Miller and Miss Mary Margaret Miller, 3935 Washington boulevard, have returned from a visit in Charlevoix and Leland, Mich.

Mrs. Guy Johnson has returned from a visit in Cincinnati and Chicago.

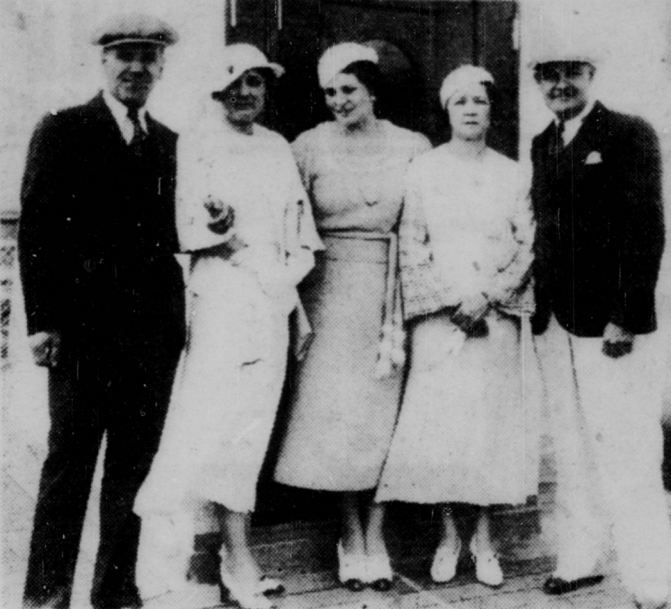

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Foley, 44 East Fifty-second street, are the guests of Mrs. Henry W. Lawrence in Ogdensburg, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Erwin of Mt. Vernon are the guests this week of Mrs. Erwin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Q. Biegler, 3738 Broadway. Mrs. Erwin, before her recent marriage, was Miss Kathleen Biegler.

Misses Jane and Irma Drake left Monday for a visit at the Rogers cottage at Lake Maxinkuckee.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Williston and daughters, Misses Jane and Beth Ann Williston, and Edward Campbell, have returned from a visit in Wisconsin and Canada. The engagement of Miss Jane Williston to Mr. Campbell has been announced.

City Folk Cruise Abroad

Left to Right—Ralph W. Lieber, Mrs. Gladys L. Smith, Mrs. Lieber, Mrs. A. R. C. Kipp and Mr. Kipp.

Seen aboard the S. S. Reliance cruising in a Norwegian fjord are these Indianapolis residents: Mr. and Mrs. A. R. C. Kipp, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Lieber and Mrs. Gladys L. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Kipp now are making a tour of Europe following the conclusion of the visit in the northern wonderlands and Russia. They expect to return the end of this month.

Patterns

Pattern Department, Indianapolis Times, Indianapolis, Ind.

Enclose find 15 cents for which send Pattern No. 5286

Size .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

Name .....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....