

—Let's Go Fishing—
MORE PRIZES ARE POSTED IN FISH CONTEST

Three Medals to Be Given in Each Event: Anglers Getting Busy.

BY LEFTY LEE
Times Fishing Editor

Let's go, boys! The boy who has made the Let's Go Fishing contest possible, Walter Jones of the George J. Mayer Company, has added to the rewards for this contest, creating second and third prizes in each event. The winner of each event will be awarded a gold medal, second place, silver medal, and third, bronze medal.

All you have to do to win one of these awards, that will last a lifetime, is to catch one of the size they tell about, bring it in to The Times, have it weighed and registered, and then hope no one else catches a larger one. All waters in Indiana are open, which will be a great help to keep the contest alive. O. Stewart Imhoff, president of the Marion County Fish and Game Association, reported the first bass for this contest, a four-pound small mouth, but he did not bring it in to The Times, so it is impossible for us to enter it, even though the evidence of the catch is unimpeachable.

The contest is open until Nov. 1, to give the bass that have failed all season time to take your lure.

H. Von Wahede of Anderson was surprised any one could be when a four-pound walleye pike took his bait while he was fishing for blue gill, in Silver Lake, up in Michigan. The fish destroyed his leader on the first strike, but was good enough to strike again when this angler prepared for him.

George Daus, former big league star who performed on the mound for Detroit for fourteen years, visited his parents last week, and took in some fishing trips. Friday, Daus, with his brother, Bud, and his nephew, 12-year-old Johnny Gilbert of St. Louis, and the writer took a trip to the lake at Fillmore. As the blue gill were biting, a good time was had. In fact, Daus returned to this spot again Saturday. The greatest thrill went to the youngster, and he was certainly proud when he returned to display the largest fish, with the assertion that he was the one who caught it. Daus is a resident of St. Louis now, but loves to come back to the old home town.

Louis Henderson, superintendent of the Indiana Blind plant, proved that you must wait them out, when he took his limit of black bass on the Tippecanoe, at Pukaski, Sunday. Henderson fished all day without a strike until dusk, and then they hit fast and furious. The fish weighed between one and one-half and two pounds, and were taken on a white bass hook.

Team events of the international fly casting tourney at Chicago were won by a well-balanced Cleveland team headed by Eddie Braddon, the new all-round champion, with a score of 39 points. Chicago was second; Buffalo, third; Ft. Dodge and the Illinois Casting Club tied for fourth. Indianapolis finished in seventh place, one point behind Seattle.

Louis Smith, a carpenter at the courthouse, had some real sport on Sugar creek at Brown, Ind., landing a 21-inch bass and three smaller ones, at Little Broad Ripple. Smith used soft crawfish for bait.

Charles E. Cox Jr., superintendent of operations at the Indianapolis airport, has turned author, and has a very clever and interesting story in this month's Hunting and Fishing Magazine. The title of Cox' effort is "A Day in the Magic Valley," and takes in a day of great sport with dog and gun in the hills of Brown county. But you read the story.

Walt Roeder has been very quiet to date, but he can be depended upon to bring in a big one any day now, when cool weather comes along.

Joe Walte also is set now to go out and get them, as he has a new boat that is a dandy.
